The Local Government may invest, within such local limits as it from time to time appoints, any Subordinate Judge with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes for the trial of suits cognizable by such Courts, up to the amount of five hundred rupees, and any Munsif with similar jurisdiction up to the amount of fifty rupees; and may, whenever it thinks fit, withdraw such jurisdiction from the Subordinate Judge or Munsif so invested.

Suspension of Munsifs by High Court.

33. The High Court may appoint a Commission for enquiring into the alleged misconduct of any Munsif.

On receiving the report of the result of any such enquiry, the High Court may, if it thinks fit, remove the Munsif from office, or suspend him, or reduce him to a lower grade.

The provisions of Act No. XXXVII of 1850 (for regulating enquiries into the behaviour of public servants), shall apply to enquiries under this section, the powers conferred by that Act on the Government being exercised by the High Court.

The High Court may also, previous to the appointment of such Commission, suspend any Munsif pending the result of the enquiry.

The High Court may, without appointing any such Commission, remove or suspend any Munsif, or reduce him to a lower grade.

Suspension of Munsifs by District Judges.

34. Any District Judge may, whenever he sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend from office any Munsif under his control.

Whenever a District Judge suspends from office any such Munsif, he shall forthwith send to the High Court a full report of the circumstances of the suspension, together with the evidence, if any, and the High Court shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

Power to punish such Officers.

Every such Court may, by order, remove or suspend from office, or fine in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any of its Ministerial Officers who is guilty of any misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office. And the District Judge, subject only to the general control of the Local Government, may on appeal or otherwise reverse or modify every such order.

Nothing in this section or in section thirty-five shall exempt the offender from any penal or other consequences to which he may be liable under any other law in force for the time being.

Transfer of Ministerial Officers.

37. The Local Government may, at the instance of the District Judge, transfer from any Court in the territories subject to such Government, to any other Court in the same territories, all or any of the Ministerial Officers of such Judge or of any Subordinate Judge or Munsif under his control.

The District Judge may transfer all or any of the Ministerial Officers of any Court under his control to any other such Court.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th February 1871, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to report within six weeks :—

A Bill to provide for the recovery of Land Revenue and the Mutation of Names in Assam.

Preamble.

WHEREAS there is not any sufficient provision for the recovery of Government revenue payable in respect of lands in Assam, nor any sufficient provision for the mutation of names, or remission of revenue therein: It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Arrears of assessment.

I. Any instalment of assessment which is not paid to the person entitled to receive the same on or before the day on which such assessment is payable according to the rules for the administration of land revenue in Assam, and which date shall be specified in the pottah, shall be held to be an arrear of assessment.

List of defaulters to be prepared and notice given to defaulters.

II. The mouzadar or other officer to whom the amount of assessment is payable shall, within a month after the expiration of the last day of payment, prepare and forward to the district or sub-divisional officer a list, in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor may by an order direct, of all defaulting ryots showing the amount due from each. Upon receiving the list, the district or sub-divisional officer shall issue a separate notice, in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may by an order direct, to each defaulter, warning him that unless the whole amount due, together with any expenses incurred by reason of his default, and cost incurred in serving the notice, be paid within ten days from the date of the notice being served upon him, his property, both moveable and immoveable, will be liable to be sold in satisfaction of the demand, and that should the proceeds of such sale not cover the demand, he himself will be liable to be imprisoned in the civil jail.

Mode of service of notice.

III. The notice shall be served personally if possible. If it cannot be served personally, it shall be left with an adult male member of the defaulter's family. If there be no adult male member, it shall be affixed to the door of the defaulter's usual place of residence. At the same time that the notice is served, attachment shall be made of all the said property, moveable and immoveable; but no proceeding under this Act shall be invalidated by reason of non-service or insufficient service of any such notice.

Power to remove names from defaulter's list.

IV. It shall be lawful for the defaulter, on whom the notice has been served, to appear in Court at any time within ten days after the service of such notice, and either by paying the amount of arrear and cost, or by proving, to the satisfaction of the Court, that he is not liable on account of it, to show cause why his name should be struck out of the defaulter's list, and the attachment of his property be removed.

V. At the expiration of ten days from the service of such notice, if the defaulter's name is still on the list, and he shall still neglect to pay the amount due by him, the district or sub-divisional officer shall issue a warrant directing the nazir to sell by public auction, after notice of not less than ten days, the property attached.

Attached property to be sold after ten days.

VI. Personal property alone shall, in the first instance, be sold, and if the proceeds of the sale be insufficient to liquidate the debt with costs, any real property of which the defaulter may be possessed may then be sold.

Personal property to be sold in first instance.

VII. Purchasers shall be required to pay at the time of sale the full amount of purchase-money in cash. If this is not done, the lot shall be resold at the risk of the first purchaser, and the district or sub-divisional officer shall recover the difference, if any, from the first purchaser as an arrear of assessment under these Rules.

Sales to be for cash at time of sale.

VIII. Whenever the proceeds of the sale of the defaulter's property, moveable and immoveable, are insufficient to cover the demand as reported under section II, the district or sub-divisional officer may, by a warrant under his hand, order the nazir to arrest such defaulter, and imprison him in the civil jail, and such nazir shall so arrest such defaulter and cause him to be lodged in the civil jail of the district.

Power to arrest defaulter.

IX. Immediately after the sale of the defaulter's property, if the proceeds are insufficient to cover the arrear, an enquiry shall be held to ascertain whether the defaulter or any one on his behalf, has wilfully concealed or made away with any other property belonging to the said defaulter.

Enquiry on means of defaulter to be held.

X. If it shall be proved that the defaulter, or any one acting on his behalf, has fraudulently made away with, or concealed any portion of, the said defaulter's property, and the amount realized from the sale of the portion attached be not sufficient to liquidate the debt, the defaulter may be imprisoned in the civil jail for a period of two months, if the amount still due be less than Rupees 15, four months if it be more than Rupees 15 and less than Rupees 50, and six months in any other case.

Penalty on fraudulent concealment.

XI. The imprisonment under section VIII shall, under no circumstances, continue for a longer period than fourteen days. At the expiration of that time the defaulter shall be released, unless in the interim an order has been passed under section X. Such release shall not be a bar to the issue of an order for arrest and imprisonment under section X.

Imprisonment, where no fraud not to exceed 14 days.

XII. Any person who has once been imprisoned under section X shall not again be liable to imprisonment for the same debt; but any property he may acquire shall be liable to attachment and sale in liquidation of it: provided that no such attachment shall be issued after the lapse of three years from the time when such person shall have been discharged from imprisonment.

Future property to be liable.

XIII. During the period that the defaulter may be in jail, the collecting officer, at whose instance he has been confined, shall pay to the jailor subsistance allowance for the support of the prisoner at a rate to be fixed by the district or sub-divisional officer; such rate not to exceed four annas, nor to be less than two annas per diem.

Subsistence allowance to be paid.

XIV. All fines or awards under the Rules for the Revenue Administration of Assam may be recovered in the same way as if it were an arrear of assessment under this Act due on the date the order therefor may have been passed.

Recovery of fines.

XV. All cases under this Act shall be received and decided by the Deputy Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner in charge of the sub-division, or may be referred by them for trial to any other Assistant Commissioner.

Jurisdiction.

XVI. An appeal from all decisions and orders of the Assistant Commissioner shall be allowed to the Deputy Commissioner, and to the Commissioner from all decisions and orders of the Deputy Commissioner, other than those passed on appeal; provided such appeal be made in the former case within fifteen days, and in the latter case within thirty days, from the date of the decision or order appealed against.

Appeal from decisions.

XVII. The Commissioner, however, at any time may call for and revise any proceedings of a subordinate court, whether original or appellate, and may pass any order in the matter that it would have been lawful for him to pass had an appeal been preferred to him.

Commissioner may revise proceedings.

XVIII. Nothing contained in this Act shall be held to apply to suits between lakhirajdars and other private land-owners and their tenants in Assam, or to the recovery of any arrear of assessment due by a Government tenant, unless proceedings be instituted within three months of the date on which such arrear becomes due.

Act not to apply to private demands.

XIX. Every person desiring to have his name entered in the revenue register for any plot or plots of land paying revenue direct to Government then standing in the name of some other person, shall file, in the office of the Assistant Commissioner, a petition, describing the position and boundaries of the land, and its area and number in Register (A) kept by him; he shall also file the pottah under which he claims such lands. The petitioner shall in such petition state the title by which he claims to have the land transferred to his name; and the person in whose name the land is already registered must also, by petition, give his consent to the transfer, and if any value has been paid shall mention receipt of such sum.

Petition for mutation of names.

XX. If the petition alleges the land to have been acquired by purchase, or by virtue of a document, copy of such document shall be filed with the petition.

Copies of documents to be filed.

XXI. On receipt of the petition the court shall cause the same to be entered in a register, and after comparing the description of the land as given in the petition with the settlement records, the court shall ascertain, in such manner as may seem fit, whether the applicant is in actual possession of the land mentioned in the petition, and shall issue a notice in a form to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, requiring every one desirous of opposing the mutation to appear, within fifteen days, and oppose the said mutation. Such notice shall be published by affixing the same on some conspicuous part of the said land.

Procedure on petition.

XXII. If within the period specified in the notice any adverse claim to the land is put forward, the court shall take the same into consideration; and if it shall appear that any question is raised which requires, or will require, a decision in a civil suit, the application for transfer shall be disallowed, and the parties referred to the civil court.

Power to transmit for decision of Civil Court.

XXIII. If no objection is raised within the period specified, or if any objection has been so preferred and has not been referred to the Civil Court under the preceding rule, the court may take such evidence or make such enquiries as it may deem necessary, to ascertain the validity of any document on which the claim is founded; or if the applicant claim to succeed as heir of the former occupant, may call for proof of the alleged heirship and then pass such orders as it may deem proper either for allowing or disallowing the transfer.

Procedure, if no opposition.

XXIV. When a pottahdar dies, the mouzadar shall not, without the authority of the Assistant Commissioner, transfer the holding to the heirs of the deceased. No transfer shall be legal without a decree of a civil court or an order made under the provisions of this Act; and until such decree or order in respect to any land shall have been communicated to the mouzahdar, he shall continue to measure such land in the name of the former occupier, recording at the time of measurement the name of the person in actual possession, and every person who shall be so in occupation shall be responsible for the payment of the assessment in the same manner as if he or they were the rightful successors of the late former occupier, and such record by the mouzahdar shall be primâ facie evidence of his being so in occupation.

Mouzahdars not to transfer without authority.

XXV. When any pottahdar removes out of a mouzah without resigning his land by written notice to the district or sub-divisional officer, he shall remain liable to the payment of the assessment of the said holding, unless and until such land shall be transferred to the name of some other person.

Pottahdar who does not resign to remain liable.

XXVI. Whenever the residence of any pottahdar is unknown to the mouzadar, and when any pottahdar dies and leaves no heirs, or no heirs known to the mouzadar, the mouzadar shall make a report to the sub-divisional officer for his order thereupon.

When residence of pottahdar unknown, report to be made.

XXVII. All applications for remission of revenue shall be made in the first instance by the ryot to the mouzadar, who, after personally enquiring into the truth of the alleged grounds for remission, shall forward the application with his report thereon to the Deputy Commissioner, and such Commissioner may, if he think fit, after due and strict enquiry, transmit such application and report with a full explanation for the approval and sanction of the Commissioner. In the case of applications for remission of revenue on land within a sub-division, the application should be submitted by the mouzadar to the Deputy Commissioner through the Assistant Commissioner. Applications for remission on account of wrong measurements or other causes unconnected with the condition of the crop shall be preferred within ten days of the pottah being given or tendered to the ryot.

Remission of revenue.

XXVIII. Every mouzadar shall, within one month after his appointment, make a report in writing to the Deputy Commissioner, and therein state the documents which he shall have received from his predecessor or otherwise.

Mouzadar to make reports.

XXIX. Every mouzadar who wilfully neglects his duty or wilfully disobeys any order of his superiors shall, in any case not coming within the provisions of the Indian Penal Code, be liable to fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, or suspension, or dismissal, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner.

Disobedience of orders by mouzadars.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE procedure for the recovery of arrears of revenue in the Province of Assam has been regulated by certain rules of practice, which have been in force for many years, though without the sanction of the legislature. Under the light assessments which prevailed in Assam recourse to punitive measures had seldom been found necessary, the Government revenue being generally paid in with punctuality. In the rules on the subject which have recently been framed by the revenue authorities, procedure by attachment of the property and arrest of the person of the defaulter have been proscribed by the local authorities, and it is essential to give the rules validity in such matters that they should have the force of law.

The object of the present Bill is to legalize the procedure to be observed where default occurs in the payment of the Government demand; and advantage has been taken of the introduction of the Bill to add certain provisions for the better regulation of transfers of holdings occupied by ryots paying directly to Government.

Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th February 1871, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to report within one month :—

A Bill to make better provision for the recovery of certain fines.

Preamble. WHEREAS difficulty has been experienced in the recovery of fines imposed under the authority of certain Acts heretofore passed; It is enacted as follows :—

Recovery of fines imposed under certain Acts. The provisions of sections LXIII, LXIV, LXV, LXVI, LXVII, LXVIII, LXIX, and LXX of the Indian Penal Code, and of section LXI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, shall apply to all fines to be hereafter imposed under the authority of any Act passed by the Governor General of India in Council before the passing of the Indian Councils' Act, or under the authority of any Act passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council before the 1st day of June 1867.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

BY section 4 of Act V. of 1867 (B.C.) provision is made for the recovery of fines imposed under the authority of any Act passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council after the passing of that Act. But no provision exists for the recovery of fines imposed under the authority of any Act passed by the same authority previously to the passing of Act V. of 1867.

As there are amongst the Acts passed by the Governor General of India in Council before the passing of the Indian Councils' Act, and by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council prior to the passing of Act V. of 1867, several enactments which do not sufficiently provide for the recovery of fines imposed under their authority, the object of this Bill is to supply that defect.

CHAPTER I.

Definitions.

Section I.—In the following Rules—

"Actual Service" includes the period during which an officer is on duty, also periods spent on privilege and subsidiary leave, and periods during which an officer, not on leave, may be out of employ on subsistence allowance in India.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. "Actual Service" also includes leave within the limits of the late East India Company's charter reckoned as service and residence under the rules in force before the 8th June 1855; also leave on urgent private affairs reckoned as service and residence under former Rules.

2. "Actual Service" also includes "Examination Leave" taken under CHAPTER VII, and not exceeding in the aggregate 12 months.

3. Leave without allowances, and junior furlough taken under medical certificate under the Rules in force before those of 1855, are neither to be credited as actual service, nor debited as furlough taken. (Vide Sections II and III).

"Extraordinary Leave" means any leave granted otherwise than under these Rules.

"Long Extraordinary Leave" means Extraordinary Leave extending beyond a period of three months.

"Long Furlough" means Furlough extending beyond a period of three months.

"Salary" includes acting allowances.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

4. The word "pay" as used in this Code signifies substantive pay; but it includes also the subsistence allowance drawn by an officer who has an officiating, but no substantive, appointment.

5. "Salary" is the sum of pay and acting allowance. It does not include house-rent, tentage, or travelling allowances, whether daily, monthly, or annual.

The rule for the exclusion of these allowances is a general one.

6. Salary does not include "local allowances," which are given in full to the officer performing the duty in respect of which they are given, no part being allowed to an absentee.

This construction applies generally.

An officer's "Station" means that station to which he stands appointed, or such other place as the Government to which he is subordinate may determine.

CHAPTER II.

Conditions on which furlough may be taken.

Section II.—The maximum period of furlough which can be granted to any officer during the whole period of his service, is limited to six years.

Section III.—Subject to the above limit, furlough shall be placed to the credit of each officer at the proportional rate of one year's furlough for every four years of actual service.

CONSTRUCTION.—An officer, who has taken leave on medical certificate under Leave Rules prior to those of 1868, shall not, for the purpose of this Section, be debited in his furlough account with such leave, up to the limit of one year. All such leave shall, however, be included in the maximum amount of six years fixed by Section II.

Illustration.—A has completed an actual service of 21 years 2 months and 10 days. He has had 15 months' sick leave under old Rules and 3 years' furlough. Under Section III A has earned by his actual service 5 years 3 months and 17 days' furlough. Against this must be debited 3 years' furlough and 3 months of the 15 months' sick leave, leaving at A's credit 2 years and 17 days' furlough. But as this, added to the 3 years' furlough and 15 months' sick leave already taken, would exceed the aggregate of 6 years by 3 months and 17 days, the excess must be deducted, leaving at A's credit 1 year and 9 months' furlough.

In this illustration sick leave does not include leave within Indian limits, under the Rules of May 1843, which has been declared (by Section I, Construction 1) to be actual service.

Section IV.—No furlough shall be taken before the completion of eight years' actual service, except under Section VIII.

Section V.—Furlough shall not be repeated until three years from the date of the last return from long extraordinary leave, or long furlough, except under Section VIII. Leave taken under CHAPTERS VI and VIII, but no other leave, shall be reckoned as part of the said three years.

SUBSIDIARY RULE.—Examination leave taken under CHAPTER VII (not exceeding 12 months in the aggregate) shall be reckoned as part of the said three years.

Section VI.—The maximum term of furlough to be taken at any one time shall be two years.

Section VII.—Except as hereinafter provided, an officer when on furlough shall retain a lien on his substantive appointment or on an appointment of similar character, and not less salary, and he shall be granted allowances at the rate of .50 per cent. of his average salary for the previous three years, or for the period which has elapsed since his last return from long furlough, or long extraordinary leave if that period be less than three years.

In calculating such average, the time spent and the allowances drawn under any leave, excepting privilege leave under CHAPTER VI, shall be omitted.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. In calculating such average, time spent (not exceeding 12 months in the aggregate) and allowances drawn on "Examination Leave" taken under CHAPTER VII shall not be omitted.

2. The three years referred to in this Section are the three years immediately preceding the date on which the officer taking leave makes over charge of his office whether his appointments during that period have been substantive or acting.

This rule applies also to the case of Military Officers in Civil employ.

3. A period spent without leave and without allowances (as for example when an officer overstays privilege leave or joining-time) is to be omitted from the three years on which the calculation of average salary is to be made under this Section. When any period is thus omitted, the calculation of average salary should be made on the allowances drawn during the remainder of the three years.

4. An officer retains no lien on an acting appointment during absence on any other leave than "Privilege" or "Examination Leave."

5. An officer has no claim to promotion while absent on furlough: but there is no objection to such promotion.

This rule applies generally.

6. If an officer's substantive appointment is changed while he is absent acting in another appointment, it is not necessary that he should join his new substantive appointment in order to obtain a lien upon it.

This rule applies to all Officers in Civil employ.

7. The allowances fixed by this Section are granted whether the officer has a substantive appointment or not.

Proviso.—Provided that no officer on furlough shall draw more than £1,000 or less than £500 per annum, unless his salary is less than £500, in which case he shall draw an allowance equal to his salary.

Note.—The limits of furlough allowance originally stood at £1,200 and £300 with an option (Section XXX) of accepting as limits £1,000 and £500.

From 7th August 1869 the £1,200 was reduced to £1,000, and the option was abolished. The result of these orders is that for furloughs taken on or before 7th August 1869 (but not for extensions of them commencing after that date), the limits are £1,200 and £500.

The minimum which after these orders stood at £300 is now raised to £500, or full salary if less than £500.

Section VIII.—Under medical certificate—

(a).—Furlough may be taken on the above-mentioned conditions, without reference to the amount at credit under Section III.

(b).—Furlough for a period not exceeding one year may be taken, even if less than three years have elapsed since the last return from long extraordinary leave or long furlough. When on furlough under this clause, an officer will not retain a lien on his appointment, and will be entitled only to subsistence allowance, unless he has completed six months' actual service since his last return from long extraordinary leave or long furlough, and there remain some leave to his credit under Section III, in which case the officer will retain a lien on his appointment, and will draw allowances as calculated under Section VII, until that credit be exhausted, but in no case for a period exceeding one year.

(c.)—Furlough taken without medical certificate, or under clause (a) of this Section, may be extended beyond two years for a period not exceeding one year. When on furlough under this clause, an officer will not retain a lien on his appointment, and will be entitled only to subsistence allowance.

(For form of medical certificate, see Appendix A.)

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. An officer who takes furlough under Clause (b) without retaining a lien on his appointment, vacates his office from the date on which he makes over charge of its duties.

2. If the subsistence allowance admissible under Clauses (b) and (c), exceeds the furlough allowance admissible under Section VII, the latter allowance only shall be drawn under this Section.

3. The following are the rates of subsistence allowance for Covenanted Civil Servants throughout India :—

To officers of twelve or more years' standing	...	Rs. 400 per mensem.
To officers of more than eight, but less than twelve years' standing ...	...	„ 320 „
To officers of not more than eight years' standing	...	„ 250 „

4. The standing of an officer for subsistence allowance is the period of his actual residence in India. So far as regards standing for subsistence allowance, time not exceeding two years, which after the age of seventeen years was bonâ fide spent in the regular course of education at Haileybury College, counts as residence in India.

Section IX.—Furlough taken or extended under Section VIII is subject to the provision of Section II.

Section X.—Furlough taken in India will be reckoned from the date of the officer quitting his station to the date of his return thereto. Furlough taken out of India will be reckoned from the date of embarkation to the date of return.

In the event of the furlough being taken partly in India and partly out of India, the commencement and termination of the furlough will be determined by the above Rules, according as the furlough begins or ends in or out of India.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. Days of embarkation and debarkation are counted part of furlough, and furlough allowances only are admissible for such days. The date of embarkation from Calcutta is the date on which a vessel is left by the pilot at sea.

This rule is of general application.

2. An officer may embark or debark at any port in India.

CHAPTER III.

Subsidiary Leave.

Section XI.—For the interval elapsing between departure from his station and the commencement of furlough, and between the termination of furlough and the rearrival at his station, an officer shall be allowed subsidiary leave not ordinarily exceeding in each case thirty days. During those periods, his allowances will be calculated in the same way as his furlough allowances, but without limitation as to maximum and minimum. Provided that, if the officer has under these Rules lost his lien on his appointment, he shall draw subsistence allowance of his rank. Subsidiary leave shall count as service and residence.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. Subsidiary leave ceases the day before embarkation, and cannot be extended, on the ground that the vessel in which an officer sails touches at some other port before leaving India.

This rule applies generally.

2. Local Governments may grant subsidiary leave for a period exceeding thirty days, in case of necessity; but such a relaxation of Rule and the circumstances of it, must be reported to the Government of India.

This rule applies also to all Officers in Civil employ.

3. If an officer overstay subsidiary leave prefixed to furlough or special leave by a period not exceeding thirty days, he may, at his option, either forfeit all salary during the period of such overstay, or give up his subsidiary leave and reckon his furlough or special leave from the date on which he quitted office. But if the period of overstay exceed thirty days, such option is not admissible, and the furlough or special leave must be held to have commenced from the date on which the officer quitted office, the subsidiary leave being cancelled. In such case, if the officer was not entitled to furlough or other leave when he quitted office, a special report must be made to the Government of India for orders.

This rule applies in analogous cases to all Officers in Civil employ.

4. An officer may draw full salary for any part of his subsidiary leave before furlough or special leave for which, if he were not about to take furlough or special leave, privilege leave would be admissible to him.

This rule applies in analogous cases to all Officers in Civil employ.

Chapter IV.

Applications for Furlough.

Section XII.—Applications for furlough will, in all cases, be submitted to the Government to which the applicant is subordinate, and will be dealt with in such manner as the Governor General of India in Council may from time to time prescribe.

Constructions and Subsidiary Rules.

1. When an officer applies for leave he should distinctly state under what section of these rules he wants it, and show that he is entitled to it under that section.

This rule applies generally.

2. The following rules have been laid down for the disposal of applications for leave or furlough from officers of the Bengal Civil Service, or from officers of the Madras or Bombay Civil Service, employed in the Presidency of Bengal:—

I.—Subject to the exigencies of the public service, Lieutenant Governors and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and the Central Provinces are empowered to grant any leave or furlough authorised by the Rules to officers serving under their respective orders.

II.—If an officer applying for leave or furlough be serving out of his own Presidency the Local Government or Administration under which he is serving will, if the leave or furlough be granted, inform the Government of India, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

III.—All applications for leave or furlough should be accompanied by a certificate from the Local Accountant General, showing that the applicant is entitled to the leave asked for, and should be forwarded, through the usual channel, to the Local Government or Administration under which the officer is serving.

IV.—Except under orders of the Secretary of State, the term of leave or furlough cannot be altered without the permission of the Government or Administration by which it was granted.

V.—Every officer who obtains leave or furlough shall supply himself with a last pay certificate, and with a statement showing the pay which he is entitled to draw while absent. It shall be the duty of the Local Accountant General to furnish these documents, and no leave allowances will be payable without their production.

VI.—A quarterly statement of the officers absent on furlough or special leave with the dates of the grant and expiry of such furlough or leave brought up to the 31st March, 30th June, 30th September, and 31st December of each year, shall be punctually furnished by Local Governments and Administrations to the Government of India in the Home Department.

VII.—From these quarterly returns, a register will be compiled and kept at the Office of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, of all grants of leave or furlough, of all extensions of leave or furlough, and of all returns to duty from leave. This register will be published quarterly in the Gazette of India.

VIII.—Every officer returning to duty shall report his return to the Government of India, and to the Local Government or Administration by which his leave or furlough may have been granted.

IX.—If any Local Government or Administration shall see fit to refuse a furlough on the ground of the exigencies of the public service, it shall report such refusal for the confirmation of the Government of India.

Section XIII.—Subject to the exigencies of the service, both as regards the number of furloughs available at any one time, and as regards individual applications, of which exigencies the Government of India, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be, shall be exclusively the judge, furloughs will be granted under these Rules.

Section XIV.—All applications for furlough under medical certificate, in accordance with these Rules, will be granted without restriction.

Section XV.—If, owing to the exigencies of the service, it should be necessary to place any limit on the number of officers who may be absent on furlough at the same time, applications not supported by medical certificate will be granted in the following order:—

The applicant, to whose credit the greatest amount of furlough remains under Section III, shall have the preference.

If two or more applicants are on an equality in this respect, the preference shall be given to the applicant whose actual service in India is longest, reckoning in the case of an officer who has not taken long extraordinary leave or long furlough, from the date of his arrival in India, and in the case of an officer who has taken long extraordinary leave or long furlough, from the date of his last return from such leave or furlough.

If two or more applicants are equal in both respects, the preference shall be given to the senior in the gradation list.

Chapter V.

Qualification for Pension.

Section XVI.—The term of residence qualifying for pension shall be 21 years: but no leave, except privilege leave and subsidiary leave, shall count as residence.

Constructions and Subsidiary Rules.

1. Examination Leave (not exceeding 12 months in the aggregate) shall count as residence.

2. Actual service for furlough must be held to be residence for pension. All leave which has been actually credited under the old Rules as residence, will remain so credited. This however does not apply to one year of leave on sick certificate, as in this case a compensation or equivalent is provided by this Section in the reduction, by one year, of the period of residence heretofore required.

3. Subject to the exigencies of the State, subsidiary leave may be granted to officers retiring from the service on the same terms as to officers going on furlough (Section XI, and subsidiary rules).

4. An officer may retire from the service while absent in Europe on furlough. It is not necessary that he should first return to India.

Section XVII.—The term of service qualifying for pension shall be 25 years.

Construction.—The service of an officer is held to commence either from the date of the officer's covenant or from that of the despatch of the Secretary of State announcing his appointment, whichever may have been earliest.

Chapter VI.

Privilege Leave.

Section XVIII.—Subject to the exigencies of the State, an Officer who has completed eleven months' continuous duty may take privilege leave for one month without deduction from his salary, retaining a lien on his appointment, whether substantive or officiating. Provided that, in the case of his holding an officiating appointment, such lien and his acting allowance will cease on the resumption of charge by the officer to whom the substantive appointment belongs.

Construction.—The lien and the acting allowance of the officer on leave cease when any officer having a prior lien on the appointment resumes charge of it.

Section XIX.—In the same manner and under the same conditions, two, or three, months' privilege leave may be taken when an officer has completed continuous duty of twenty-two or, thirty-three, months respectively.

Constructions and Subsidiary Rules.

Application.

1. An officer, when applying for privilege leave, must declare that he has no present intention of taking any other leave or of retiring from the service within six months after the expiry of the leave for which he applies.

This rule is of general application.

2. An officer is not absolutely debarred by this declaration from taking leave or retiring within six months of the expiry of his privilege leave; but if he subsequently apply for leave or to retire within that period, he may, and probably should, be called upon to account for having changed his mind.

This rule is of general application.

Service counted.

3. An officer returning from leave is held to be on service qualifying for privilege leave from the date on which he reports himself for duty to the Government to which he is directly subordinate, and not from any later date on which he may actually obtain re-employment, unless his re-employment be delayed owing to his own fault.

This rule is of general application.

4. But when an officer first arrives in India, service qualifying for privilege leave does not begin until he takes charge of a particular office.

Allowances.

5. If an officer on privilege leave obtains officiating promotion which, were he on duty, would, without involving any increase or change of duties or responsibility, entitle him to acting allowance or increased acting allowance, he shall draw the acting allowance, or increased acting allowance from the date of such promotion.

This rule is of general application.

6. Acting allowance may be passed to an officer on privilege leave even though another officer be appointed to act for him.

7. When an officer who is temporarily promoted from a lower to a higher acting appointment takes privilege leave on being relieved of the latter, and the Local Government declares that on being so relieved he has reverted to the lower acting appointment, it is not necessary for him to rejoin the lower acting appointment before proceeding on leave; but his allowances on leave shall be calculated as if he had so rejoined.

This rule is of general application.

8. An officer of the Bombay Service may draw house-rent or tentage during privilege leave, provided (1) that he places his house or tent at the disposal of the officer, if any, who is appointed to officiate for him, whether such officer does or does not avail himself of the offer, and (2) that the officiating officer does not at the same time draw the house-rent or tentage attached to the same appointment.

This rule applies also to Military Officers in Civil employ, and to Uncovenanted Officers serving in the Bombay Presidency.

Section XX.—Privilege leave may, at the discretion of the Local Government, be taken in separate instalments. No second instalment shall be taken until after the completion of six months' continuous duty from the expiry of the first instalment. In this case the eleven months qualifying for fresh privilege leave will be reckoned from the expiry of the first instalment, the period of the second instalment being omitted from the calculation.

Provided that the whole privilege leave taken at any one time shall not exceed three months, and that no accumulation of privilege leave beyond that period shall be admitted.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. The meaning of this Section is simply that a Local Government may allow an officer to take any part of the privilege leave at his credit under Section XVIII or XIX without absolutely forfeiting the remainder.

2. When an officer absent on privilege leave is on public grounds recalled to duty, he may be allowed any balance of his leave before the expiry of six months from the date of his return to duty.

Section XVIII.—The construction appended is new.

Section XXI.—If an officer shall overstay his privilege leave, he shall forfeit all salary during the time of his remaining so absent; and if he shall so continue absent for more than one week, his office shall become vacant.

SUBSIDIARY RULE.—The Local Government may exempt an officer from loss of appointment under this Section, if it considers that his default was due to circumstances beyond his control.

This rule is of general application.

Section XXII.—Privilege leave shall be reckoned as residence and service

CHAPTER VII.

Examination Leave.

RULES.

1. A junior Civil Servant, who is a candidate for one of the rewards offered for the study of Oriental Languages, may be allowed leave on full salary for one month for the purpose of being examined.

2. If he passes the examination, he may be allowed similar leave for another month.

3. Leave under this Chapter (not exceeding an aggregate of 12 months) shall be reckoned as residence and as service for pension, and for furlough or special leave.

4. When an officer passes a successful examination, the leave granted to him for that examination is (subject to the same limit of 12 months in the aggregate) service qualifying for privilege leave.

CHAPTER VIII.

Special Leave.

Section XXIII.—Special leave, on urgent private affairs, may be granted at the discretion of the Local Government for a period not exceeding six months. In respect of retention of a lien on appointment, of allowances drawn during the leave, and of subsidiary leave, the conditions of special leave shall be the same as those prescribed for furlough. Special leave shall not be reckoned as residence.

CONSTRUCTION.—If an officer who has taken leave on urgent private affairs under the old rules, takes leave under this Section, he can only draw allowances for any period by which his former absence may have fallen short of six months.

Section XXIV.—Section XXI shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to an officer overstaying special leave.

Section XXV.—Special leave may be repeated without allowances after intervals of at least six years' actual service.

CONSTRUCTION.—No leave can be granted under this Chapter, until six years have elapsed from the expiry of leave granted under Section XIV of the Rules of 1855 or Section IX of the Rules of 1864.

CHAPTER IX.

Change and continuation of Leave.

Section XXVI.—Furlough, privilege leave, and special leave shall not be taken as such in continuation of each other; but if an officer absent on one of these classes of leave be allowed to change it for another, the whole period of his absence shall be held to be under the class of leave for which it was changed.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY RULES.

1. Leave may be retrospectively commuted by the authority which granted it, to any other kind of leave which the said authority would have been competent to allow when the original leave was sanctioned.

This rule applies generally.

2. No leave can be taken in continuation of examination leave excepting furlough upon medical certificate.

3. Leave not used may be cancelled by the authority which granted it.

CHAPTER X.

Payment of Leave Allowances.

Section XXVII.—Subject to considerations of State, there is no restriction as to the places where an officer may reside when on leave.

Section XXVIII.—Leave allowance shall be payable monthly, if payment is taken in India, and quarterly, if payment is taken in England.

CONSTRUCTIONS AND SUBSIDIARY ORDERS.

1. An officer on privilege leave cannot draw his allowances in England. But his Agent may draw them in India in the manner prescribed below.

This rule applies generally.

2. The following are the conditions under which allowances may be drawn in India by officers on leave.

(a.) If the officer signs the bill himself, he must either appear in person or furnish a life certificate signed by a Covenanted Civil Servant or by a Magistrate.

(b.) Allowances may be drawn through a properly authorised Agent. But the Agent must execute a bond to refund over-payments.

(c.) When allowances are drawn for the absentee by his official superior, this officer is responsible for any over-charge, and no other security is necessary.

This rule is of general application.

CHAPTER XI.

Joining time.

The rules regarding joining time, which are of general application, are, for convenience sake, inserted in this Code, although joining time is not leave, inasmuch as an officer is considered to be on duty during it.

RULES.

1. Joining time is allowed to an officer transferred from one station to another according to the following calculation:—

For that part of the route for which railway is available, one day for every hundred miles;

For that part of the route for which steamer is available, one day for every hundred miles, or such longer time as the steamer may actually occupy;

Where neither railway nor steamer is available, one day for every ten miles;

And six days in addition to the whole thus calculated.

Sundays are excluded in the calculation of joining time.

2. The full joining time is allowed only if it is spent bonâ fide in preparation for the journey or in progress from one station to another, and no more than three months can be given under any circumstances. The Government also which orders a transfer may limit the duration of joining time.

3. When an officer, while absent on leave, other than furlough or special leave, is transferred from one station to another, he is entitled to joining time in addition to the period of his leave. His joining time in this case will be that allowed in the case of transfer from his old to his new station, or from the place where he receives the order of transfer, to his new station, whichever is least.

4. An officer draws during joining time the following allowances:—

(a) First, as regards pay:—

the pay which he drew in his old appointment or that which he draws in his new, whichever is least.

(b) Second, as regards acting allowance:—

(1) if transferred from an officiating appointment to an appointment, officiating or substantive, of not less salary,—the acting allowance of his old appointment;

(2) if, after being promoted from a lower to a higher officiating appointment with retention of lien on the lower one, he is relieved of the higher and returns to the lower officiating appointment, or to another appointment, officiating or substantive, of not less salary,—the acting allowance of the lower officiating appointment;

(c) Provided that no officer can draw acting allowance for any appointment after any one having a prior lien on it has returned to it.

CHAPTER XII.

Last Pay Certificate.

RULES.

N. B.—The rules in this Chapter are of general application.

1. Whenever an officer on leave in England obtains permission from the Secretary of State for India to return to duty, he should bring with him to India a certificate showing the date to which his absentee allowances have been paid in London.

2. An officer proceeding on leave to England or to any place in India beyond the limits of his own district, and intending to draw leave allowances there, must take with him a last pay certificate, and should appear in person at the office in which his certificate is completed.

3. An officer transferred from one station to another cannot draw allowances at the treasury of his new station, without producing a last pay certificate from the treasury where he last drew allowances.

4. The following are the rules and forms prescribed for the issue of last pay certificates in India.

The cases in which these certificates are given are thus classified :—

Case I.—To an officer proceeding on leave to Europe, and embarking at a port in the presidency or province in which he is employed ;

Case II.—To an officer proceeding on leave to Europe and embarking at a port in another presidency or province ;

(a) if he be employed at, or have to pass through, the station of the Accountant General of his new presidency or province ;

(b) if he be not employed at, and have not to pass through, that station ;

Case III.—To an officer proceeding on leave from one place in India to another, whether the two places are or are not within the same presidency or province ;

Case IV.—To an officer proceeding on duty from one presidency or province to another ;

Case V.—To an officer proceeding on duty from one place to another in the same presidency or province.

The rules for each of these cases are as follows :—

Case I.—In this case, the Accountant General of the presidency or province should give the officer a certificate in Form A, Appendix B, and, save in the cases below excepted, forward a duplicate certificate in the same form to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State.

Exceptions.—1. If the officer embark at a port in British Burmah, the Accountant General should forward the duplicate form direct to the Financial Department of the Government of India for transmission to the Secretary of State.

2. If the officer embark at Calcutta, the Accountant General should, in like manner, forward the duplicate form to the Financial Department after filling up the blanks in the pilot's certificate at its foot.

Case II (a).—In this case the Accountant General of the officer's presidency or province must pay him up to the date of his departure from his (the Accountant General's) station, and give him a certificate in Form B, Appendix B, leaving the 5th, 7th and 8th spaces blank, and send a duplicate after signing the letter on the reverse to the Accountant General or (if there be no Accountant General) to the officer in charge of the treasury at the port at which the absentee intends to embark for Europe. The Accountant General, or Treasury Officer at the port of embarkation, must obey the letter addressed to him, and return the original form to the officer. If he be an Accountant General, he must, moreover, forward the duplicate received by himself to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State, and address a letter in the Form E, Appendix B, to the Accountant General of the absentee's presidency ; but if he be a Treasury Officer, he must forward the duplicate of Form B to the Accountant General of his own presidency, who must forward it to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State, and send a letter to the Accountant General of the absentee's presidency in the Form F, Appendix B.

Case II (b).—In this case the Accountant General must send to the officer a certificate in Form C, Appendix B, leaving the 5th, 7th and 8th spaces blank, and forward a duplicate to the Accountant General or Treasury Officer at the port at which the officer intends to embark for Europe. Before the officer's departure from his station, the officer in charge of the treasury from which he last drew pay must fill up, and attest the certificate at the end of the original Form C. The Accountant General or Treasury Officer at the port at which the officer intends to embark must obey the letter to his address on the back of Form C, and after copying the entries and signature from the certificate at the end of the original form into the duplicate, must return the original form to the officer. If he be an Accountant General, he must, moreover, forward the duplicate certificate to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State. and forward a copy of the certificate at the end of the form to the Accountant General of the absentee's presidency, with a letter in the Form G, Appendix B; but if he be a Treasury Officer, he must forward the duplicate Form E to the Accountant General of his own presidency, who must send it to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State, and forward a copy of the certificate at the end of the form to the Accountant General of the absentee's presidency, with a letter in the Form H, Appendix B.

But in the case of a Covenanted Civil Servant, or Military Officer in civil employ, whose appointment has been changed within the period, on his average salary for which his furlough allowance is to be calculated, the rate of furlough allowance will sometimes depend on the date on which he may make over charge of his office, and the Accountant General of his presidency will not be aware of that date at the time the last pay certificate is prepared if the officer intends to embark at a port in a presidency other than that in which he is employed, and has not to pass through the Accountant General's station on his way to that port. For cases in which, for these reasons, the Accountant General is unable to specify the rate of absentee allowance, the following rule is prescribed. The Accountant General of the officer's presidency must send him a document in the Form D, Appendix B, leaving the fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth spaces on the face of the form blank, and forward a duplicate of it to the Accountant General or Treasury Officer at the port at which the officer intends to embark for Europe. Before the officer's departure from his station, the officer in charge of the treasury from which he last drew pay must fill up the sixth space on the face of the original form, and fill up and attest the certificate at the end of that form. The Accountant General or Treasury Officer at the port at which the officer intends to embark for Europe must act up to the instructions in the letter to his address on the back of the form, must copy the entry in the sixth space on the face of the original form and the entries and signature in the certificate at the end of that document into the duplicate form, and must return the original form to the absentee. If he be an Accountant General, he must, moreover, forward the duplicate form to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State, and forward a copy of the certificate at the end of the form to the Accountant General of the absentee's presidency with a letter in the Form K, Appendix B; but if he be a Treasury Officer, he must forward the duplicate Form D to the Accountant General of his own presidency, who must send it on to the Local Government for transmission to the Secretary of State, and forward a copy of the certificate at the end of the Form D to the Accountant General of the absentee's presidency with a letter in the Form L, Appendix B.

Case III.—In this case, the Accountant General of the officer's presidency must furnish him with a certificate in Form A, Appendix B; but, if the officer is proceeding to a place within the same presidency or province, the tenth space in the form may be left blank.

Case IV.—In this case, the officer should be furnished with a certificate in the Form M, Appendix B. If he be employed at the station of the Accountant General of his presidency, the certificate should be given by that officer. If he have to pass through that station on his way to his new presidency, the certificate should be given by the officer in charge of the treasury from which he last drew pay, and countersigned by the Accountant General. If he be not employed at, and have not to pass through, the Accountant General's station, the certificate should be given by the officer in charge of the treasury from which he last drew pay, and a duplicate of it should be forwarded by the Treasury Officer to the Accountant General for countersignature and transmission to the Accountant General of the transferred officer's new presidency.

Case V.—In this case, the officer should be furnished with a last-pay certificate in Form M by the officer in charge of the treasury from which he last drew pay.

Chapter XIII.

Return to duty.

Rules.

1. When an officer's leave or time for joining an appointment to which no substitute or acting officer has been appointed, expires on a Sunday or holiday, and he takes charge of his duties on the forenoon of the first working day following such Sunday or holiday, he shall be treated in regard to his allowances as if he had taken charge on the day on which his leave expired.

This rule is of general application.

2. As a general rule, no officer can draw the salary of any office until he has actually taken charge of it. But if an unemployed officer be appointed substantively to one post, and to act in another, he need not take charge of the substantive appointment, but may draw his pay and acting allowances from the date on which he takes charge of his acting appointment.

(See also Construction 6, Section VII.)

Chapter XIV.

Provisions respecting the rules previously in force.

Note.—The word "now" in this Chapter must be interpreted with reference to the date of the first publication of the New Leave Rules, i. e., June 1868.

Section XXIX.—Whatever aggregate amount out of the three years' furlough and three years' sick leave, under the rules until now in force, at present remains to be taken by an officer under the said rules, shall remain to be taken by him under the rules now promulgated.

(See Section II, and Construction 3 under Section I.)

Section XXX.—Rescinded, see note to the Proviso under Section VII.

Section XXXI.—Any officer now absent on leave, who has no appointment, may, on his return and until he again holds an appointment carrying equal pay to that of the substantive appointment which he last held, draw the subsistence allowance of his rank, together with 75 per cent. of the pay of any appointment in which he shall officiate. Provided that the total salary so drawn by him shall not exceed the pay of the appointment in which he is officiating. This rule shall apply to any officer who may have already returned from furlough.

Constructions and Subsidiary Rules.

This Section shall in no case be applied so as to raise the aggregate allowances of any officer who may return from furlough after the 23rd November 1869, above the present aggregate allowances of the appointment which he relinquished when he proceeded on furlough.

2. An officer may, at his option, decline to accept the special acting allowance provided in this Section, and take the ordinary acting allowance of 50 per cent. in addition to his subsistence allowance. In such case, the limitation prescribed by the preceding rule will not operate.

Section XXXII.—Obsolete.

Appendix A.

The medical certificate to be furnished by an applicant for furlough or sick leave shall be in the following Form :—

I, A. B., Surgeon at, or of, , do hereby certify that C. D., of the Civil Service, is in a bad state of health, and I solemnly and sincerely declare that, according to the best of my judgment, a change of air is essentially necessary to his recovery, and do therefore recommend that he may be permitted to proceed to sea [or to such place as the Surgeon may think proper, expressing it in the certificate].

The following form shall be observed by the principal medical authority at the nearest principal station, in countersigning the Surgeon's certificate :—

We [or I] do hereby certify that, according to the best of our [or my] professional judgment, after careful personal examination of the case, we [or I] consider the state of health of C. D. to be such as to render leave of absence for a period of absolutely necessary for his recovery.

If the applicant for an extension of leave on medical certificate be residing within 20 miles of London, he must produce a certificate from the Medical Board attached to the India Office, showing the necessity for such extension. If residing beyond that distance from London, certificates in the second of the above forms must be produced from two medical practitioners.

Appendix B.

The following are the forms prescribed for the last-pay certificates:—

[In filling up these forms:—

(1). Allowances should be stated in rupees per mensem, and not in pounds per annum.

(2). In Forms A, B, C, and D, the presidency to which an officer belongs should be stated in the title, and the presidency or province in which he is employed should be stated under the first heading.

(3). In the heading "source from which, &c.," the term "Indian Revenues" should be used in all certificates intended to be sent to England, as the term "Imperial Revenues" has there a different signification. If the allowance is not chargeable finally to the Government of India, the Local Administration or fund from which it is recoverable must be expressly stated.

(4). The date of embarkation, it is to be remembered, is the first day of furlough, and not the last day of subsidiary or preparatory leave.]

Circular Orders by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

From F. B. PEACOCK, Esq., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to all Criminal Authorities,—(No. 3, dated Calcutta, the 2nd February 1871.)

CRIMINAL SIDE.

IT having been brought to the notice of the Court that difficulty has been experienced in the preparation of the tabular forms prescribed by circular order No. 32, dated 8th November last, so far as regards the Criminal Returns, the following instructions are issued for the information and guidance of Sessions Judges and Magistrates.

2. The classification list alluded to in column 2 of this statement, of which a copy accompanied the circular order in question, is merely that given by the Statistical Committee, and was clearly not intended to be an exhaustive, but rather a suggestive, list of offences. It is nowhere recognised or prescribed in the circular itself, and was not meant entirely to supersede the existing schedule provided by circular order No. 19, dated 31st December 1861. The Court have, however, determined to re-construct that schedule on the principle of the classification list, and to adapt it to its requirements, by a re-arrangement of its descriptive headings, according to the order of the sections of the Indian Penal Code. This has been done in the new schedule circulated herewith.

Judicial Statement (Criminal) 2.

3. As regards 'attempts,' the Court are of opinion that when the attempt is one for the punishment of which express provision is made (such as attempts to commit murder, culpable homicide) whereby, in fact, such attempts are constituted substantive offences, they should come in their order accordingly; but that attempts punishable under the general provisions of section 511, Indian Penal Code, should be inserted where they occur, immediately after the offences at which they are attempts. Finally, offences under special and local laws should be exhibited, arranged alphabetically, as indicated in the accompanying list, after the offences classified as above mentioned.

4. With reference to column 15 of this statement, headed "average number of days during which each case lasted," the court consider that the average duration should be calculated from date of complaint or information to date of conviction, acquittal or discharge; and where there are several persons accused in the same case in respect of whom final orders are not passed at the same time, as will sometimes happen, then to the date of last order.

Judicial Statement (Criminal) 3.

5. This statement was intended to exhibit every sentence passed, and, where two penalties were inflicted on the same offender, to exhibit them both. With a view, however, to secure uniformity in the mode in which the columns are to be filled up, and to provide against the same offenders being reckoned more than once in the general result, the Court lay down the following instructions: If a man has been sentenced to rigorous imprisonment with solitary confinement and fine, he will appear in columns 5 and 9; if to rigorous imprisonment without solitary confinement, but with fine, then in columns 6 and 9; if to simple imprisonment and fine, then in columns 7 and 9: if to rigorous, imprisonment and whipping, then in columns 5 or 6 and 11. In adding the entries together to ascertain the total number of persons punished, it will be necessary to exclude columns 9 and 11, as the persons referred to therein will be accounted for in other columns.

Judicial Statement (Criminal) 4.

6. This is a return to be made by the Appellate Courts of the district, and is intended to exhibit their action, i.e., the orders made by them, and one of the orders which a Sessions Judge or a Magistrate of a district can make (rather, however, as a Superintending Court than as an Appellate Court) is that of reference to the High Court. Orders of this nature accordingly will be shewn in column 9, the previous columns showing either final orders made or orders interlocutory or preparatory to their own final orders. Column 7 will thus show orders quashing or annulling convictions where the local Appellate Court has power to make such order; e.g., Section 427, Criminal Procedure Code (Act VIII. of 1869), and column 8, will include orders made by such courts under Section 432.

Judicial Statement (Criminal) 5.

Papers relating to the question of allowing 3 per cent. of the rental of Government estates for local improvements.

From the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—
(No. 134, dated the 5th April 1859.)

SIR,

THE commissioner of the Cuttack division has informed the Board that, with the sanction of Government, a new line of road is under construction from Peeplee to Khoordah, in the Pooree district, and as he is of opinion that the Khoordah estate will principally benefit by the road, he has solicited permission to defray half its cost from the collections of the estate.

2. The Board fully recognize the utility of the work, and they have no doubt that it will be very useful in facilitating communication and increasing the commerce, which is represented to be already very considerable along the present imperfect route; and as the Khoordah estate is susceptible of great improvement, they think it advisable that a certain portion of its proceeds should be devoted to its general improvement. With this view the Board beg to recommend that 5 per cent. of the net jumma of the estate may be made available for improvements, disbursements being made under the sanction of the commissioner, who will submit to the Board an annual statement of works undertaken, and of sums disbursed. The expense of the road above referred to should be defrayed from this allowance.

From the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India,—(No. 997, dated Fort William, the 23rd April 1859.)

SIR,

IN the accompanying letter from the Board of Revenue sanction is solicited to the expenditure of a portion of the rental of the Khoordah estate in Pooree, which belongs to Government, on local works for the improvement of the estate, under the superintendence of the commissioner of the division.

2. It is proposed by the Board of Revenue that 5 per cent. of the net collections should be set aside for this purpose, but this, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, is too large a proportion. In the Khoordah estate 5 per cent. of the net jumma would amount to some Rs. 9,000 per annum. In His Honor's opinion 3 per cent. of the net collections would be sufficient to place at the disposal of the commissioner for carrying out those local objects on which a good zemindar would be disposed to expend a portion of his income for the benefit of the estate.

3. If His Excellency the Governor General in Council should approve of this proposition in the case of the Khoordah estate, the Lieutenant-Governor would venture to suggest that the principle should be extended to Government estates generally. * * * * *

From the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—
(No. 164, dated the 25th April 1859.)

SIR,

MR. DEARE, the deputy collector of Bhuddruck sub-division, who is in charge of the Government talook Noanund, in Balasore, lately took occasion to visit the talook, and has communicated the result of his inspection in the form of certain propositions for the improvement of the estate.

* * * * * * *

3. The commissioner knows of no good reason why the expenditure should not be allowed at once out of the collections of the estate. It is, he observes, the duty of Government as proprietor to improve its own property, which has been in its possession for about forty years without any attempt whatever having been made for its improvement. * * * * * * *

8. The Board appreciate Mr. Deare's desire to improve the estate, of which he has been placed in charge, and consider his proposals well worth consideration. They concur with the local officers as to the primary necessity of the road, but there are no ferry funds available, or any funds for carrying into effect plans for the improvement of the estate. They are of opinion that it would be of advantage to create such a fund in Balasore, and with this view they would recommend that 5 per cent. of the annual revenue of the Noanund talook be set apart as a khas mehal fund to be expended for the improvement of the estate. The accumulations of this annual grant would in a few years suffice to carry out many of the measures proposed by Mr. Deare.

From the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue,—
(No. 1113, dated Fort William, the 6th May 1859.)

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 164, dated the 25th ultimo, and in reply to state, with reference to your previous letter, No. 134 of the 5th idem, that a proposition has been submitted to the Government of India for the assignment of 3 per cent. of the rental of the Khoordah estate for local improvements, and it has been suggested that if this meets with the sanction of the Supreme Government in the case of the Khoordah estate, the same rule might be extended to all estates the property of Government.

From the Under-Secretary to the Government of India, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1142, dated the 4th June 1859.)

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 997, dated the 23rd April last, with enclosure, and to inform you in reply that His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to sanction the rule suggested by the late Lieutenant-Governor, that commissioners, under the general sanction of Government, shall be vested with a discretion to expend not more than 3 per cent. of the net collections from Government estates on objects calculated to improve the condition of the estates and of the ryots occupying them.

From the Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, to the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 494, dated Fort William, the 16th July 1861.)

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 308, dated the 17th ultimo, forwarding an extract from a letter from Captain Hopkinson, the commissioner of Assam, proposing to double the land taxes of that province and to devote the excess so obtained to the construction of works of public utility.

2. In reply I am desired to say that the subject of an increase to the rates of assessment having been for some time under the consideration of the Board on certain propositions submitted by Colonel Jenkins, the late commissioner of the province, they are enabled to communicate, without further reference to the local authorities, the opinions which they have formed on the subject referred to them in your letter under acknowledgment.

3. The proposals which were made by Colonel Jenkins, and which are explained in detail in the subsequent paragraphs of this report, were—first, to increase the rates of assessment on land throughout Assam proper; and, secondly, to extend to that province, where the property in the soil belongs to the State, the authority under Government order No. 1414 dated the 11th June 1859, of assigning 3 per cent. on the collections to the improvement of estates which are the property of Government.

* * * * * * *

5. It appears to be acknowledged on all hands that the present rates of taxation are light, and though the opinions of officers employed in the districts, both now and in past times, differ as to the distinction which should be observed according to the position and circumstances of particular localities, it appears to be generally admitted that an increase on the present rates of some kinds of land may be effected without any hardship to the people.

* * * * * * *

10. The following extract gives the substance of Colonel Jenkins' opinion on this subject:—

"For instance, Kamroop possesses very evident advantages over all the other divisions, particularly in being so near the great marts below, and possessing the means of navigation by the large Bengali boats, which have at all times easy access to Gowalparah, and at most times to Gowhatty and Burpettah, three great marts of the Kamroop division; but beyond Gowhatty, from the strength of the current, and the short time westerly winds prevail, the navigation by large boats is difficult and uncertain, and ever increasing in difficulty as the river is ascended."

"This command of navigation is of the highest advantage to Kamroop, and, considering also the superior denseness of its population, and generally greater advancement in trade and civilization, I am of opinion that Kamroop may always bear a higher taxation than any other division."

"The reverse to Kamroop is the Luckimpore division, which has generally very spare and backward population, and can hardly be said to have any communication direct with the great Bengali marts, and must depend on the local consumers, in great measure, for the sale of its surplus produce."

"The other divisions may be said to be intermediate between these two in their enjoyment of the advantages alluded to; but local circumstances make small differences in each. Seebsagur benefits above all in the local expenditure of money from the great extent of the tea plantations in the division, but it is more than all the other divisions liable to constant destruction of crops from the inundations of its hill streams. Durrung, perhaps, is the most unfortunate of all, large tracts being almost destitute of population, and not generally favorable to rice cultivation; whilst it has little or no trade, only three small tea plantations: and the prime portion of its laborers, the Doan Cacharees, are enticed away in all directions for the cultivation of tea and for public works."

"The relative circumstances of the divisions may thus, I think, reasonably be opposed to the equalization of the rate throughout the province."

11. The Board cannot but feel that much credit must be attached to the opinions of an officer with such large local experience as Colonel Jenkins. Rice is not an article of export from Assam, and land for producing it is available in unlimited tracts; and if the original assessment were in proportion to the means of the people, it is not likely that such a demand for rice has as yet been created by the importation of coolies for the tea factories, as would justify a general rise in the rate of rent for roopeet land.

12. On this point Colonel Jenkins writes:—

"Of the great crops, rice is grown on a variety of lands, but the lands taxed highly are those which produce the great crop, planted out at the height of the rains and harvested in November and December, the roopeet crop of the Assamese; but I think it is universally allowed that altogether the roopeet is less profitable than the mustard seed, requiring more attention, more labor of cattle and men, and more liable to suffer from vicissitudes of season, and more uncertain from the inundations of the rivers."

"It was likewise generally asserted that a great deal of our suffering from the scarcity of grain was owing to the attention of the ryots being too much directed to the cultivation of mustard seed."

"It seems probable therefore that it has proved disadvantageous to the people that we have taxed the roopeet lands so much higher than the other lands, and a large supply of rice being of such very high importance in every way to the people and the planters, I should be disposed to encourage the great rice crop by making no further addition to the rates of the roopeet land; and in this opinion I am confirmed by a conversation I had at Nowgong with the principal sudder ameen of that station, formerly revenue sheristadar of Durrung, and a man of great experience and good judgment, who was altogether averse from adding to the assessment on the roopeet lands."

13. These reasons, which carry great weight with them, induce the Board to join Colonel Jenkins in deprecating any alteration of the rates of assessment now levied from the roopeet lands in the province. * * *

16. At the same time the Board would give their cordial support to Colonel Jenkins' recommendations, made in concurrence with the opinions of the collectors of those districts, that the rate of assessment on other lands than roopeet should be raised generally from 1 Re. to 1-2 in Nowgong and Durrung, and from 14 annas in Seebsagur, and 12 annas in Luckimpore, to 1 Re.; the rates in Kamroop remaining unaltered pending the ten years' settlement, under which this district is now held.

* * * * * * * * * *

19. The Board are of opinion that for the present at least the above should be the limit of the increase of assessment to be introduced into the Assam province. * * * * * * * * *

* * * * * * * * * *

21. The second proposition made by Colonel Jenkins was to provide out of the local revenues for the general construction and periodical repair of the roads and bridges of the province.

22. A good road through the province would greatly promote its progress; and the desultory, partial, and inefficient manner in which the repairs of the existing roads and bridges are effected, and the extension of new works of absolute necessity is protracted while they are probably owing, in some measure, to the absence of proper superintendence, are doubtless in a great degree attributable to the absence of independent funds of sufficient amount to cover the outlay which such works require.

23. As already observed, the proprietary right in the land in Assam belongs to the Government, and the Board would propose to apply to it also the principle of Government order sanctioning the appropriation of 3 per cent. on the collections to purposes of local improvement. Among the causes which have retarded the progress of improvement in the province, it has been complained that the small quantity of the revenue of the province expended within it is one of the greatest. A regular outlay of a certain percentage of the revenue on works of public utility, and especially in facilitating the communication between the several districts, would remedy an acknowledged defect in the present state of the province; and being spent in great measure among the agricultural population, would lead to larger clearances of waste lands, and to the general development of the resources of the country.

From the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India,—(No. 863A, dated Fort William, the 15th August 1861.)

SIR,

I AM directed to submit, for the consideration and orders of the Government of India, the accompanying copy of a correspondence* relating to a proposal for increasing the land tax in the province of Assam.

* From secretary to the Government of Bengal, public works department, No. 2382, dated 31st May 1861, with enclosure.
To officiating secretary, Board of Revenue, No. 308, dated 17th June 1861.
From ditto, No. 494, dated 16th July 1861.

2. The proposal, it will be seen, emanated with the present commissioner, Captain Hopkinson, who was of opinion that the land tax in Assam should be increased double the present rate, and the excess so obtained devoted to the construction of works of public utility in that province. The Board of Revenue, who were consulted on the subject, and whose report is annexed, do not consider it expedient that the tax should be doubled, or that an alteration should be made in the rate of assessment of every description of land. They state that the subject of an increase to the rates of assessment had been for some time under their consideration, on certain propositions submitted by Colonel Jenkins, the late commissioner; and in concurrence with the views expressed by that officer, they are of opinion that the rate of assessment on lands other than what is generally called roopeet, i.e., land on which rice is grown, may safely be increased. They accordingly propose that the rates on the lands appropriated to the growth of linseed and mustard be raised generally from 1 Re. to 1-2 in Nowgong and Durrung; and from 14 annas in Seebsaugur, and 12 annas in Luckimpore, to 1 Re. per poorah; the rates in Kamroop remaining unaltered, pending the ten years' settlement under which that district is now held.

4. With regard to the question of constructing roads and other works of public utility, the Board propose to apply to it the principle of the order communicated in Mr. Under-Secretary Chapman's letter No. 1142 dated the 4th of June 1859, sanctioning the appropriation of 3 per cent. on the collections to purposes of local improvement.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees in the views of the Board as expressed in their report now submitted.

From the Secretary to the Government of India, to the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1621, dated the 30th August 1861.)

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 863A, dated the 15th instant, enclosing copy of a correspondence with the Board of Revenue on the subject of a proposition for increasing the land tax in the temporarily settled districts of Assam, and for applying to those districts the order of the Government of India dated the 14th June 1859, sanctioning the expenditure of 3 per cent. of the net collections from Government estates on objects calculated to improve the condition of the estates and of the ryots occupying them.

2. In reply, I am directed to state that the Governor General in Council sanctions the appropriation prospectively from 1862-63 of 3 per cent. of the land revenue of the temporarily settled districts of Assam for purposes of local improvement, and His Excellency in Council hopes that the Lieutenant-Governor will be able to make better provision for the wants of Assam in respect of roads, &c., in the next budget.

3. With regard to the expediency of increasing the land assessment in Assam, I am desired to intimate that the Governor General in Council leaves that question to the discretion of the Lieutenant-Governor.

From the Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue,—(No. 1263A, dated Fort William, the 18th December 1861.)

SIR,

I AM desired to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th ultimo, No. 803, submitting a copy of one from the commissioner of Assam, in which, after commenting on the inadequacy of the means at his disposal for the improvement of the province in public works, he suggests that the profits from the sale of abkaree opium, which have accrued by the prohibition of the cultivation and free use of indigenous opium in Assam, should be applied to that purpose.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees with the Board in thinking the commissioner's proposal such as cannot be supported.

3. There is no reason why an item of ordinary imperial revenue, such as the abkaree opium revenue is, should be appropriated for local objects in Assam more than in any other province where the same item is levied. Major Hopkinson to a considerable extent misunderstands the grounds on which the rules affecting the opium revenue, and the cultivation of opium, were assimilated in Assam to those in force in all other provinces under this Government. The assimilation was founded on the principle that all the reasons in support of this item of excise applicable to the other provinces under the Bengal Government applied equally, or more strongly, to Assam, whilst there were no special reasons to the contrary applicable to Assam.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the commissioner in thinking good roads through Assam an imperial necessity, and he agrees with him in thinking that all the local funds will be inadequate for such a purpose. The district cross roads will require them all, and more. Trunk roads through the province must be made by means of imperial funds; and it is only because the Bengal provinces have not been, and continue not to be allowed anything approaching to what, in a natural view of the case, must appear to be their fair proportional share of the imperial funds allotted by the Government of India to the several local Governments for their public works of imperial character, that at least one such imperial road as Assam requires has not yet been made.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor's best endeavours have never been spared to obtain the removal of this peculiar and distressing disadvantage under which the whole of the lower provinces of Bengal labor, but hitherto without result. He has never been informed of the grounds whereon a system by which the comparative extent, population, and revenue of the Bengal provinces seem to be disregarded in the allotment of money for its public works, is considered to be just and proper. He is convinced, however, if those grounds, whatever they may be, were stated, so that they could be examined and discussed by the light which a representation of the actual state of the internal communications in these provinces would offer, they could be demonstrated to be untenable; for nothing could be easier than to show that the wants of no part of India are so great in the matter of roads and other public works as those of the Bengal provinces. He believes, therefore, that a great public service would be done if only a discussion of the question could be secured.

6. The want of roads is nowhere greater than in Assam; and the Lieutenant-Governor freely admits that in no part of India has less been done for the internal communications.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor very much regrets this; and his regret is increased by considering the strong and peculiar claim which the great rising interest in Assam—the European tea-planting interest—has upon the just consideration of Government.

The commissioner of Assam continued to press his opinion in favor of a general increase to the assessment of the land in Assam, and eventually in 1867 his view was adopted. The new assessment produced an increase of Rs. 7,89,439, bringing the total land revenue of the province to Rs. 20,80,239 in 1868-69.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Fort William, the 16th March 1870.

Read—

A letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 3552 dated 30th September 1869, asking for a supplementary budget grant for appropriating 3 per cent. on the land revenue of the district of Kamroop to the fund for the improvement of Government estates, and reply No. 1759 of this date sanctioning the expenditure.

Resolution.—This application has led the Government of India to inquire into the origin of this fund. It has been ascertained that it is held to be authorized by orders passed in the Home department, No. 1142 dated 4th June 1859, and No. 1621 dated 30th August 1861, by the earlier of which commissioners of revenue in Bengal were "vested with a discretion to expend not more than 3 per cent. of the net collections from Government estates on objects calculated to improve the condition of the estates and of the ryots occupying them." The latter order extended this concession to the land revenue of the temporarily settled districts in Assam. It was not (so far as can be ascertained) communicated to this department. The Government of Bengal appears to have considered that it was authorized under these orders to credit 3 per cent. of the collections from every Government estate in Bengal, and of the entire land revenue of the temporarily settled districts of Assam, to the "amalgamated district road fund" of the lower provinces.

It seems, however, to the Government of India in the financial department that the order of 1859 did not really convey sanction to this procedure, and that it is doubtful whether the fund should be allowed to continue. It is, in its present shape, simply such an assignment of imperial assets to local public works as is not granted in other provinces. The estate in Bengal receives already a much smaller share of the proceeds of the land than elsewhere, and it is hardly right that it should part with any portion of that share in order to assist local public works which ought to be provided for by local cesses. It appears to the Governor General in Council probable that the Government of India did not originally contemplate sanctioning anything like the procedure which has been founded upon these orders.

It should now be considered in the Home department, in consultation with the Government of Bengal, whether the fund for the improvement of Government estates should not be abolished, and whether the practice of crediting 3 per cent. of the revenue of all Government estates, and of the temporarily settled lands of Assam, to the "amalgamated district road fund," should not cease.

ORDERED, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Home department for further consideration and orders.

Memorandum by J. GEOGHEGAN, Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 193, dated Fort William, the 31st March 1870.)

FORWARDED to the Government of Bengal, with a request that a report may be submitted on the question raised by the financial department.

From Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department,—(No. 179B, dated Fort William, the 12th May 1870.)

SIR,

WITH reference to Government order No. 1441 of the 9th ultimo, I am directed to report that in the Board's opinion the fund for the improvement of Government estates should be maintained. They regard the fund as a recognition by Government of its duty as landlord to improve its property, and they are able to state that many valuable improvements have, in point of fact, been effected by disbursements from the fund.

From RIVERS THOMPSON, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department, to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department,—(No. 2368, dated Fort William, the 18th June 1870.)

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of Mr. Under-Secretary Geoghegan's endorsement No. 193 dated the 31st March 1870, requesting that a report may be submitted on the questions raised in the financial resolution No. 1760 of the 16th idem, whether the fund for the improvement of Government estates should not be abolished, and whether the practice of crediting 3 per cent. of the revenue of all Government estates, and of the temporarily settled lands of Assam, to the amalgamated district road fund, should not cease.

2. In reply, I am desired to say that the practice of crediting the amalgamated district road fund with the 3 per cent. deductions from collections of Government estates, and of the revenue of the temporarily settled districts in Assam has, under the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, been for some time discontinued. A copy of the resolution of this Government in the public works department (No. 1226 dated the 27th of February 1869), which accompanies this letter, will suffice to show that, in supersession of the rule which previously obtained, the collections under this fund are primarily available for the benefit of the estates and districts from which they are raised; and that at the end of the year the balances of this fund are credited to the fund for the improvement of the Government estates of the same district, instead of being, as heretofore, incorporated with the "amalgamated district road fund." The procedure to which exception is taken appears to have been sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor of these provinces in 1861; but it was probably ordered by Sir J. P. Grant as a matter of convenience of account only, and with the clear intention that each estate or district (as Cachar) or province (as Assam) should receive the full benefit of its own money. As above explained, this has been more directly enforced by the recent orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, and the expenditure of the collection is everywhere in accordance with the constitution of the fund.

3. In deprecating the proposal to abolish the existing fund for the improvement of Government property in Assam and other temporarily settled districts, the Lieutenant-Governor would urge upon the consideration of His Excellency the Governor General in Council the fallacy of the supposition that a local cess in estates or districts so situated would not fall upon imperial revenues. Where Government is the landlord, as in Assam, it is altogether erroneous to class the whole rental receipts as "imperial assets" in the same sense in which that term is applied to the land revenue of the bulk of Bengal and of the north-western provinces; and it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor to be an obvious mistake to apply to districts or estates in which Government is proprietor an argument derived from its position in the permanently settled districts of Bengal, and on that argument to hold that Government is not bound to contribute anything to such estates or districts out of the rental received from them.

4. It seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that it may fairly be argued that the assignment of 3 per cent. of the land revenue of khas estates for local improvement is in truth simply analogous to the road cesses which are levied, and which it is proposed to levy in those provinces or districts where the Government is not zemindar. In Assam and in other khas estates, the Government takes all it can get; and in this view the Government, in setting aside 3 per cent. for local purposes, only does exactly the same as it does when in other districts out of 52 per cent. of the gross assets it gives 2 per cent. for roads, except that the 3 per cent. in khas estates bears a smaller relation to the receipts of the State than the 2 per cent. does in the other case.

5. As regards temporarily settled districts where the Government is proprietor, in whatever way we view the proposition that local cesses must provide for works of public utility, the conclusion must be the same, that the charge eventually must fall upon the Government, if, as has been hitherto contended, such a cess is to fall upon the land only. Either Government as landlord must pay, as landlords in permanently settled estates are intended to pay the cess; or the Government must go beyond the terms of the settlement, and after taking the full rent as assessed at the settlement, must demand an additional cess for local works. If this is what the resolution of the financial department proposes, it can scarcely be justified if regard is had to the fact that the settlement is based upon the assets of what the settling party is fairly entitled to as a reasonable remuneration, after deducting all costs of collection and the payment of the Government revenue.

6. But even in this case there can be no doubt whatever that the knowledge of the intention to superadd a cess would in all new settlements invariably lessen the amount which the Government would receive in the shape of land revenue. Few officers have apprehended the force of this point more clearly than the present officiating secretary to the Government of India in the financial department; and the soundness of the view expressed by him, when commissioner of a division in Bengal, in paragraphs 47 and 48 of his letter No. 128 dated the 3rd of June 1868, to the address of the secretary to this Government, seems to the Lieutenant-Governor to be beyond dispute.

His words are:—

"Be the theory what it may, I cannot believe that, practically, a landowner will consent "to the same settlement, or a Government officer will succeed in imposing the same settle- "ment, when a rate is to be paid, as he would do if there were none. Certainly, in Bengal, "and I presume elsewhere, there is much actual bargaining between the settlement officer "and the landowner before the rate is fixed on the land at a settlement. The settlement rules "do not of course provide for this; but the process nevertheless goes on pari passu with the "procedure enjoined by the rules, which it undoubtedly influences. I feel confident that "in Bengal the Government will not, in new settlements, get the same revenue when a rate "is imposed as it would do if there was no rate; and what does that mean but that in fact "the Government in such cases has to pay the rate or a share of it? When a rate is super- "added, as it must be superadded in the permanently settled districts, there is not, of course, "room for any process of the kind."

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

Fort William, the 28th January 1871.

Read again—

Financial resolution No. 1760 dated the 16th March 1870, referring to the Home department for consideration whether the fund for the improvement of Government estates in Bengal should not be abolished, and whether the practice of crediting 3 per cent. of the revenue of all Government estates, and of the temporarily settled lands of Assam, to the "amalgamated district road fund," should not cease.

Read—

Endorsement from the Home department, No. 587 dated the 18th October 1870, forwarding a letter from the Government of Bengal on the subject, with the remark that there seems to be no reason why the practice in question should not, as proposed by this department, be abolished.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor-General in Council observes from the letter of the Government of Bengal that, since February 1869, the 3 per cent. deductions from collections of Government estates and of the revenue of the temporarily settled districts in Assam have been credited, not to the amalgamated district road fund, but to a fund for the improvement of Government estates, which is primarily employed for the benefit of the estates and districts from which the collections are raised, or upon roads in the neighbourhood that are likely to benefit the particular estates or districts which contribute to the funds.

2. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor urges that this fund should be maintained, on the ground that, as proprietor, the Government is bound to assign a portion of the revenue derived from Government estates, and temporarily settled estates, to local improvement.

3. The Governor General in Council is of opinion that the principle of crediting to local funds any part of the imperial revenue now in question is unsound, and must cease gradually. In 1871-72 the local fund may be allowed credit for 3 per cent., as at present; but in 1872-73 only 2 per cent. must be taken; in 1873-74, only one per cent.; and thereafter nothing.

CALCUTTA MARKETS' BILL.

Mr. Schalch moved for leave to bring in a Bill for the better regulation of markets in Calcutta. In doing so he said that for a very considerable time back great dissatisfaction had been expressed at the present system for the supply of food, meat, and vegetables for the use of the town. This feeling became so strong some years ago, that a meeting was held in the Town Hall, he thought even before the constitution of the present municipality, on which occasion the subject was brought before the public. At that meeting the inconvenience and evils attending the present condition of the markets were fully brought forward, and appeared to have been enlarged upon. However, that meeting seemed to have gone no further. But the practical result was to bring the matter more prominently before the public. In 1863 the present municipality was constituted, and one of its first acts was to place all the markets in the town under the supervision of the health officer, to whom they assigned an establishment for the purpose. Through the health officer's influence with the owners of the markets considerable improvements were effected in some of the smaller markets, but in the larger markets, especially in the Dhurrumtollah market, very little indeed had been done. This might be due, in some measure, to the owner not having any fear of competition before his eyes: still more it seemed to be due to the manner in which the bazar was constructed, which prevented any real reform being effected without, in fact, demolishing the whole building and building it up again on a totally different plan. This of course would involve serious expenditure, and it was not surprising that the owner should have not undertaken it. It seemed, therefore, that but little could be done in that way. When he (Mr. Schalch) was chairman of the municipality, he brought the matter before the justices at a meeting held in January 1866, and a resolution was then passed that a sum of Rs. 1,000 a year be allotted out of the surplus income of past years towards the purchase of a site, and for the construction of a municipal market. This resolution was passed, he believed, by a considerable majority and forwarded to the Government at the time. The sanction of Government to that proposition was subsequently given, and things seemed in good train for the construction of a market. Shortly after this he left the municipality, and the attention of his successor was necessarily so much taken up in the important works of the drainage and water-supply of the town, that the matter was allowed to remain in abeyance. It was afterwards again brought forward, but there seemed to be some considerable opposition to the project, and a desire not to interfere with vested rights, and the matter was not carried out. However, public attention had been directed to the condition of the existing bazars, and many complaints were made on the subject, so much so that the present chairman, Mr. Hogg, again brought the matter before the justices at a very large and influential meeting which was held during the last month. At that meeting a resolution was passed which led to the chairman addressing the Government of Bengal on the subject. The shorter way to explain matters, he thought, would be to read out a portion of that letter, which was dated the 16th January last. The chairman of the justices there said :—

"At the quarterly meeting of the justices held to-day, the expediency of establishing a municipal market, and the measures which should be adopted to effect this object, were very fully discussed, and I now have the honor to submit, for the consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the opinion and recommendations of the justices on this important subject.

"2. At present there are only two markets where Europeans can obtain supplies from—namely, the Dhurrumtollah and the Tiretta. Meat and provisions of superior quality are sold only at Dhurrumtollah, and this is the market from whence nearly all the higher classes of Europeans have their table supplied. It is situated at the corner of Chowringhee Road and Dhurrumtollah Street, on all sides it is surrounded by houses, and the area devoted to the market is altogether insufficient and inadequate for the requirements of the public. The market, moreover, is most defective in the important point of ventilation, and the stalls and buildings therein are so low and small as to be altogether unsuited for the sale of provisions. Owing also to the confined space and defective structure of the buildings, it is quite impossible to carry out any proper and efficient conservancy arrangements. The consequence is, that the market presents a most uninviting appearance, and the odours emanating from it are most offensive.

"3. For the reasons above stated, the justices are almost unanimously of opinion that a suitable first-class market is a crying and imperative want, which should be provided for by the corporation. However, as under the existing Municipal Acts, the corporation is not empowered to construct a market, the justices are unable to take any steps in the matter unless the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal will be pleased, by legislative enactment, to confer on the corporation such powers as shall enable them to do all acts necessary for this purpose.

"4. Should the views of the justices in this matter receive the support and approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the justices trust that His Honor will allow the Act also to embrace provisions enabling the justices to exercise an efficient control over all existing markets, which object might be best secured by empowering the justices to make bye-laws, subject to confirmation by the Lieutenant-Governor, for the regulation of all bazars, and also prohibiting any building or place being used as a public market until the owner shall have obtained a license from the municipality. By this proposal it is not intended that the justices shall be empowered arbitrarily to close any existing market, but simply to enable the corporation to insist on the proprietors of existing markets abiding by the bye-laws which may be passed to regulate the conservancy arrangements of all markets.

"5. As regards the measures necessary to enable the corporation to raise funds for the construction of one more market, the justices suggest that the proposed Bill shall authorize their raising capital by the issue of debentures, or otherwise, on the security of the markets which they may decide on constructing, and on the collateral security of the rates and taxes; it being provided in the Act that all existing debenture-holders shall have the first lien on the rates and taxes now in force."

The letter went on to explain the scheme which was laid before the justices, with which however, he (Mr. Schalch) need not trouble the Council, and concluded by expressing the hope that the Lieutenant-Governor would lay the matter before the Government and move it for the grant of a loan for the purpose. This letter was forwarded to the Government of India with an expression of the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor supporting the proposition, and stating that as to the question of the extension of the power of the justices to borrow money, His Honor would be prepared to introduce a Bill into the Bengal Council if the Governor General in Council would grant the loan. These papers were forwarded to him (Mr. Schalch) with a request that he would lay the matter before the Council.

It would be observed that the justices now made three requests: first, to enable them to purchase land for the construction of a municipal market; secondly to raise the necessary sum by the issue of debentures on certain conditions; and thirdly, to have greater powers placed in their hands for the regulation of the existing markets. With the permission of the Council he would say a few words on each of these points.

It would almost appear from the previous action of the municipality that they considered that they had full powers under the Act to construct a market. Looking to the Act itself there appeared nothing very explicit on the subject, and although there was nothing in the Act against their constructing a market, as the justices had to come to the Council for power to raise fresh debentures, it would, he thought, be as well for the Council to settle the question definitely. On the question as to whether it was expedient to grant these powers or not, he thought it would rest entirely on the question as to whether the existing markets were fit places for the purpose. If new markets were required, he though there was no body better suited for the purpose of the establishment of a market than the municipality. As to the state of the existing markets, he would read to the Council extracts of a letter from Dr. Macrae, the then officiating health officer of the municipality. Dr. Macrae was too well known to most of the members of the Council for it to be necessary to make any remarks as to his character, and he (Mr. Schalch) was sure that what was said by Dr. Macrae would have great weight with the Council :—

"I would beg to record my protest against the continuance of the Dhurrumtollah bazar in its present condition. Adequate as it may have been for the wants of the European community forty years ago, when their numbers were a tithe of what they are now, it is in every single respect unfit and inadequate for the wants of the present day. It has not one qualification for a market-place. It has no ventilation, being surrounded by buildings having only small gates of entrance, through which no current of air can find a passage. As a result, at any hour of the day or night the atmosphere is foul and tainted. It is infinitely too small, the frequenters of it being hustled and crowded while making their purchases. The flooring is in great part earth, never washed, but saturated with drippings from the stalls, which likewise are rarely or ever washed. I will say nothing of many abuses which have come to my knowledge, which, if generally known, would tend to convert the European into a vegetarian I have striven vainly to correct them; but unless the holders of the bazar are directly subject to the orders of the municipality, these disgusting practices cannot be restrained."

He would ask any member of the Council to spend half an hour in the Dhurrumtollah bazar, and he (Mr. Schalch) was quite sure that any member who did so would be satisfied of the want of ventilation, cleanliness, and arrangement in the market, and the dense crowd which prevailed there. No doubt, when first constructed, the market might have been well suited to the requirements of the town. Since then the European population had largely increased, and such a visit would, he believed, satisfy the most sceptical of the necessity for a new bazar. As he had said before, the construction of a new bazar could best be carried out by the municipality, on the understanding that the expenditure incurred for the purpose should involve no risk to the municipal fund. The justices had expressed a decided opinion on that point. They said in the letter to which he had previously referred—

"Although the justices propose that the rates and taxes should be offered as collateral security for market loans, they have little doubt that the rents derived from a municipal market, when once established, will be fully sufficient to meet, not only the interest on the capital expended, but also to provide a reasonable sinking fund to liquidate the loan raised for the cost of the market."

That was a subject which might be safely left for their consideration and discussion. He thought the justices were fairly entitled to have the power they seek placed in their hands, and in the Bill he asked leave to introduce he proposed granting them that power.

On the second question, as to the issue of debentures, it had been urged that it was unfair to issue debentures on the security of the general funds for works the benefits of which would be derived by Europeans only. He would altogether dispute that point; for not only would Europeans derive benefit from the construction of a municipal market, but also the several mixed classes that were to be found in the city. When properly constructed and properly arranged, the market would be largely resorted to by the Mahomedan community, and the day, he thought, would not be long distant when the Hindoos themselves would go to the market for what they required. It would probably be urged that their religious feelings and projudices would not allow them to make their purchases there, but he thought that in such matters convenience would predominate over feelings and prejudices. We all know what was said on the construction of railways in this country, and how the more respectable Hindoos would refuse to avail themselves of them on account of the commingling of the different classes. He would ask anybody to visit the railway station at Howrah, and he would find Brahmins in hundreds there cheek by jowl with people of all castes. We were told also in regard to the city water-supply that it was an iniquitous thing to tax the general community for a work which a large portion of the people, the Hindoos, would not use. He had great pleasure in stating that a friend of his, a native of great influence, had told him that he was extremely glad that the water-supply scheme had been completed. He said that it had proved of great benefit to the Hindoo community, and especially to the poorer classes. Another native had told him that the water was used by the Hindoos for every purpose except for the service of their gods, and that even that prejudice would soon cease.

He (Mr. Schalch) thought that if it had been found that the plea had proved futile in these two cases, we might be quite sure that if a market was constructed and established on a proper system, and if a good article was sold there at a cheap rate, the Hindoos as well as the other classes of the community would resort to it. Besides this, we already had a precedent in what the municipality had done in the case of public necessaries, which were formerly in so filthy a state that he would not disgust the Council by attempting to enter into a description of their details. They were taken up by the municipality and organized on an entirely different plan, and this had been done at the very large cost from the general municipal fund of over two lakhs of rupees; but the interest of that cost had been more than reimbursed by the receipts from these improved public necessaries. Now, these necessaries were constructed, not for the benefit of the whole town, but only for a limited portion of it, and yet it could not be denied that the money had been well and properly spent, though for the immediate benefit of a portion of the community only. The same argument would apply to money spent for the construction of a market even if primarily conducive to the benefit of a portion of the town.

He now came to the consideration of the third question, in which the justices had asked for increased powers for regulating markets. But here he found some difficulty. He found on referring to the existing Acts, that by certain sections of Act VI of 1863 the justices could at present ensure the proper drainage of and supply of water in the existing markets. They could also, under a subsequent section, make bye-laws for the inspection of all markets, the management and conduct of business therein, and for keeping the same in a cleanly and proper state, and for removing filth therefrom. By another section they had power to inspect all articles of food, and if they found any article unfit for human consumption, they could have it confiscated and destroyed; and, further, by a later Act (VI. of 1866) they had power to direct the widening of the passages of bazars. With these powers, which they already possessed, and without any assertion on the part of the justices in what respect these powers were insufficient, he would decline to grant them the larger powers they sought. They wanted that each existing market should have a license, and if the owners did not observe the existing laws and bye-laws, that the license should be withdrawn. This seemed a rather harsh measure, because the existing laws and bye-laws had certain penalties attached to their non-observance; and he thought it was better to increase, if necessary, those penalties, than to attach to them a secondary punishment far greater than what those penalties involved. In the case of the new bazars it would be necessary that the parties proposing to bring them into use should first have a certificate from the health officer and the engineer of the justices to show that the place proposed to be opened as a bazar was properly constructed and suitable for the purpose; because, when a bazar was once established, it was difficult subsequently to make any necessary alterations. He had therefore in the Bill limited the power of the justices to the compulsory grant without fee of licenses to the existing bazars merely for the purpose of having a record of the owners in the justices' books, so that it might be known against whom they could proceed to enforce penalties for breaches of the bye-laws, but without power to revoke or recall such licenses.

There was not, he thought, any other subject to which he need now draw the attention of the Council, and he therefore begged to move for leave to bring in the Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

HOWRAH BRIDGE.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved for leave to bring in a Bill for the construction of a bridge across the river Hooghly between Howrah and Calcutta. He said that for very many years the question of the connection of the two banks of the river had been under consideration. A number of schemes had been brought forward and considered: it had been discussed whether there should be a permanent bridge, whether it should be a railway bridge connecting the termini of the two railways in a central position in the town, whether it should be a floating road bridge, and so forth, discussions with which he would not trouble the Council. For reasons that had already been published, the Government of India had determined, at all events for the present, that it was not necessary to spend half a million in making a permanent bridge across the river. There seemed to be an objection to expend so large a sum of the imperial revenues for what the Government of India holds to be a local purpose, as under the view taken by that Government a bridge seemed to be required much more for local traffic than the through traffic of the country. It had been argued by the commission appointed to consider the question of constructing a floating bridge, that the local passenger traffic was five times as great as the railway traffic, and therefore the demand for facility of communication across the river was quite as much for local purposes as for the convenience of the country at large. Adopting this view, a floating bridge was, in the opinion of the Supreme Government, all that was required for the present. It was therefore determined at once to construct a floating bridge between Calcutta and Howrah, and a contract had been entered into with Mr. Bradford Leslie, an eminent engineer, for the construction of such a bridge, at a cost not exceeding £150,000, to be completed by the beginning of the year 1873. But as to the merits of the respective schemes, it was not necessary to take up the time of the Council.

What remained to be done, and what the Council was asked to do, was to pass a legislative enactment for the purpose of giving effect to this scheme for a floating bridge, which would remove any legal difficulties that might arise in carrying out the work, and keep the Government free from all liability in regard to accidents arising from the construction of the bridge and the consequent restrictions to navigation and traffic, and also for determining the necessary arrangements for securing the levy of tolls and the re-payment of the Government advance. The proposal now under consideration was that the collection of the tolls should be to some extent entrusted to the East Indian Railway Company, and that they should, on behalf of the Government, levy a certain small increased rate, very slight indeed, on goods and passengers coming to their station, and the bridge would therefore be practically free to all persons between the two stations. Beyond this there would be a certain amount of local traffic on which a small toll would be levied, probably not more than was now paid by passengers for the very much more dangerous and inconvenient means of crossing now available.

The bridge would be constructed with Government capital, and the question would remain for consideration how the affairs of the bridge should eventually be administered. It was proposed at present that the Bill should be drawn so as to meet any one of these three courses; either that the bridge should remain in the hands of Government officers, the Railway Company collecting the dues and tolls of the railway portion of the traffic, in which case there would be very little indeed for any one else to do. The next course was to make over the bridge to the present port fund commissioners; the third course was that the bridge should be made over to a board of trustees, to whom its affairs would be entirely entrusted. It was proposed, as said before, by the Bill to leave this question open to future adjustment. The Bill could be so drawn as to enable the Government to make over the bridge at any time that they were prepared to do so to a board which would collect the tolls and pay back to the Government the money advanced for the construction of the bridge by means of a sinking fund, very much on the principle which had been followed in the case of the Port Improvement Act.

He did not propose to go into the details of the Bill to-day. He hoped in the course of next week to circulate the Bill to members of the Council, and on that occasion he would explain its provisions.

The motion was agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 18th instant.

Gift of land for a road by Rajah Koomul Kishen Bahadoor and Baboo Anoda Persad Roy.

From Lord H. Ulick Browne, Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department,—(No. 613, dated Chittagong, the 24th January 1871.)

I beg to bring to the notice of Government the generous and public-spirited conduct of two zemindars of Tipperah, Rajah Koomul Kishen Bahadoor and Baboo Anoda Persad Roy.

2. A road is under construction between Comillah and the sub-division of Brahmunbariah. About seven miles of the road will pass through the estates of the former gentleman, and about nine miles through the estates of the latter

Rajah Koomul Kishen Bahadoor and Baboo Anoda Persad Roy have given all the land in their estates required for the road free of charge, which will enable us to complete the road much sooner than would have been possible if we had to pay for the sixteen miles of land out of the annual road fund grants.

3. I beg to recommend that a suitable acknowledgment of this generosity be published in the Gazette.

From H. S. Beadon, Esq., Officiating Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division,—(No. 424, dated Fort William, the 13th February 1871.)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 613 dated 24th ultimo, and in reply to request that you will be good enough to convey to Rajah Koomul Kishen Bahadoor and Baboo Anoda Persad Roy the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor for their generous and public-spirited gift of the land required for the road which is under construction between Comillah and the sub-division of Brahmunbariah.

Jurisdiction to enquire into deaths.

8. When a Coroner is informed that the death of any person has been caused by accident, homicide, suicide, or suddenly by means unknown, or that any person being a prisoner has died in prison, the Coroner shall inquire into the cause of death.

Every such inquiry shall be deemed a judicial proceeding within the meaning of section one hundred and ninety-three of the Indian Penal Code.

11. A Coroner may order a body to be disinterred within a reasonable time after the death of the deceased person, either for the purpose of taking an original inquisition where none has been taken, or a further inquisition where the first was insufficient.

Summoning jury.

12. On receiving notice of any death mentioned in section eight, the Coroner shall summon five, seven, nine, eleven, thirteen or fifteen respectable persons to appear before him at a time and place to be specified in the summons, for the purpose of enquiring when, how, and by what means the deceased came by his death.

View of body.

15. The Coroner and the jury shall view and examine the body at the first sitting of the inquest, and the Coroner shall make such observations to the jury as the appearance of the body requires.

17. It shall be the duty of all persons acquainted with the circumstances attending the death to appear before the inquest as witnesses: the Coroner shall enquire of such circumstances and the cause of the death; and if before or during the enquiry he is informed that any person can give evidence material thereto, may issue a summons requiring him to attend and give evidence in the inquest.

Any person failing so to attend or give evidence shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section one hundred and seventy-four or one hundred and seventy-six of the Indian Penal Code, as the case may be.

The Coroner may direct the performance of a post mortem examination, with or without an analysis of the contents of the stomach or intestines, by any medical witness summoned to attend the inquest: and every medical witness, other than the Chemical Examiner to Government, shall be entitled to such reasonable remuneration as the Coroner thinks fit.

Fees to medical witnesses.

Evidence to be on oath.

19. All evidence given under this Act shall be on oath, and the Coroner shall be bound to receive evidence on behalf of the party (if any) accused of causing the death of the deceased person.

Interpreter.

Witnesses unacquainted with the English language shall be examined through the medium of an interpreter, who shall be sworn to interpret truly as well the oath as the questions put to, and the answers given by, the witnesses.

Questions suggested by jury.

After each witness has been examined, the Coroner shall enquire whether the jury wish any further questions to be put to the witness, and if the jury wish that any such questions should be put, the Coroner shall put them accordingly.

Coroner to take down evidence in writing.

20. The Coroner shall commit to writing the material parts of the evidence given to the jury, and shall read or cause to be read over such parts to the witness and then procure his signature thereto.

Coroner to subscribe depositions.

Every such deposition shall be subscribed by the Coroner.

Adjournment of inquest.

21. The Coroner may adjourn the inquest from time to time, and from place to place.

Jurors' recognizances.

25. When the verdict is that the death has been caused by culpable homicide amounting to murder, or by culpable homicide not amounting to murder, or by a rash or negligent act not amounting to culpable homicide, the Coroner shall bind by recognizance any person knowing or declaring anything material touching such murder, homicide, or act to appear at the next criminal sessions at which the trial is to be, then and there to prosecute or give evidence against the party charged.

The Coroner shall certify and subscribe such recognizances, and shall, immediately after the inquest, deliver them, together with the inquisition and evidence, to the proper officer of the Court in which the trial is to be.

2. As often as any goods are lodged in a public warehouse or a licensed private warehouse, the warehouse-keeper, or, in the case of the Bengal Bonded Warehouse Association, the Secretary of the said Association shall deliver a warrant signed by him as such to the person lodging the goods.

Warrant to be given every time goods are warehoused.

Such warrant shall be in the form in the schedule to this Act annexed, and shall be transferable by endorsement ; and the endorsee shall be entitled to receive the goods specified in such warrant on the same terms as those on which the person who originally lodged the goods would have been entitled to receive the same.

Form of warrant.

"CXXXVII. Upon the re-export by sea to any foreign port or place of any goods except salt or opium, capable of being easily identified, imported by sea into British India from any foreign port or place, and upon which duties of customs have been paid on importation, three-fourths of such duty shall be repaid as drawback, and one-fourth shall be retained as reserved duty.

Act to be read with Act VI of 1863.

4. This Act shall be read with and taken as part of the Consolidated Customs Act.

SCHEDULE.

FORM OF BONDED WAREHOUSE WARRANT.

(See Section 2.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make three amendments in the Consolidated Customs Act VI of 1863.

Section 23 of that Act authorises the Government of India to prohibit the exportation or importation of any particular class of goods. To prevent a doubt which has been raised as to the extent of the power thus conferred, the Bill introduces words 'by sea or by land, or both by sea and by land.'

A new section provides that when goods are warehoused, a warrant shall be delivered to the person lodging the goods, and that such warrant shall be transferable by endorsement. This is now the law as regards the Bengal Bonded Warehouse. The change has been suggested by the Government of Bombay.

Another section, intended to replace section 137 of Act VI of 1863, provides that the goods on which drawback was allowed shall be easily identifiable; that the Governor General in Council may determine what such goods shall be deemed to be, and that three-fourths (instead of seven-eighths) shall be the amount of drawback, (one-fourth instead of one-fifth) being retained as reserved duty.

The 8th February 1871. R. TEMPLE.

IV. Every person who shall sell or expose for sale meat, fish, fruit, or vegetables in any place not used as a market at the time of the passing of this Act, and not licensed as a market, shall be liable to a fine which may extend to ten Rupees: provided, however, that nothing in this section shall extend to itinerant vendors of fish, fruit, or vegetables.

XI. All such rents, tolls, and fees which shall be imposed shall be recoverable by the Justices, from the persons liable to pay the same, as if the amounts payable in respect thereof were rates due to the Justices from such persons under the provisions of Act VI. of 1863 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.

Report on the Moonsheegunge Baronee Fair.

From F. B. SIMSON, ESQ., Commissioner of Dacca, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 21, dated Dacca, the 27th January 1871.)

I HAVE the honor to submit herewith copy of a letter, No. 34 of 10th instant, from the magistrate of Dacca, and also copy of a report on the Moonsheegunge Baronee fair, held about the close of 1870, from the assistant magistrate of Moonsheegunge.

2. I visited the fair in company with Colonel Haughton, commissioner of Cooch Behar, who was much surprised at its extent, and the immense trade developed in connection with it, amounting to a transfer of Rs. 20,00,000.

3. All this part of Bengal has this year been exceptionally healthy at present, as far as is known. This is entirely owing to Providence, for the places with worst reputation, and which have been least cared for, have been as healthy as those in which much money has been spent in interference.

4. The year has been altogether exceptional both in Dacca and in Calcutta, in the country and in towns, and also in fairs; and the fact cannot be attributable to any human agency, nor can true deductions be drawn as to results in limited areas, when those results have been so universally similar throughout the country. There was a higher inundation last year than usual: possibly this may have carried off much impurity generally.

From D. R. LYALL, ESQ., Officiating Magistrate of Dacca, to the Commissioner of Dacca,—(No. 34, dated Dacca, the 10th January 1871.)

I HAVE the honor to submit herewith copy of a letter, No. 228 dated 31st ultimo, from the assistant magistrate of Moonsheegunge, reporting on the Kartic Baronee fair, with an abstract of the accounts of the fair.

2. I have to thank Mr. Page for his very successful management of the whole fair, as also Mr. Weatherall, the district superintendent of police.

3. I was able to be present myself only twice this year during the fair, owing to the requirements of Act VI. (Village Chowkeedaree Act), but all I saw was most satisfactory, and the sanitary commissioner made no objection.

4. I am taking measures for realizing the remainder of the sums due.

5. I beg to draw your attention to the item of native doctor's pay, Rs. 47. It appears to me hard to charge this to the zemindars, as these are paid servants of Government, merely deputed to the fair. Even in the case of dispensaries Government pays the doctor's salary. It is, however, the order of Government, and I have accordingly charged it.

From W. H. PAGE, ESQ., Assistant Magistrate of Moonsheegunge, to the Magistrate of Dacca,—(No. 228, dated Moonsheegunge, the 31st December 1870.)

I HAVE the honor, in accordance with your letter No. 1918 of 29th October 1870, to submit the following report on the Kartic Baronee fair, held on the chur near Moonsheegunge during the months of November and December.

2. The fair commenced as usual with the bathing festival, which took place this year on the 8th November, corresponding with the Bengali purnima (full moon) of 23rd Kartic 1277. The number of bathers was estimated at about 1,500 persons, chiefly women and Brahmins, being a little less than last year, when it is supposed that these were about two thousand.

3. The first arrivals were on Thursday, the 3rd November, a few people coming with mats and wood from the Soonderbuns and the district of Backergunge. These you saw on your visit on the 6th. On the 7th a few petty shop-keepers came, and on the 8th the bank was crowded with the bathers, who went away that day and the next, making room for the buyers and sellers. The 9th and 10th were occupied in the erection of the shops, and from the 11th to the 18th the shop-keepers arrived in great numbers. By the 18th the fair was about full, and business commenced briskly.

4. It would be superfluous to give any detailed account of the nature of the fair, that having been done some years back by Mr. A. L. Clay, and last year by Dr. D. B. Smith. It differed but little from previous descriptions, and that little principally in situation. The fair being earlier than usual by about a week, and the floods high and unusually prolonged, the space available on the chur was much narrower than usual. The people wished to meet this difficulty by narrowing the road between the shops, but I thought it better to insist on a good wide road of about forty feet, the effect of which was to send the fair westward, so far that the police outpost at the end was close to Rikabi Bazar.

5. The reason for this was the strict rule of a good broad street, to ensure ventilation, insisted on by Dr. Smith, whose recommendations, as made in his letter to the magistrate of Dacca last year, I endeavoured as much as possible to follow.

6. A large staff of police (the detailed list of which I append) was furnished by the district superintendent, who was present during the whole time of the erection of the shops, and paid subsequent visits also. I have to express my great obligations to him for valuable assistance in maintaining the conservancy arrangements during the fair.

7. The police under the command of sub-inspector Prayag Dutt Tewari behaved on the whole well, and I had occasion to report one or two cases specially to the district superintendent. About seventy-three persons were punished under section 290, Indian Penal Code, for disregarding the conservancy rules, with fines varying from one to four annas. As compared with last year, the number of complaints of theft was extremely small.

8. The number of shops was about 600; the number of people, including visitors, about 80,000; and the merchandise sold, about Rs. 20,00,000. A detailed list of the principal articles sold, with their values, is given herewith (list).

9. Copies of the paper (A) of "information and rules for the people" were posted about in conspicuous parts of the fair, and their purport made known by beat of drum.

10. I may observe that I did what I could to assure the agents of the zemindars and the principal shop-keepers that the object of these rules was not to annoy them in any way, but to do the best possible to avoid any outbreak of disease. I succeeded to a certain extent in making them believe this.

11. There was a report before the fair, that in consequence of the strict measures enforced last year with regard to conservancy, there would be no gathering at all this year. The méla was however very little, if at all, smaller than last year, and the best proof that the shop-keepers were not inconvenienced is, that it lasted from the 8th November, the bathing festival, until the 22nd December. I cannot find that it has ever continued longer than this.

12. One important concession was made this year with your permission, after a petition by some shop-keepers of Dacca, returned herewith, viz. that they should be permitted to erect privies of their own instead of being compelled to use the trenches. A place was assigned about 150 yards to the rear of the fair, in which they were allowed to erect movable sheds, open to inspection by myself and the police, and kept clean by their own sweepers at their own expense. This is not strictly in accordance with Dr. Smith's rules of last year, but on visiting the place this year, offered no objection to the alteration.

13. Another point in which it was impossible to carry out Dr. Smith's wishes, was his recommendation that no prostitutes should be allowed to come to the fair, except provided with clean bills of health. I did not see any way to effect this, nor was any practicable suggestion made by yourself or the civil surgeon. There were in all fifty-one of these women, who apparently did a fine trade, as the rent paid by them during the fair for their miserable mat cabins varied from four to ten rupees.

14. The sanitary commissioner noticed last year the great nuisance occasioned by masses of floating weed decaying on the river bank. This year this was in a great measure prevented by a couple of standing mat fences, which turned most of the weed into the middle of the stream. This useful arrangement was suggested by Mr. Weatherall.

15. The amount of sickness this year was smaller than has ever been known. Two persons died during the fair, one about seventy years old, of dysentery of twelve years' standing; and the other (an old woman of a similar age) from injuries sustained by a fall. There were one or two cases of fever, and one other of dysentery. The last was sent to the Mitford Hospital at the end of the fair. Not a single case of cholera occurred. This fact, together with the experience of last year, furnishes strong proof that it is not in these fairs that cholera originates, but that the disease may generally be traced to the places whence the sick come.

16. I enclose an account of money received and disbursed. It is larger than last year—the reason of this being, first, that the staff of mehters at first employed was found insufficient, and was consequently doubled; and secondly, that through the delay of the zemindars in putting up the thannah and hospital accommodation, the police and native doctors were compelled for some days to live in boats. The hospital bills are sent in original herewith.

17. I return the printed papers forwarded with your letter, and append a rough sketch of the fair.

CENSUS OF BENGAL.

The Advocate-General said, although the motion in his name stood second on the list, he would take leave to move it first, as he had but a few observations to address to the Council on the subject. The motion was for leave to bring in a Bill to enable the Lieutenant-Governor to take a census of Bengal. With reference to the title of the Bill, as a Bill to enable the Lieutenant-Governor to take a census of Bengal, he would observe that, in his opinion (and he thought it stood to reason that it must be so), the taking of a census was essentially an administrative act, and the only necessity for legislation was to enable the administrative Government to carry out such details as might be thought necessary for effecting the object proposed. He thought it unnecessary on the present occasion to urge on the Council observations regarding the extreme desirability, if not the necessity, of obtaining accurate and complete information of the number and distribution of the present population of Bengal. He would confine himself on the present occasion to indicating very briefly what were the leading principles of the measure which it was proposed to introduce.

The three matters of principle which were involved in the measure, and which he would briefly describe, were these: The first was that, with a view to uniformity of system in the different districts, the general superintendence and carrying out of the census should be committed to the registrar-general. With regard to that, as also with regard to the other main principles involved in the Bill, communications had been received from most of the commissioners, collectors, and officiating collectors throughout Lower Bengal; and he should only now say that the general result of these communications, subject in various instances to criticisms of particular portions of the proposed measure, was in favor of the suggestion that the general superintendence of the census should be placed in the hands of the registrar-general.

Then the next point involving a question of principle was this, that the immediate and practical carrying out of the enumeration should be placed in the hands of the collectors of district, and not in the hands of magistrates. The Bill would propose that power should be given to the collector to appoint the necessary enumerators for his district, and he would of course have a general supervision over these enumerators; and it would be the duty of the collector to see that the enumerators carried out the objects of the Bill by collecting information from the population individually, according to certain specified forms which would be issued from the registrar-general's office, and with the sanction of the Government.

The third and only remaining question of principle which he thought it necessary to bring before the Council upon this occasion was that it was also proposed that the duty, which otherwise would be vested in the collector, of appointing enumerators and seeing by way of supervision that these enumerators performed their duties, might be delegated by the collector to the proprietors of estates, that is, to the zemindars who paid revenue directly to the Government; and it was also proposed that it should be compulsory on the zemindars in such cases to undertake and perform the duty of appointing enumerators and supervising the carrying out by them of the objects of the Act.

These were severally matters of importance (to say nothing of matters of detail for the present) which he thought would require much consideration, and in regard to which, after he had obtained leave to bring in the Bill, and when he would move the first reading, it was his intention to comment and enlarge somewhat more. Should he obtain leave to move the first reading of the Bill, it would be introduced in a shape in some not unimportant respects different from the rough draft which he had before him. At present he did not think it necessary to say more than to indicate what appeared to be the general principles of the Bill as regards the authorities, or rather various authorities, to whom was to be entrusted the duty of effectually carrying out the object desired, namely, of taking a census of the population.

The motion was agreed to.

SURVEY OF STEAM VESSELS.

Mr. Rivers Thompson moved for leave to bring in a Bill to increase the fees for the survey of steam vessels. He said that the Acts relating to the survey of steam vessels in the provinces subject to the jurisdiction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal were Acts V. of 1862 and 1. of 1868 of this Council. Provision is made for the remuneration of the surveyors appointed by means of fees as given in the schedule annexed to Act V. of 1862; and by section 10 of the said Act it is enacted that, for every survey of a steam vessel, the owner or master should pay a fee calculated on the tonnage of the vessel according to the rates in schedule B.

The procedure had always been to depute two surveyors to perform the survey; one for the survey of the hull, and the second for the survey of the machinery of the steamer; and, up to a very recent date, the practice had been to pay a separate fee to each of the surveyors so employed. The question, however, arose recently whether, under the strict terms of the law, such a practice was legal; and on a reference to the learned gentleman who officiated for the Advocate-General, it was held that the plain interpretation of section 10 of the Act was, that one fee should be paid for every survey to both the surveyors. Mr. Graham went on to say that what was required to be paid for was the survey itself, and it was immaterial whether the survey was made by one person or not. It had been represented that, under this interpretation of the law, the remuneration provided for the payment of surveyors was totally inadequate for the arduous and responsible duties they had to perform; and a representation was made by the marine authorities for an amendment of the law, so as to provide for a separate fee for each of the surveyors. He (Mr. Thompson) thought it could not be doubted that it was the intention of the framers of the Act that there should be a separate fee for each surveyor. And until attention was drawn to the precise wording of the law, the practice had always been to pay a separate fee for each surveyor. It was also shown that in almost every case it was necessary that two surveyors should be deputed, and the division of the fee was insufficient to give an adequate remuneration for the work done. He would add that the fee levied for the survey of a steam vessel in India was less than the fee levied at home under the merchant shipping Act; and in the enclosure to the report made by the master attendant on the subject, the opinion was expressed by four or five mercantile houses having shipping interests in this port that a division of the fee would be inadequate for the performance of the duty. To remedy this defect he would, with the permission of the Council, move for leave to bring in a short Bill to provide that a separate fee should be paid to each surveyor employed in the survey of a steam vessel.

The motion was agreed to.

REGULATION OF MARKETS IN CALCUTTA.

Mr. Schalch moved that the Bill for the better regulation of markets in Calcutta be read in Council. He said that at the last meeting of the Council he had stated rather fully the circumstances under which it was proposed to introduce this Bill, and the principles on which it was intended to frame it. He need not, therefore, take up the time of the council on the present occasion further than by making a brief statement of the details of the Bill before the Council.

The first portion of the Bill (sections 1 to 4) required that, in the case of any place not used as a market, if it was the intention of the proprietor to bring it into such use, he should take out a license from the Justices. The granting of the license would be compulsory on the Justices, provided a certificate was granted by the health officer and the engineer of the Justices that the place was suitable and fit for the purpose for which it was proposed to be used, and the license would be granted without any fee.

The second part of the Bill proposed that, with a view to enable the Justices to know the parties who were to be held responsible for the conservancy and cleanliness of a market, the name of the owner should be registered, and that all transfers of ownership should also be registered similarly without payment of any fee.

Lastly, the concluding sections of the Bill provided that the Justices shall be empowered to purchase land for the construction thereon of municipal markets. It provided that the cost that may be incurred for that purpose may be provided for by loans to be raised by the issue of debentures on the security of the tolls and dues levied therein; and collaterally on the security of the general fund, reserving however the right of the existing debenture-holders to have the first lien on the general fund. And it also provided for the mode in which the Justices were to recover the tolls and dues they may impose on the persons who may sell in their markets.

Baboo Jotteendro Mohun Tagore said that he wished to make a few observations on this Bill. He considered that conservancy and sanitation were the two principal things which came within the province of a municipality, and, as far as these were concerned, he thought the law gave sufficient power to the municipality to enforce proper conservancy arrangements in and an effective supervision and control over existing markets in Calcutta. He held that it was no part of the functions of the municipality to embark in speculations of any kind whatever, or to establish markets of their own. Now, the Bill proposed, not only to give the Justices power to construct a market, but also to authorize them to raise funds for that purpose on the collateral security of the general rates and taxes. It was an admitted fact, as the letter of the Chairman of the Justices would show, that the proposed market was intended specially for the benefit and convenience of the better classes of the Europeans. He submitted that it was exceedingly unfair and unjust to pledge the credit of the general rate-payers for the benefit of a small section of the community, and thus to render these rate-payers liable to additional taxation in case the speculation should prove unsuccessful.

On a former occasion the hon'ble mover of the Bill cited as a precedent that public necessaries were constructed out of the general funds, but that they were used by only a section of the lower orders of the people. He (Baboo Joteendro Mohun Tagore) begged to state that there was no analogy between the construction of public necessaries and a public market. Public necessaries have been constructed, not so much for the benefit of a particular class of the community, but for the improvement of the sanitation and cleanliness of those parts of the town in which they were situated; and being scattered over different localities, they added in no small degree to the general sanitation of the town. This, however, could not be said with regard to the proposed market. Then again, it was said that the time might come when the Hindoos would, equally with the Europeans, resort to the new market. On such speculative grounds he thought that a cathedral might be built out of the municipal funds on the plea that the so-called heathen denizens of Calcutta might hereafter be evangelized by the labors of the Christian missionaries; or an opera house might be started on the pretext that native ears might hereafter be trained to appreciate the sweets of Italian music. In fact, if this principle were admitted, the municipality would be justified to undertake anything and everything to suit the tastes of any particular section of the community. He therefore begged to suggest that the select committee be instructed to take these matters into their consideration, and to remedy the injustice to which he had referred.

Moulvy Abdool Luteef said that he had only one remark to make with reference to the provisions of section 4 of the Bill, which provided penalties on parties who sold fruits or other articles in places not licensed as markets. In his opinion this section would bear hardly on fruiterers who had not shops in regular markets; and he thought that the select committee should see that shop-keepers should not be inconvenienced or harassed by any such provision remaining in the Bill.

Mr. Schalch said that, with regard to the observations that had been made by the hon'ble member opposite (Baboo Joteendro Mohun Tagore), he wished to make a few remarks. He thought that the Council would agree with him, taking the European view of the case, that it quite fell within the province of the Justices to construct a market. It seemed to be argued that because there were different communities in Calcutta who had not the same wants and requirements as to articles of food, therefore the municipality should not be empowered to construct a market. He did not think that that held good, because it struck him that all portions of the community do want certain articles of consumption, though some may not require meat, others may not require fish, and so on. He thought that, whether they were Mahomedans, Hindoos, or Europeans, there were articles which they required, and which they would procure at the proposed market. He thought that a market, well constructed, well ventilated, and well regulated, would be found as useful to one class as to another. It has been urged that the market would be solely beneficial to one section of the community, and the cost of constructing such a market should therefore be borne by that community; and that if this principle was not observed, the municipal fund might be appropriated for the construction of a cathedral. But the cases were not analogous, as in the one all classes of the community might avail themselves of the benefit afforded by a market, whereas in the other, the building would be restricted to the use of one religious community. This latter was the view taken by the municipality with regard to the burning ghât. It was there held that the ghât, being for the benefit of one portion of the community, should be carried out at the expense of that community, and that principle was extended to every other religious community in the town. For very shortly after the question of the burning ghât had been discussed, the cemeteries existing in the town were closed, and the communities who used them were required at their own expense to provide themselves with burial grounds outside the town. This was done in the case of the Armenians and Greeks. The Armenians provided themselves with a new cemetery; and in the case of the Greeks, they were assisted only so far that land was taken up by the Justices as for a public purpose, but the whole expense was borne by the Greek community.

With regard to what had been last said, as to section 4 of the Bill being harassing on a certain class, he would explain that by the provision referred to it was intended that, if a place be hereafter used as a market without the owner having taken out a license, any person selling in such market would be punishable, provision being made that the clause should not affect itinerant vendors of fish, fruit, or vegetables.

The Advocate-General said that if he was not out of order in addressing the Council after the reply of the hon'ble mover of the Bill, and as he might perhaps not have another opportunity of expressing his views in the Council on this Bill, he would take leave to make a few observations, more particularly with reference to that portion of the Bill (the only portion which appeared to have been the subject of any objection) which enabled the Justices to erect a market, and for that purpose to raise the necessary funds by loan, and to pay interest on debentures issued on the collateral security of the municipal rates.

He entirely agreed with the hon'ble member on his right (Baboo Joteendro Mohun Tagore) in his remark that the general application of the municipal rates ought and was always intended to be for the sanitation and improvement of the town, and that that was the leading principle which always ought to guide the Council in legislating with regard to any future more or less particular application of the surplus rates. The application of that principle would sufficiently prevent the possibility of any suggestion being entertained for the erection of such things as a cathedral or an opera house. But he (the Advocate-General) failed to understand how it could be said that a Bill like the present, which not only provided for the superintendence and registration of existing markets, but which also enabled the Justices to erect new markets, could be any thing but a measure falling within the general object of sanitation and improvement. It was true that if we looked to the particular circumstances which influenced the municipality in applying to the legislature for passing a measure on the subject, they had no doubt special reference to the condition and capabilities of one principal market in the town which was principally, though not exclusively, used by the European community. Still he failed to see how it could be said that a proposal like the present, even assuming that it necessarily includes the erection of a new market which would give improved facilities for the purchase of commodities on the part of the European community, would be in any way transgressing the general principle which he had already admitted, namely, the principle of sanitation and improvement. It seemed to him that when, as in the present state of things with regard to Calcutta, the more broad and general measures of sanitation and improvement have been or were in course of being carried out under existing legislation, such as the general system of drainage, the supply of water, the lighting of the town, and street improvement, it would be in fact quite tying up the hands of the municipality as regards any further measure of sanitation and improvement if they were to be limited to measures in which every section of the community was equally interested. Even as regards these more general measures of improvement which had been or were being carried out, it could not be said that the whole community, or each section of the community, had benefited equally by them. For instance, as regards improvements in the communications of the town—the opening out or widening of streets—while he admitted that these were to be regarded as measures of general improvement, it could not be denied that the benefit to be derived from them was much greater as regards that portion of the inhabitants who resided in or frequented the immediate locality of each particular improvement, than it was in the case of other portions of the inhabitants, whether natives or Europeans, who resided at a distance. So again, with regard to the general improvement of the introduction of pure water. No one could say that it had not been practically and immediately of much greater benefit to the poorer portion of the inhabitants, and was of much greater necessity as regards particular sections of the town than it had been in other quarters. That improvement had been much more important as regards the portions of the town inhabited by the native community, than it had been to the portions inhabited by the European community, or the upper classes of the natives.

Now, to come back to the particular subject of the establishment of a market. Could it be said that it was in any way extending the principle of the Act of 1863, as a measure having for its object general sanitation and improvement, to empower the Justices to apply a certain portion of the surplus rates which were available, after providing for water-supply, drainage, and matters of that kind, in the construction of sufficient and convenient markets? If the Bill stood with the omission of any clauses empowering the justices to construct new markets, he apprehended it would be exceedingly imperfect, because, from the facts laid before the Council, he believed it was quite certain that, making all allowance for such local improvements as might be introduced by the establishment of a system of registration and supervision with regard to existing markets, still the limited extent and defective construction of such existing markets would leave things in a very unsatisfactory and insufficient state. Then, could it be said that because the benefit from the construction of a particular market would be greater and more immediate to the European community than to the inhabitants generally, there was any unfairness, or want of equity, in the Justices in their discretion—a discretion which, under the law, was subject to the sanction of the local Government—determining on the erection of such maket, any more than they would be acting unfairly in erecting another market in another part of the town, the benefit from which would accrue exclusively to the native population of that neighbourhood? It was not the object of the Justices, as he understood—it certainly was not, as far as he could gather from the terms of the Bill the object of the hon'ble mover—in any way to give an exclusive benefit to the European community as distinguished from the rest of the inhabitants of the town. That in carrying out a measure like the present, one market should afford special advantages to one class, and another to another, necessarily resulted from the fact that there were different classes, and different localities having different requirements. But the existence and recognition of such differences would not disentitle such a measure as the present to the character of being one for the general improvement of the whole town, and as such, a part of the grand object for which the Corporation of the Justices was established Therefore he cordially supported the hon'ble mover of the Bill with regard to that portion of it which related to the construction of markets.

There was one more matter for consideration, which was rather a question for discussion in select committee. As he understood the proposed measure with regard to the erection of new markets, the security to be given to persons lending money on debentures was limited, first, to the rates and tolls derived from the markets, and secondly, to the surplus general municipal rates. But he would suggest whether it would not be worthy of consideration that the security should also be extended to the land on which the markets were erected, and to the market buildings. That would probably have the effect of enabling the Justices to obtain money on easier terms than they would otherwise be able to do, and would be a sort of security interposed between the payment of interest out of the market rates, before coming upon the surplus of the general municipal rates.

The motion was then agreed to, and the Bill referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Wordie, Baboo Digumber Mitter, and the mover, with instructions to report in a month.

HOOGHLY BRIDGE.

THE Hon'ble Ashley Eden moved that the Bill for the construction of a bridge across the river Hooghly, between Howrah and Calcutta, be read in Council. He said that at the last meeting of the Council he had explained the circumstances which rendered it necessary to introduce this Bill, and since that meeting the draft Bill has been printed, which provides that it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor to cause the bridge to be constructed in such manner as he may consider necessary, that he may charge tolls for the use of the bridge, make bye-laws for its management, and provide by means of a special fund for the repayment of all advances received from the imperial Government for the purpose of constructing the bridge. The Bill proposed two alternative courses, should the Government desire to make over the management of the affairs of the bridge—either that it should appoint a special commission for the purpose, or transfer the management to the commissioners for the improvement of the port; but he intended to propose in select committee the enactment of a more general provision than the alternatives provided for in sections 10 and 29 of the Bill as it now stood. He thought a section might be framed so as to provide that if it should appear advisable to place the management of the bridge in the hands of a trust, it might be placed under the management of a separate trust or of the port trust, and that the rules which applied to the one should apply to the other: the Bill would thus be made more simple and compact.

He explained at the last meeting that it was proposed that the East Indian Railway Company should have the collection of a certain portion of the tolls, that is, the tolls on all traffic between their stations at Calcutta and Howrah, and that they should levy a small additional charge on all passengers and goods through their own officers at the railway station; and thus the local traffic to the railway would be practically free, the bridge toll being paid on the ticket or in the goods charge. It would only further be necessary to provide means for collecting tolls on the local traffic, that is, on passengers passing to and from Calcutta and Howrah.

Section 31 of the Bill was an important one, and would require the careful consideration of the select committee to whom the Bill would be referred. It provides that no person shall be entitled to any compensation for any loss or injury which he may sustain by reason of any obstruction to the navigation of the river which may be caused by the bridge, or by anything done in constructing it. This was one of the most important provisions of the Bill; and while he thought it was reasonable and fair, he thought it probable that there might be a great deal said in opposition to this section, and it was therefore one to which the special attention of the select committee would require to be drawn.

The motion was agreed to, and the Bill referred to a select committee, with instructions to report in six weeks, consisting of Mr. Schalch, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Wyman, Baboo Joteendro Mohun Tagore, and the mover, Mr. Eden.

DRAINAGE OF DISTRICTS.

THE Hon'ble Ashley Eden moved that the report of the select committee on the Bill to facilitate the drainage and irrigation of districts in Bengal be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. In doing so, he said that the Bill as it now stood was very different from the Bill which he first obtained leave to bring in. The reasons for the various amendments proposed by the committee were briefly explained in their report. It was found, after full consideration, that there was great difficulty in preparing one general scheme for the whole of the country on such information as the committee had before them. It seemed that many members of the Council, and especially of the select committee, preferred to defer the bringing in of such a measure until we had time to examine the wants of the country, and ascertain the possibility of framing a measure capable of being applied to all districts. At the same time it seemed to be a pity to allow this scheme to stand over while such information was being acquired,—a scheme with regard to which the proprietors of the land to be drained were prepared to incur, and the Government to advance, the cost of carrying it out. It was therefore proposed to make this a purely local measure, and to make provision for carrying out the special scheme of drainage of certain parts of Hooghly and Burdwan which have been prepared by the engineers employed in examining and surveying these districts, and for recovering the cost of such work from the proprietors of the land to be affected by the measure. Accordingly, instead of its being a Bill for the drainage of the districts in Bengal generally, the committee had confined it to the drainage of parts of the districts of Hooghly and Burdwan. No doubt the experience gained in the working of this Act would be found very useful in framing hereafter a more general measure.

The Bill provided that the scheme should be laid before certain commissioners, of whom not less than a majority should be proprietors of the lands to be affected by the proposed scheme. The scheme would be published in the villages and lands to be affected, and in case the proprietors of one moiety of the lands to be actually reclaimed from the water should consent, the scheme would be carried out. Provision was also made for the partial carrying out of a scheme in case the proprietors of the whole of the lands to be reclaimed were not willing to join in the cost of carrying out the scheme. If therefore a portion of such proprietors consented, a modified scheme might be carried out.

The rest of the Bill was taken up by details with regard to the recovery of advances, the adjustment of the charge on each proprietor, and the like,—questions which could better be dealt with as the Council proceeded with the consideration of the clauses of the Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of MR. EDEN the clauses of the Bill were taken into consideration in the form recommended by the select committee.

In the preamble "Howrah" was omitted from the enumeration of districts to which the Bill would apply.

In Section 1 the short title of the Act was altered from "The Hooghly Drainage Act," to "The Hooghly and Burdwan Drainage Act.

The consideration of the interpretation Section 2 was postponed.

Section 3 was agreed to after an amendment similar to that made in the preamble.

The consideration of Section 4 was postponed.

Sections 5 to 11 were agreed to.

Section 12 was agreed to, with a verbal amendment.

Sections 13 to 19 were agreed to.

Section 20 was agreed to after a slight transposition of words.

Sections 21 to 25 were agreed to.

In Section 26 a verbal amendment was made.

The consideration of Section 27 was postponed.

Sections 28 to 32 were agreed to

The consideration of Section 33 was postponed.

Sections 34 to 43 were agreed to.

In the schedule amendments were made similar to those in the preamable and in Section 1.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL said, he thought that the interpretation of the term "Proprietors of lands" required amendment, and he was glad therefore that the consideration of the interpretation section had been postponed. He would also ask that the consideration of section 32 should be reserved, because he thought the "proprietor"—whatever the definition of that term was to be—ought to be able to recover 10 per cent. from all his subordinate tenures, and not from the owner of a temporary lease only. The owners of temporary leases might have other sub-tenures under them, and he thought it could not be intended that they only should recoup the proprietor, but that the sub-tenures under them should also bear their fair proportion of the cost. He thought therefore that section 32 should be taken into consideration in connection with the interpretation of "proprietor"

The further consideration of the Bill was then postponed.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 25th instant.

NOTE.

Barometric Pressure.—The pressures in column 2 of the above table for all stations below 500 feet are reduced from those given in column 3 of the table on the previous page by adding the weight of a column of air of the corresponding temperatures given in column 17. For stations of above 500 feet elevation, the reduction is made by Dippe's tables as given in Guyot's "Meteorological and Physical Tables."

Temperature.—The temperatures in column 3 are reduced from those in column 17, on the preceding page, by adding 1° Fahr. for every 350 feet.

Wind Direction.—The mean wind direction and its comparative prevalence are calculated from the whole number of wind observations recorded during the half-month. The latter is given as a percentage of the whole number of observations. The mean direction is calculated in the usual way by Lambert's formula.

The above being all comparable, afford the data for constructing a meteorological chart for the half-month which shall shew the isobaric and isothermal lines, and the resultant wind directions, which last may be represented by arrows of varying length proportioned to the prevalence of the wind. To these may be added the rainfall from the previous tables.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 17th February 1871, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month :—

No. 5 OF 1871.

Amendment of Act VI of 1863, section 23.

2. As often as any goods are lodged in a public warehouse or a licensed private warehouse, the warehouse-keeper, or, in the case of the Bengal Bonded Warehouse Association, the Secretary of the said Association shall deliver a warrant signed by him as such to the person lodging the goods.

Warrant to be given every time goods are warehoused.

Such warrant shall be in the form in the schedule to this Act annexed, and shall be transferable by endorsement ; and the endorsee shall be entitled to receive the goods specified in such warrant on the same terms as those on which the person who originally lodged the goods would have been entitled to receive the same.

Form of warrant.

3. For section one hundred and thirty-seven of the said Act the following section shall be substituted :—

"CXXXVII. Upon the re-export by sea to any foreign port or place of any goods except salt or opium, capable of being easily identified, imported by sea into British India from any foreign port or place, and upon which duties of customs have been paid on importation, three-fourths of such duty shall be repaid as drawback, and one-fourth shall be retained as reserved duty.

Act to be read with Act VI of 1863.

4. This Act shall be read with and taken as part of the Consolidated Customs Act.

SCHEDULE.

FORM OF BONDED WAREHOUSE WARRANT.

(See Section 2.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make three amendments in the Consolidated Customs Act VI of 1863.

Section 23 of that Act authorises the Government of India to prohibit the exportation or importation of any particular class of goods. To prevent a doubt which has been raised as to the extent of the power thus conferred, the Bill introduces words 'by sea or by land, or both by sea and by land.'

A new section provides that when goods are warehoused, a warrant shall be delivered to the person lodging the goods, and that such warrant shall be transferable by endorsement. This is now the law as regards the Bengal Bonded Warehouse. The change has been suggested by the Government of Bombay.

Another section, intended to replace section 137 of Act VI of 1863, provides that the goods on which drawback was allowed shall be easily identifiable ; that the Governor General in Council may determine what such goods shall be deemed to be, and that three-fourths (instead of seven-eighths) shall be the amount of drawback, (one-fourth instead of one-fifth) being retained as reserved duty.

No 13*F.*—Revenue.—Forests.—The 16*th February* 1871.—The following Rules drawn up under Act VII. of 1865 have been confirmed by the Viceroy and Governor General in Council, are in accordance with Section 6 of the Act published in the Gazette of India :—

Rules for the better management and preservation of the Government Forests in the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

PART I.

Preliminary.

These rules shall be in force in those tracts of land which may be declared to be Government Forests under Act VII. of 1865, and they shall regulate the transit of timber and other matters in those Districts to which these rules may be extended by an order of the Government of Bengal published in the Gazette.

2. On any tract being declared by Notification under Section 2, Act VII. of 1865, to be subject to the provisions of that Act, it shall be subject to the authority of the Conservator of Forests under the following rules. Provided that the Government may appoint any person, other than the Conservator of Bengal Forests, to be Conservator of any specified tract.

3. Divisions and Sections of Government Forests will be placed under the management of Deputy and Assistant Conservators, as may be determined by the Government of Bengal.

4. All Officers charged with the protection and management of any Government forests, or with the control and management of any matters to which these rules relate, will be designated Forest Officers.

5. The Government forests, as notified under Section 2, Act VII. of 1865, shall be marked on a copy of the Revenue Survey Map of the District, which shall be deposited in the Office of the Commissioner of the Division, and attested by his signature.

6. There will be two classes of forests—"Reserved" and "Open;" and whenever any Notification is issued under Section 2 of Act VII. of 1865, rendering any land subject to the provisions of that Act, such Notification shall state whether such land is to be a reserved or an open forest.

PART II.

Of reserved forests.

7. The reserved forests shall consist of tracts or forest of waste lands, the soil of which is the property, and is in the possession of Government, which may be set apart as such by order of Government, and defined by Notification in the official Gazette. The Conservator of Forests and his subordinates shall have entire administration, custody, and control over these forests and their products.

8. Within reserved forests no tree of any kind is to be felled, nor shall any forest produce be removed without general or special authority obtained from the Conservator of Forests.

9. The boundaries of these forests must be clearly marked off by substantial marks where no natural boundaries exist. Should villages be included within these tracts, the boundaries around the village lands must be demarcated in the same manner as the forest, subject to the proviso in Section 2, Act VII. of 1865.

10. Whenever the Government may resolve to set apart any tract as a reserved forest, the privileges which villagers are to be allowed to enjoy, and any customary rights which may belong to them in the matter of providing themselves with fire-wood and wood for domestic and farming purposes and otherwise, shall be distinctly defined and approved by Government. It shall not be competent to the Conservator in any way to restrict or modify privileges so allowed, except with the approval of Government.

11. As soon as the Notification required by Section 2 of the Government Forest Act, stating that the forest is to be a reserved forest, is published in the Gazette, a Notification shall be published and issued to the villages around, mentioning the boundaries of the tract reserved, warning the villagers against trespass or mischief, and defining the restrictions imposed on them, and the privileges allowed to them, within the reserved forest under this Section. This Notification will be issued by the District Officer, and a copy will be sent to the Forest Officer for information. The Conservator will, nevertheless, be careful to give prompt attention and consideration to any complaints which may subsequently be preferred, to the effect that the restrictions so imposed infringe rights of, or inflict hardship upon, individuals or communities.

12. The Conservator of Forests may prohibit all persons from passing through a reserved forest, except by the authorized roads or paths, of which a list shall be published, drawn up by the Conservator in conjunction with the chief civil authority.

PART III.

Of open forests.

13. The open forests shall consist of such tracts of forest or waste land notified under Section 2, Act VII. of 1865, as may not by special Notification be included in the reserved forests. In these tracts the authority of the Forest Department shall extend only to the protection of such reserved trees as may from time to time be notified with the approval of the Local Government.

14. Within the limits of open forests, and subject to the proviso in Section 2, Act VII. of 1865, no person, without the permission of the Forest Officer, may mark, cut, girdle, or fell, or in any way injure any tree of the kinds which may be reserved as aforesaid.

15. Until the Government forests, to which these rules shall be applicable in any District, are settled and defined under Section 2 of the Act, no lands in the District which are covered with trees, brushwood, or jungle, and after the forests shall have been defined, no such land in the open forests shall be sold, nor shall grants or leases in such lands be given, except under the orders of the Commissioner, who should, before passing final orders, communicate with the Forest Department; and, in case of difference of opinion between him and that Department, refer the question to the Government.

16. In addition to the reservation of the trees of the kinds which may be notified as reserved under Rule 13, it shall be competent to the Conservator of Forests and his Assistants to prohibit the felling, cutting, or otherwise using trees of other kinds which they may have marked or girdled within the open forests.

17. No other restrictions shall be imposed by the Forest Department in regard to the open forests, except after the publication of Notifications with the approval of the Government

18. Should the Conservator think it desirable to impose any further restrictions than those above specified in any open forest, he shall, in the first place, communicate his proposals to the Commissioner of the Division, who shall give his opinion on the subject. Before approving of any such proposals, it will be the duty of the Commissioner of the Division to satisfy himself that the proposed restrictions will infringe no rights or privileges which should be preserved, and to define precisely any privileges which should be kept intact. On receipt of the proposals as agreed upon between the Conservator and Commissioner, the Government will sanction the issue of Notifications imposing such restrictions as it may see fit.

PART IV.

Of the use of Streams, of marking-hammers, of timber in transit, and of drift timber.

19. A list of rivers, streams and waters in each District to which these rules may have been extended, which must be kept open for the passage of timber, will be made by the Forest Department in conjunction with the Civil Officers of the District, and be published for general information; and it will be the duty of the Civil Officers to see that these streams, rivers, or waters are kept open.

20. No timber, the produce of any Government Forest, found adrift or stranded in any river, stream, or water of any District to which these rules may be extended, shall be marked until disposed of by the Forest Department; neither shall any mark on it be defaced. It shall not be converted or cut into pieces, neither shall it be removed or disposed of in any way without the orders of the Forest Officer, except on an order or decree by a competent Court.

21. All timber disposed of by the Forest Department must be stamped by the Forest Department with such marks as the Conservator may direct.

22. All brands, or marking-hammers used in the marking of timber, must be registered in the principal Forest Office of the Division in which they are to be used. A fee of Rs. 10 must be paid for every mark registered, and a certificate will be granted on payment of fee.

23. The use by any private person of any Government timber mark, or of any other timber brand or mark, save the one registered in his own name, is prohibited.

24. All foreign timber brought into British territory shall be reported and stopped at such stations as the Government of Bengal may from time to time direct, and such timber shall not be allowed to pass until it has been examined. The persons in charge will receive a pass in the form shown in Schedule A, and the timber will be liable to detention, if found afterwards without a pass in any District to which these rules are extended.

25. All timber found adrift or stranded in the rivers, streams and waters of any District to which these rules may be extended, and which is the produce of any Government forest, will be considered the property of Government, unless proof of ownership be given.

26. Persons who may have saved such drift timber are required to deliver the same to such persons as are authorized by the Conservator of Forests to receive it, on receipt of such salvage rates as may be approved by the Government of Bengal.

27. The Forest Officers shall take possession of any drift timber found in any river or stream, or lying in the bed of any river or stream within any District to which these rules may be extended, as to the ownership of which there may be any doubt; and the same shall be treated as drift timber under Rules Nos. 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 below.

28. All drift timber collected by Forest Officers shall be stored at such depôts as the Conservator of Forests may from time to time order to be established.

29. From time to time, as the collection of drift timber may render it advisable, public notice, inviting claimants to the ownership of such drift timber to come forward, will be issued at the chief Stations of the District, and in the nearest town to the place or depôt at which such drift timber may be lying. These notices shall state the number and description of logs collected.

30. Six months' notice will be given for the reception by the Forest Officer, by whom the notice was issued, of claims to drift timber, after which, if not claimed, the timber will be sold on behalf of Government.

31. Claims to drift timber must be sent to the Forest Officer by whom the notice was issued, with particulars of marks by which it may be recognised. The said Forest Officer will inquire into the claim. If the claim be a single one, he may, on being satisfied of its validity, release the timber after expiration of the term mentioned in the notice. If the claim be a disputed one, he should endeavour to obtain the formal consent of the claimants to his arbitrating on their claims. Where the dispute cannot be so decided, and there exists any reasonable doubt as to the rightful owner, the Forest Officer will retain possession of the timber until the question of ownership be decided by the Civil Court having jurisdiction in the case: Provided that if no claim be preferred in such Court within two months from the date on which the Forest Officer shall declare his inability to settle the dispute, the timber may be disposed of by the Forest Officer on account of Government.

32. Timber awarded to claimants must be redeemed by payment of the salvage rates approved by the Government of Bengal, and other expenses which may have been incurred on account of such timber.

PART V.

Of the prevention of offences and of punishments.

33. It shall be the duty of all Forest Officers to see that these rules are not violated; and should they in any case be infringed, to arrest the offenders and convey them without delay to the nearest Magistrate or Police Officer in the Division or Sub-Division in which the offence took place.

34. Any person infringing any of these rules shall be liable to be punished by fine not exceeding Rs. 500, or, in default of payment of such fine, by imprisonment for such term as is mentioned in the 6th Section of the Indian Penal Code. But no fine shall be imposed in addition to the confiscation of any timber or other forest produce, or of implements, which may have been incurred under Act VII. of 1865.

35. Any marking-hammers or other tools or implements, boats, carts and cattle used in an act which constitutes an offence against these rules, and all timber that has been marked or obtained in a manner contrary to these rules, or that has not been reported and passed in accordance with these rules, whether entire, or cut up, or sawn up, may be seized by an Officer of the Forest Department, or Police Officer, and such tools or implements, boats, carts, cattle and timber may be confiscated by the orders of the Magistrate of the District.

Archæological Survey of India.

From A. O. HUME, ESQ., C.B., Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department,—
(No. 912, dated Fort William, the 15th February 1871.)

I AM directed to forward, for the information of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the accompanying copy of a resolution recorded in this department, under date the 2nd instant, in connection with the appointment of a director-general of the archæological survey of India, and to invite the co-operation of His Honor in the work that has been entrusted to Major-General Cunningham.

2. I am at the same time to express a hope that that officer may be furnished from time to time with copies of any papers or reports that may now be on record, or may hereafter be received, bearing upon archæological questions, as they would materially assist in providing a substantial basis for future operations. I am to add that the Governor General in Council would be glad if the enclosed resolution could be re-published in the local official gazette, and if local officers and private individuals interested in, or possessing any information in regard to, Indian archæology could be invited to place themselves in direct communication with Major-General Cunningham.

Nos. 649-50.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Home Department (Public),— under date Fort William, the 2nd February 1871.

Despatch	from Secretary of State	No. 4 of 1870, dated 11th January.

RESOLUTION.

IN accordance with instructions received from the Secretary of State, measures were initiated in 1867-68 for the conservation of old architectural structures, and for the exploration and systematic record of the numerous valuable and interesting memorials of the ancient civilization of India that occur in so many parts of the country. As an experimental arrangement, four separate parties were organized for Madras, Bombay, Bengal, and the Upper Provinces, for taking casts and photographs of all important ancient buildings, the department of science and art in London having undertaken to defray a portion of the expenses that might be incurred in securing authentic descriptions, as well as casts and photographs of "the finest monuments of Indian art."

2. In his despatch dated the 11th January 1870, reviewing the proceedings taken in this matter by the Government of India since the commencement of the operations, and offering certain suggestions in regard to the further prosecution of the work, the Secretary of State strongly urged the necessity of directing the researches in a somewhat more systematic and deliberate manner than had been attempted at the outset, and of concentrating the supervision of the entire system in one department, instead of leaving it, without control, to the management of different chiefs under different local Governments. The Governor General in Council entirely concurred in the views expressed by the Secretary of State as to the steps that should be taken for the conduct of future researches. But after mature consideration, His Excellency in Council came to the conclusion that it would be impossible to attain the desired object without a central establishment to collect the results of former investigations, and to direct and systematize the various efforts and inquiries made by local bodies and private persons, as well as by Government itself.

3. In communicating the above opinion to the Duke of Argyll, it was stated that there was no one so well qualified for superintending the operations as Major-General Cunningham, then in England; and that if that gentleman would accept the post of central agent director for a few years, it would give an impulse to the study of archæology, and make the future working of the scheme comparatively easy.

4. Major-General Cunningham has accepted the offer made by the Secretary of State, and has now assumed charge of the appointment of director-general of the archæological survey of India. The Governor General in Council, therefore, considers this a fitting time for deciding on some fixed and definite system of archæological research, which, being commenced on now, may be steadily prosecuted, year by year, in such method as is likely to be productive of the most useful results.

5. Although much has already been done by previous inquirers, still more yet remains to be accomplished; for the efforts of private individuals, which are entirely dependent on opportunity and inclination, are necessarily unconnected and desultory. What is now required is a complete search over the whole country, and a systematic record and description of all architectural and other remains that are remarkable either for their antiquity, or their beauty, or their historical interest.

6. To carry out these views, General Cunningham's attention should be directed to two principal objects,—first, to the preparation of a brief summary of the labours of former inquirers, and of the results which have already been obtained. Much valuable information exists in the researches and journals of the different Asiatic societies; but it is so scattered over several hundred volumes, many of which are rare and expensive, that it is now practically accessible only in large public libraries. A brief record of what has already been done would save present inquirers the loss of much precious time in the measurements and description of many of the finest monuments in India. Secondly, to the preparation of a general scheme of systematic inquiry for the guidance of a staff of assistants in present and future researches. The scheme should indicate what has already been accomplished and what still remains to be done. It should give clear and detailed instructions as to the nature and amount of information, as well as to the style of illustration required for all known remains. It should also lay down the order in which these researches should be followed up, by forming into different compact groups all the places to be visited, so that as little time as possible should be lost in travelling.

7. A report of each year's proceedings should be drawn up by General Cunningham and submitted before the commencement of the next year's operations. This report need not be accompanied by any detailed drawings or illustrations, but it should indicate clearly the nature and amount of work done during the year, and should state generally the value and importance of the information acquired. The collation and arrangement of the materials contained in these annual reports, with the results obtained by former or independent inquirers, will form another branch of General Cunningham's duties. This work cannot be begun for some time, but the object should be kept steadily in view. It is therefore desirable that the efforts of some of the assistants should at once be directed to the completion of our knowledge of the older remains of India, so that the archæological survey may be able to publish a volume of Budhist and other antiquities at an early date.

8. General Cunningham should now be desired to submit, with the least possible delay, a statement of the establishment which he proposes to entertain, together with a careful estimate of its probable cost, and of all other expenses likely to be incurred, e.g., for photographs, casts, excavations, &c., in connection with the survey. This statement should include General Cunningham's own salary, and expenses of every kind to be incurred on account of the department, and should be divided into two parts—the former referring to the current official year, 1870-71, and the latter to 1871-72. As regards the establishment to be entertained, although the services of one or more European assistants may prove indispensable, His Excellency desires that, so far as possible, intelligent natives may be employed in, and trained to, the work of photographing, measuring, and surveying buildings, directing excavations, and the like; while, as regards decyphering inscriptions, it seems probable that natives may be found better qualified to do this work than any European whose services could be at present secured for such employment in the department.

Ordered that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to Major-General Cunningham for information and guidance.

Ordered also that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the Financial department for information.

Morrellgunge Port.

From CAPTAIN H. HOWE, Officiating Master Attendant, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department,—(No. 792B, dated Fort William, the 14th February 1871.)

I HAVE the honor to report, for the information of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, that I have just returned from a visit of inspection to Morrellgunge in the steamer Agitator, towing the Dolphin.

2. The Bhola flat buoy which had been lost was relaid in position, and, as was requested by Captain Millard, an additional buoy was laid on the extreme eastern edge of the Argo flat in 16 feet reduced, to mark the limit of the channel in the vicinity of the heavy breakers shewn on the chart.

3. The Dolphin was left to overhaul the rest of the buoys, all of which were in position; and as Captain Millard reported through the pilot that a new channel had been discovered with deeper water in it, I directed the commander of the Dolphin to make a careful examination of it on his way down and report upon it.

4. I may add that I was very much impressed with the facilities of navigation in the Horringutta, and with its natural advantages as a port for the shipment and export of produce from the districts in the centre and on the eastern side of the Bay of Bengal.

Rules for the management and discipline of Vagrants admitted into Workhouses.

I. THE governor of the workhouse shall receive into his custody any vagrant delivered over to him with an order for detention, under section 5, Act XXI. of 1869, signed by a magistrate of police or a justice of the peace exercising the full powers of a magistrate.

II. The following are the sections of the Act for the regulation of Government workhouses:—

Provision of Government workhouses.

11. The local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, may provide workhouses, with their necessary furniture and establishment, at such places as it may think proper, for the temporary reception of vagrants, or may, by writing under the hand of a secretary to such Government, certify any building, or part of a building not provided as a workhouse under the former part of this section, to be fit for a workhouse for the purposes of this Act. Every such certificate shall be published in the local official Gazette, and thereupon such building or part of a building shall, until the local Government otherwise orders, be deemed a Government workhouse under this Act.

Scale of diet.

The local Government shall allow the same scale of diet for the support of vagrants received in such workhouses as is for the time being allowed for Europeans confined in the local prisons or penitentiaries.

Superintendence of workhouses.

12. Every such workhouse shall be under the immediate charge of a governor, who shall be appointed, and may be suspended or removed, by the local Government.

Every such governor shall, if the local Government think fit, be subject to the orders of a committee of management appointed from time to time by such Government, or, in the absence of a committee, to the orders of such officer as the local Government shall from time to time appoint in this behalf.

Search of vagrants.

13. Every such governor may order that any vagrant admitted to the workhouse under his charge shall be searched, and that the vagrant's bundles, packages, and other effects shall be inspected, and may direct that any money then found with or on the vagrant shall be applied (subject to the orders of the local Government) towards the expense of carrying this Act into execution, and may order that all or any of the said effects shall be sold, and that the produce of the sale be applied as aforesaid, but subject to the like orders.

Discipline.

14. Vagrants admitted to workhouses under this Act shall be subject to such rules of management and discipline as may from time to time be prescribed by the local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council.

Any vagrant who knowingly disobeys or neglects any such rule shall, on conviction before a magistrate, be punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Refusal to accept employment.

15. The governor and the committee of management (if any) of every such workhouse shall use his and their best endeavours to obtain, outside the workhouse, suitable employment for the vagrants admitted thereto.

When such employment is obtained, any such vagrant refusing or neglecting to avail himself thereof, shall, on conviction before a magistrate, be punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month.

III. Vagrants sent to the presidency workhouse shall be confined in a separate compartment, and shall not be allowed to associate with prisoners.

IV. All vagrants shall, on admission, be searched by an officer of the workhouse, and all money or other effects shall be taken from them. The governor of the workhouse shall take charge of such money and effects, and shall submit a statement, for the information of Government, of the value of the property brought in by any vagrant, with a view to the amount being applied towards meeting the cost of his maintenance in the workhouse.

V. The diet of vagrants shall be according to the scales allowed to laboring European prisoners.

VI. Vagrants shall, on admission, and before being placed to labour, be examined by the medical officer, who may direct their clothing to be removed and burnt, if necessary, and may order their hair to be cut for the sake of cleanliness. The personal cleanliness of vagrants shall be enforced during their stay in the workhouse, for which purpose a proper supply of soap, towels, combs, &c., shall be afforded. If the clothing of vagrants is insufficient, or has to be destroyed on their admission, such vagrants shall be supplied with a plain suit of coarse materials. They shall also have bedding provided in sufficient quantity for health.

VII. Employment of some sort, and, if possible, profitable employment, shall be provided for all inmates of the workhouse. If any vagrant earn more by his labour than the cost of his maintenance, the surplus shall be given to him on his discharge from the workhouse. When possible, vagrants shall be employed in work to which they are accustomed, or in which they are skilled. Those for whom no other sort of work can be found, shall be employed in oakum picking, or in breaking stones, and the task shall be fixed by the governor of the workhouse. Any vagrant who does not perform his full task on the plea of physical inability, will be kept at sedentary labour in a cell on the cell diet.

VIII. Vagrants shall have every opportunity allowed them of having interviews, at reasonable hours, in the workhouse, with employers of labour seeking to engage them.

IX. The relatives of vagrants desirous of seeing them shall be admitted, on a written order of any one of the committee of management, between 10 A.M. and 1 P.M. Such interviews to be in the presence of an officer of the workhouse, and not to exceed half an hour at one time. Vagrants may write letters to their relatives, or of persons likely to employ them.

X. Vagrants shall be made to attend divine service regularly, and shall be visited by the chaplains of their respective persuasions.

XI. Vagrants in the workhouse shall behave in a respectful manner to all officials; shall not make use of bad language; shall avoid quarrelling with their fellow inmates; shall not be idle or negligent at work; shall not damage workhouse property; shall abstain from disorderly conduct, and from singing or making any other noise; and they shall obey all other rules made for their guidance in the workhouse. Disobedience of these rules shall be punished as the Act directs.

XII. Vagrants who are guilty of violence, or who are abusive and refractory, may be put into handcuffs by order of the governor of the workhouse, and may be placed in solitary confinement until they can be brought before a magistrate, which shall not be later than twenty-four hours after the act of violence, &c., for which the vagrant has been confined.

XIII. A copy of these rules shall be kept in the wards in which vagrants are confined.

Regulation of expenses of marriages among Hindoos.

From R. P. JENKINS, ESQ., Commissioner of the Patna Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 21C, dated Camp Segowlee, the 3rd February 1871.)

I HAVE the honor to enclose in original a letter, No. 1562 of the 9th January, and enclosures, from the collector of Shahabad, and solicit the favour of their perusal by Government.

2. These papers relate to a meeting held at the instance of Moonshee Peary Lall at Arrah, on the 23rd December last, and presided over by Mr. Judge Elliot of that station.

3. I am given to understand that the conduct of the entire meeting was most earnest, and that there is every hope now, that, with the example of Baboo Ritbhunjun Sing before them, the present marrying season may be signalized by a very great, if not a total, reform in the matter of marriage expenses generally.

4. Much credit is due to Moonshee Peary Lall for his strenuous exertions. I have verbally arranged with him that under his auspices similar meetings are to be held in the other districts of this division during the coming spring, and I shall of course make it a point to be present at as many of them as my own legitimate duties will allow of.

5. I beg to express a hope that the Government may recognize the laudable conduct of Moonshee Peary Lall, and that a complimentary letter may be sent to him through this office, which will not only show him that his exertions are really appreciated, but which will act as an incentive to him to continue in the good work in these provinces, where there can be no doubt his advent is already regarded most favorably by the more intelligent and enlightened body of Hindoos.

6. I shall feel obliged by the enclosures of this letter being returned after perusal.

J. MACNAMARA, ESQ., Member and Honorary Secretary.

MY DEAR FRIENDS,

I AM very happy to find that this meeting has taken place to-day, with the concurrence of the commissioner of the Patna division, to root out an evil which has of late sprung up among the different classes of the people of this country, and which all persons of every denomination and caste are in duty bound to eradicate. It behoves me therefore to offer a few remarks as to the manner in which the evil in question, for which the rulers and those placed under them are alike accountable before the Supreme Being, may be remedied.

The custom which at present obtains of demanding extravagant sums of money at the ceremony known in the North-Western Provinces by the term "bud-budani," and in Bengal by "teluk jaheyz," has been lately enforced by ignorant and grasping upstarts to such a degree as to eclipse gradually the old custom which was far from being oppressive. This evil custom indeed is not only ruinous, but is also tantamount to extortion. I wish it to be known to you that during the eight years which I have spent in visiting several places, the evils which I have witnessed and heard of cannot possibly be enumerated in the short space of time which I have before me. I cannot, however, refrain from detailing for your information a few facts which I have been able to glean from various sources.

In some instances, the Hindoo unmarried women on getting old, and knowing that there is no hope of their living long in the world, are made to go round a pipal tree in token of marriage,* whilst in others, women who are obliged to remain unmarried owing to the inability of their connexions to defray the marriage expenses, have been known to violate their chastity, and their relatives, to save themselves the disgrace, have been obliged to have recourse to abortion. Should however the crime be discovered, the relatives not unfrequently, considering themselves disgraced thereby, commit suicide,—some by taking poison, while others drown themselves, thus committing a greater sin to avoid the disgrace of the first one. At some places persons have killed their female babes at the time of their birth, quoting the old saying "Na rahega baus na bajegi bausli†" and at other places girls of five or seven years were either given in marriage, or literally sold to old and worn-out men. Some people exchanged their daughters for money, while others, among whom infanticide was practised, married their sons to the daughters of men much inferior to them in point of caste, as if the degradation was of no moment to them. Many people, in aspiring after false pretensions, having squandered their money, and being forced to part with their ancestral property and jewels and other effects, have had recourse to theft, dishonesty, and other unlawful means to provide for themselves the means of livelihood during the rest of their days, thus losing their respectability and the esteem in which they had been held. In fact, this extravagance has been the cause of ruining many a high and a noble family in India, and has reduced many rich merchants and bankers to poverty and want. It is needless to enter into the calamities which extravagance brings upon mankind; it is so patent as to hardly call for comment.

This pernicious practice is contrary to the ancient customs and manners of our ancestors, nor is it consistent with the religious precepts laid down in the Shasters and Vedas. In this the pundits of Benares, Tirhoot, and Nudden also concur with me. In days of yore the custom was that that after training and educating children in the several branches of arts and science, the parents used to have their daughters married into families of equal rank and at a proper age, when the barad or the bridegroom was accompanied by a wedding party consisting of fifty or sixty persons; now, however, the word has been corrupted into barat, which means an army, and thus marriage, instead of being a blessing, has become an evil to the community.

Thinking that it would tend to the welfare of the public, and hoping to receive the help

---

* It is considered a shame among the Hindoos for a woman to die old without having been married, and a custom prevails of making old maids walk seven times round a pipal tree to save her from the disgrace. This is called "kuvapun uthana." of the Almighty in my endeavours, I have, after resigning my office, leaving aside all my worldly affairs, and subjecting myself to the difficulties and inconveniences attending long journeys, with the concurrence not only of the heads of several castes, but also with that of the rajahs, maharajahs, and local authorities of the places lying between Calcutta and Delhi, and under the patronage of His Honor Sir. William Muir, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, put a stop, by obtaining the votes of punchayets of all classes of people, to the baneful practices and ruinous expenses of *takht rawan holi masquerades; of wasting money on bhoorbukeyr, gonda, &c.; of fireworks and illuminations; of entering into contracts and pledging children in lieu of money, which customs were prevalent amongst the Brahmins, Khutris, Agurwalas, Jats, and others. These people have re-introduced the good old custom and usages according to which marriages have been and are being now celebrated. Thanks be to God, through whose grace such a custom has and is being abolished and the old one ruined.

† "If there is no bamboo left no bamboo pipe will be played."

The Maharajah of Doomraon, as in duty bound by the Shasters, has shown much zeal and energy in checking the evil practices among the Kaists and other tribes of this district, as well as in Cawnpore and Agra, and has, in concert with me, held a meeting at this place on the 22nd instant, in which small and limited expenses have been proposed for the marriages of Brahmins and Chutris, for which I refer you, my brethren, to the written proceedings of that meeting.

Hitherto I was under the impression that the maharajah only took an interest in this laudable undertaking, but I was glad to find his son seconding him in his exertions; so much so, that the latter has promised to set apart Rs. 1,000 to defray the marriage expenses of the poor of his caste.

I may here add that Baboo Ritbhunjun Sing, a highly respectable native gentleman of Jugdispore, has expressed his determination to celebrate a marriage, which is to take place in his family this year, in conformity with the above resolution, and thus to set an example to others.

I am glad to state here that the Kaist community of this place had held a meeting on the 18th instant, in which they have subscribed upwards of Rs. 1,000 for the erection of a temple, which has been dedicated to Siri Chitr Gooptsami, and for the opening of a Sanskrit patsala (school) in the station.

Now I cherish a strong hope that, with the assistance and exertions of the Kaists of this place, the remaining classes will do their utmost to enforce an observance of these rules of public benefit among themselves, excluding from their society all those persons who act contrary thereto, and refusing to be partakers in any of their undertakings.

I cannot but acknowledge with thanks the assistance rendered to me by Moonshee Hurribur Churn, Moonshee Hurbuns Lall, Moonshee Joy Procash, Moonshee Hurbuns Sahai, Bukhshee Ram Yad Sing, and Moonshee Mothoora Pershad.

It is needless for me to mention here the zeal and ardour displayed by the Maharajahs of Benares, and those of Rewa, Vizianagram, and Bettiah, &c., in this matter, which every one of you, my friends, must be aware of.

In conclusion, I would beg the favour of the local authorities taking the trouble of attending for a few minutes at the meetings which may be held in connection with this laudable design, and of paying their special attention and extending their patronage to this important matter.

Translation of the speech delivered by KOOER RADHA PERSAUD SING.

GENTLEMEN,

TO-DAY is a day of happy omen and a day for rejoicing.

The marriage ceremonies which have hitherto prevailed in this country have commonly been designated shadi (a Persian word radically signifying happiness and joy), yet their practical effect has in reality been to cause utter ruin and destruction.

Every individual used to run into so much extravagant and reckless expenditure, far beyond his means, as to be forced to be deeply involved with heavy debts, mortgaging, and encumbering his property, which would eventually be brought to the hammer, and thus, losing all means of support, he would ultimately be overtaken by starvation.

Now this is really the time for great rejoicing, as we find in Moonshee Peary Lall a philanthropist who, having sacrificed all his personal interests, and denying himself the enjoyment of all domestic pleasures, actuated with the disinterested motives of advancing the cause of public good, has been trying with his whole heart and soul to effect an enormous reduction in marriage expenses. With this view he has been holding meetings and committees in various places, and explaining to the people the advisability and reasonableness of the proposed reduction. The result is that by his strenuous exertions he has succeeded in effecting a large retrenchment in the marriage expenses, which are to be regulated by a set of rules framed by him.

Now in the true sense of the word a shadi can take place.

The moonshee came to Arrah, and with my assistance held a meeting yesterday, composed of the Brahmins and Chutris at my house at Arrah, and guided by his convincing arguments, the people present agreed to conform to his prescribed rules in celebrating marriages.

* The platform on which dancing women are carried about in the public streets on the shoulders of our men.

I also have affixed my signature to those rules indicating thereby my approval of them and will heartily support the movements.

I feel much obliged and highly grateful to Moonshee Peary Lall for his exertions, and I expect from you all a strict observance of those rules.

Speech delivered by A. J. ELLIOT, ESQ., Judge of Shahabad.

WE are met together to-day to take into consideration a matter of vital importance to the Hindoo communities of India.

It has been the invariable custom that in all marriages among Hindoos that enormous sums—enormous in proportion to the means of those interested—should be spent on the various ceremonies imposed by their supposed caste rules and their religion.

The result of this expenditure has been that a Hindoo, who had originally an independent fortune, and his head well above water, becomes impoverished to that degree that what with mortgages and usury, he is as liable as not to become bankrupt, and thousands and thousands of Hindoos have been thus ruined and beggared.

It has been clearly established by those who are fitted by education and knowledge to prove it, that these enormous marriage ceremony expenses are not enjoined by the Shasters, but that the legitimate expenses have gradually grown and swollen until they have become unendurable.

There is very little doubt that among other evils that have arisen in consequence of the fear of the expenses incidental to Hindoo marriages, female infanticide has very much increased, if it has not been thereby caused.

By the exertions of Baboo Peary Lall the subject has been ventilated in numerous districts of the North-Western Provinces; and I may say that it is chiefly through his exertions the cause he advocates has been embraced by native Hindoo gentlemen of all ranks, from the highest to the lowest, throughout the country; and as a proof of the truth of the principles he enunciates, I can hardly give you a better example than by saying that the Maharajah of Doomraon has gone hand in hand with him in our own district, and is present here this day in support of them.

This is truly and entirely a Hindoo movement, entered into and carried on entirely by Hindoo energy, but the movement has been recognised as a most excellent one, and the subject has the universal approval of the European community, official and non-official. The Lieutenant-Governors of the Bengal Presidency and the North-Western Provinces being patrons of the society, and many other European gentlemen of note and position having entered heart and hand into the object.

It is proposed that in each district societies and sub-societies should be formed to carry out the object, which will be presently more fully explained to you by Baboo Peary Lall, resulting in the measure that the largest sum to be expended in Hindoo marriage ceremonies is to be limited to Rs. 2,000.

Thus, where from two to five lakhs of rupees were formerly expended, without object I may say, and certainly without reason, Rs. 2,000 will now only be spent.

Similarly, a Hindoo who was accustomed to spend say Rs. 2,000, will now only spend something like Rs. 100, the lowest sum being Rs. 25, and so on through all the grades.

At the request of various native gentlemen of position in this district, I willingly accepted the position of president, and shall do my best to advance the object of the society.

I cannot conclude without expressing my hope that the movement will meet with as much success in this district as it has already attained in others.

I have been requested by the commissioner to express his regret that, in consequence of urgent business which demands his presence at Calcutta, and which could not be postponed, he is unable to be present at this meeting, but that when Moonshee Peary Lall proceeds to Patna to inaugurate this society in that district, he will without fail be present, and heartily co-operate in this excellent institution.

From W. H. D'OYLY, ESQ., Magistrate and Collector of Shahabad, to the Commissioner of Patna,—(No. 1562, dated Arrah, the 9th January 1871.)

I HAVE the honor to submit the following report of an event which occurred on the 23rd ultimo,—an event of no little political importance, and one which will form an epoch in the history of this district. It is politically important inasmuch as it affects closely the welfare of a large section of Her Majesty's subjects, and will, I trust, most effectively check the infanticide, which most unfortunately, yet no less certainly, prevails chiefly among the Rajpoots.

2. A meeting was convened which was presided over by the judge, and attended by several of the European residents, and a large concourse of the principal native inhabitants of the town, and some native gentlemen of distinction from the interior of the district, among whom were the Maharajah of Doomraon and his son. It has been computed that there were about 1,500 persons present.

3. The meeting was convened at the request of Moonshee Peary Lall, a native of this district, who, with untiring energy and unflagging zeal, and the most laudable self-abnegation, has devoted himself to a work urged solely by philanthropic motives; a work of reformation which has already commenced to bear fruit, and cannot but prove eventually to be of incalculable benefit to the people to whom he belongs, and to the Government of that people's sovereign.

4. You are aware that Moonshee Peary Lall having thrown up his appointment in the Government service has travelled over the greater part of the North-West Provinces, addressing meetings at all the chief towns with the object of getting up a brotherhood. A society for the prevention of that reckless expenditure—that vain show of pomp at marriage ceremonies which has brought so many families to ruin, which has caused them to sell their lands and their houses, to lose their position, and the fear of which has led them, unfortunately too often, to make victims of their little innocent female babes.

5. Translations of the speeches made by Mr. Elliot, the judge, by Moonshee Peary Lall, and by Kooer Radha Persaud Sing, son of the Maharajah of Doomraon, as also of the rules drawn out by the Moonshee, are herewith forwarded. Moonshee Peary Lall's quiet, unaffected manner, his simple eloquence, rendered all the more impressive by its freedom from those unnecessary pleonasms which are supposed to constitute the beauty of Persian writings and speeches, went straight to the hearts of his hearers, and procured for him that sympathy and, though silent still none the less demonstrative, approbation which he so richly deserved.

6. Noble has been the unswerving loyalty of many princes and native gentlemen in times of danger, noble the munificence of many wealthy men; but none have exceeded in nobility him who has given up his emoluments from Government service, who has, in spite of ill-health, persevered in carrying out unflinchingly the work of his self-imposed mission for the good of his fellow creatures.

7. I trust confidently that the Government will recognize the services of Moonshee Peary Lall to his country, and will afford him every assistance in his most praiseworthy efforts to eradicate those pernicious practices from which have sprung so much vice and immorality.

The members of the societies or Aujmans are empowered to nominate competent persons to be members of the Aujmans.

The seal of this department will be octagonal, and will bear the following Urdu inscription, and will remain in the custody of the secretary of the Aujmans. The seals of the Sudder Aujmans will be larger in size than that of the Sub-Aujmans :—

The peons of this department will be furnished with a red belt and red uniform dress; the badge will be octagonal, and bear the following Urdu and Hindee inscriptions :—

The busta cloth will be of red colour, and red ink will be used in writing. The secretaries of the Sudder Aujmans and Sub-Aujmans will have charge of the records of the respective Aujmans. The rules laid down above will be observed in the Village Aujmans also.

Voluntary donations given by the native members of the society towards defraying necessary expenses of the society will be credited to the committee fund; an account will be kept of the receipt and disbursements of this fund.

A quarterly statement, showing the observance or non-observance of the rules, that is, copies of the registers No. 5 and No. 6, will be sent in English duly signed by the president to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal through vice-patron, the commissioner of Patna; a duplicate of the same will be sent in Urdu to the Sudder Aujman Hind, and annually a general statement will be sent up in the following form :—

Year.	Names of the zillah.	Names of Sub-Aujmans.	Names of Village Aujmans.	No. of marriages performed according to rules.	No. of marriages performed against the rules.	Total of marriages.

Every native member is bound to join the committee ungrudgingly, which will be held on fixed dates, unless prevented to do so by sheer necessity, in which case the absentee must send an explanation for his absence to the secretary. If he fail to attend at three successive meetings without sufficient cause, his name will be struck off the rolls of the members under the order of the committee, who will nominate a competent substitute. The facts of the dismissal and replacement will be published in the newspapers.

Until this system is thoroughly worked out, committees will continue to be held monthly or quarterly, and special committees may be held as occasion requires.

If any committee requires to enforce new subsidiary rules not at variance with those laid down by the Sudder Aujman Hind, a copy of the same will be sent to Sudder Aujman of the district, and the secretary of that Sudder Aujman shall circulate copies of the same to all Aujmans calling for their opinions on the subject, and on receipt of replies the resolution which the committee of the Sudder Aujman may arrive at will be carried into effect.

The members of a committee, in deciding any point which may come before them, should not be actuated by partial, inimical, envious, selfish, or malicious motives. If any person has reason to believe that a decision has been passed from any such motives as those above described, he may impeach the same before the Sudder Aujman of the district, which will pass proper orders on the subject.

Should the committee be divided in their opinion on any point before them, the opinion of the majority shall prevail, and in case the committee are equally divided, the president will have the casting vote.

Whichever member shall exert his utmost in furthering this noble cause of the public good, and by whose exertion the above rules shall be worked to success and the difficult task facilitated, he will be recompensed by receiving a certificate of good services through the Sudder Aujman Hind, and by his praiseworthy conduct being published to the world and being brought to the favorable notice of the Government.

The secretaries of all Aujmans will conduct the correspondence, give timely notice to the members of the committee of the date on which a meeting is to be held, superintend the working of the office, see that the registers of this department are properly kept up and the several returns duly prepared and punctually submitted, and will also see that the orders of the committee are properly executed and signed.

The president and vice-president will have to preside over and superintend the proceeding of the committee, exhort and encourage the people in observing the rules of the society, and sign the principal English and vernacular papers.

The vice-patron (commissioner) will be pleased to peruse the papers of the committee which are submitted to him, and to forward to the Government such of them as he may consider necessary.

The patron will be pleased to countenance and patronize the society.

2. I am to express the great satisfaction with which the Lieutenant-Governor has perused the report of the proceedings, and his hope that the efforts of the association which has been established may be crowned with success.

3. A letter to the address of Moonshee Peari Lal is herewith enclosed, and I am to request that it may be delivered to him.

4. The proceedings of the meeting, together with the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, will be published in the supplement to the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

5. The original enclosures of your letter are herewith returned.

From Rivers Thompson, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department, to Moonshee Peari Lal,—(No. 589, dated Fort William, the 27th February 1871.)

The commissioner of Patna has submitted to the Lieutenant-Governor the proceedings of a meeting of European and Native gentlemen held at Arrah on the 23rd December 1870, when resolutions were passed for the establishment of an association for the purpose of moderating the extravagance of marriages among Hindoos.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with much interest the account of the meeting to promote a movement from which the Hindoo community generally must derive great benefit. The earnest and disinterested zeal which you have shown in this cause reflects the highest credit upon you, and I am desired to express the Lieutenant-Governor's gratification at the success which has attended your endeavours in the Shahabad district.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPALITY.

The Hon'ble Ashley Eden moved for leave to bring in a Bill to amend Act VI. of 1863, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council. He said that the object of the Bill could be explained in a very few words. A reference to section 3 of Act VI. of 1863 would show that the corporation of the Justices was composed of two classes. The first class consisted of the Justices of the Peace for the whole of the provinces, that is, for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa, who happened to be at the time residents of Calcutta; and the other class consisted of the Justices of the Peace for the town of Calcutta, who were specially appointed mainly with reference to their fitness for taking a share in the municipal affairs of the town. The reason for thus constituting the municipality was, that after great consideration, when the first Municipal Act was being discussed, the most eligible body of men to whom the affairs of the town could be entrusted was the Justices of the Peace for the town as a corporate body. It so happened that at the time of the passing of the Act there were a number of public officers living in Calcutta who bore the commission of the peace for the whole of the provinces. It was inexpedient to grant to men having already a commission of the peace for the whole of Bengal a second commission giving them the power of Justices for only one city in Bengal, which was of course included in the larger commission; and the only way in which the difficulty could be got over which suggested itself to himself and Mr. Peterson, who was then a member of the Council, and who had assisted him in drawing up the scheme of a municipal corporation, was that the Justices of the Peace for the provinces who were resident in the town should also form a portion of the corporation, together with the Justices of the Peace for the town. Of course the resident Justices of the provinces were as much interested as rate-payers as any other class of the community in the affairs of the municipality. Their position is really identical with that of most of the other European residents. They are occupiers of some of the most expensive houses in the town, and many of them are residents for very many years. Arising from this double set of Justices, there had been a great deal of misunderstanding, and discussions had taken place from time to time as to the object of including these Justices for Bengal and Behar as members of the corporation. He was not prepared to admit, in spite of all that had been said on the subject, that in point of fact the arrangement had not worked satisfactorily. At the same time there is no doubt that it has exposed the Chairman of the Justices to the charge of having a body of men at his disposal who do not take much interest in the town, but who, in cases of emergency, can be called together and whipped up for a particular object. He did not believe this had been done, in fact, or that any evil result had ensued, or that there was any substantial ground for a charge of this sort; but he considered it to be obviously very desirable to get rid of any semblance of a suspicion of this kind; and the Chairman himself wished that a change should be effected in this respect.

The very existence of the name of all these ex-officio Justices on the list gave rise to a false impression, and had led the native Justices to believe that they were always in a hopeless minority; but in point of fact the minority had an existence on paper rather than in fact. What is now proposed to be done is to amend the section to this extent, that the Justices for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa, shall no longer be ex-officio members of the corporation, but that only such of them as the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time select and specially appoint on that behalf shall be members of the corporation. Of course in doing this great care will be taken to select only those who will be likely to take an interest in the affairs of the town. At present there are a great number of Justices who, from position or other cause, are utterly incapable of taking any share in the business of the municipality. When the list is revised under the operation of this section, only men would be appointed who can take part in the business of the town; and if there is still an undue proportion of European Justices, no doubt it would then be rectified.

The motion was agreed to.

SURVEY OF STEAM VESSELS.

Mr. Rivers Thompson moved that the Bill to increase the fees for the survey of steam vessels be read in Council. He said the object of this Bill, as explained at the last meeting of the Council, was simply to provide for the payment of a separate fee to each of the surveyors employed for the survey of a steam vessel. The law, as it was at present, provides for the payment of a single fee for the survey, but the practice had been for a long time to pay this fee to each of the two surveyors employed. This was found to be opposed to the exact terms of the law, and as it was necessary in most cases that two officers should be appointed for the survey of a steam vessel, it was desirable to provide that a separate fee should be paid to each of them.

The motion was agreed to.

MR. RIVERS THOMPSON then applied to the President to suspend the rules for the conduct of business to enable him to move that the Bill be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of its clauses. He said that the shortness and simplicity of the Bill made it unnecessary to refer it to a select committee for consideration.

The PRESIDENT having declared the rules suspended—

MR. RIVERS THOMPSON moved that the Bill be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses.

The motion was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

Section 1 stood as follows:—

"Whenever two surveyors shall be employed in making a survey under the provisions of Act V. of 1862, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, the owner or master of the steam vessel surveyed shall pay to each of the surveyors making the same a fee calculated on the tonnage of the vessel according to the rates in Schedule B to the said Act annexed, and such further fee as is provided in section 5 of Act I. of 1868 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council."

MR. THOMPSON said he was advised by the learned Advocate-General that it would be proper to add a few words to this section to prevent mistakes. Act V. of 1862 was restricted in its operation to the port of Calcutta. By Act I. of 1868 the provisions of Act V. of 1862 were extended to ports in the mofussil, and Act I. of 1868 was made a part of Act V. of 1862. As the section under consideration at present stood, it provided for the remuneration of two surveyors when appointed under Act V. of 1862. The addition of the words "or Act I. of 1868" was necessary to prevent doubts as to the application of the Bill to surveyors appointed for the survey of vessels elsewhere than in the port of Calcutta. It would also be necessary to insert after the words "Schedule B. to the said Act," the words "V. of 1862." He begged to move these two amendments.

The motion was carried, and the section as amended was agreed to.

Section 2 and the title were agreed to.

DRAINAGE OF DISTRICTS.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN postponed the motion, which stood in the list of business, that the report of the select committee on the Bill to facilitate the drainage and irrigation of districts in Bengal be further considered in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

REGULATION OF LODGING-HOUSES AT POOREE.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN also postponed the motion, which stood in the list of business, that the report of the select committee on the Bill for the better regulation of lodging-houses in Poorce be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 4th March 1871.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants.—The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity.—The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground.—The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the said schedule.

Saving of rules.

But all rules in regard to the payment of pensions and the identification of the persons entitled to receive them, made under any such enactment, shall be deemed to have been made under this Act so far as they are consistent herewith.

II.—Rights to Pensions.

3. No Civil Court shall take cognizance of suits to enforce claims to any pensions, or grants of money, or assignments of land-revenue, conferred or made by the British or any former Government.

Pensions for lands held under grants in perpetuity.

4. Nothing in section three applies to pensions heretofore granted by Government, either wholly or in part as an indemnity for loss sustained by the resumption by a Native Government of lands held under sanads purporting to confer a right in perpetuity. Such pensions shall not be liable to resumption on the death of the recipient, but every such pension shall be capable of alienation and descent, and may be sued for and recovered in the same manner as any other property.

Claims to be made to Collector.

5. All persons claiming pensions or grants by Government of money or land-revenue shall prefer their claims to the Collector of the District, or Deputy Commissioner, or other officer authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, and such officer shall dispose of such claims in accordance with such rules as the Chief Revenue Authority may, subject to the general control of the Local Government, from time to time prescribe in this behalf.

III.—Mode of Payment.

Payment to be made by Collector.

6. All pensions or grants by Government of money or land-revenue shall be paid by the Collector, or the Deputy Commissioner or other authorized officer, subject to such rules as may from time to time be prescribed by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority.

7. The Local Government may, with the consent of the holder, order the whole or any part of his pension or grants by Government of money or land-revenue to be commuted for a lump sum on such terms as may seem fit.

Alteration of place of payment of pension.

8. On the application of any person entitled to receive a pension, or grants by Government of money or land-revenue, the place of payment may, if the Chief Controlling Authority thinks fit, be altered.

IV.—Miscellaneous.

Exemption of certain pensions from attachment.

9. The reduced pay or pension, however called, of any invalid officer, soldier, sailor or retainer of the army or navy, in the military or naval service of Her Majesty or of the East India Company, and also any monthly or yearly pensions, or pecuniary allowance to any person, in consideration of past services and present infirmities, or old age, granted by authority of the Governor General in Council, or of the Local Government, and also the pension of any out-pensioner of Chelsea or Greenwich Hospital, granted by authority of the Commissioners of Chelsea or Greenwich Hospital respectively, and also all money due or to become due on account of any such pension or allowance,

Assignments, &c., in anticipation of such pensions, to be void.

10. All assignments, agreements, orders, sales and securities of every kind made by the person entitled to any pension, pay or allowance mentioned in section nine, in respect of any money not payable at or before the making thereof, on account of any such pension, pay or allowance, or for giving or assigning any future interest therein, are null and void.

Reward to informers.

11. Whoever proves to the satisfaction of the Local Government that any pension is fraudulently or unduly received by the person enjoying the benefit thereof shall be entitled to a reward equivalent to the amount of such pension for the period of six months.

Power to make rules.

12. The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority may, with the consent of the Local Government, from time to time make rules consistent with this Act respecting all or any of the following matters :—

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The law relating to pensions is at present distributed over nine Regulations of the Bengal, three Regulations of the Madras, and two Regulations of the Bombay, Codes, as well as three Acts of the Governor General in Council.

The main provision of the law as expressed in the Bengal Regulations XXIV, 1793, section 17, XXXIV, 1795, section 14, XXIV, 1803, section 16, and VI, 1817, and the Madras Regulation IV, 1831, section 2, is the reservation to Government of the right to determine on all claims to the continuance of pensions, and the exclusion of the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts of judicature in regard to such claims.

In the Bombay Presidency, under the operation of Regulations XXIX, 1827, and VII, 1830, the Civil Courts are barred from the cognizance of suits to enforce such claims throughout the Dekhan, Khandeish and the South Mahratta Country.

The Bengal Regulations, though expressly applicable only to Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, are practically in force throughout the more recently acquired provinces; hence the law as above described applies to all India, except a portion of the Bombay Presidency.

Within this excepted country the Civil Courts have in more than one instance assumed jurisdiction in such cases.

The principle on which that jurisdiction is elsewhere disallowed is founded on perfectly equitable considerations, and is therefore fit for uniform application. It is in effect the assertion of the right of the State to reserve to itself the power of granting or withholding at pleasure concessions which are made gratuitously and without consideration.

The object of the proposed legislation, therefore, is (first) to consolidate the existing law, excluding all those provisions which are either obsolete or ill adapted for enactment in detail; and (second) to extend the law so re-enacted to the whole of British India.

LEAVE AND ALLOWANCES.

The 28th February 1871.

No. 1260.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following Rule shall be substituted for Rule 1 under Section XXXI. of the Covenanted Civil Service Leave Code, and shall have retrospective effect from 23rd November 1869. This Section shall in no case be applied so as to raise the aggregate allowances of any Officer, who may return from furlough after the 23rd November 1869, above the allowances which he would draw in the office in which he officiates if the substantive appointment which he relinquished when proceeding on furlough were restored to him.

SEPARATE REVENUE.

(STAMPS.)

The 28th February 1871.

No. 1264.—It having been brought to the notice of Government that a practice has been introduced of issuing post-dated hoondees or bills, the object being apparently to evade stamp duty by thus making a hoondee appear as a bill payable on demand, while in reality it is not so, the Governor General in Council deems it advisable to warn the public that as post-dated bills are not bills payable on demand, they require a stamp prescribed for bills payable otherwise than on demand, and that any person making, signing, issuing, or (except as provided in Section 26 of the General Stamp Act, 1869) accepting, endorsing, paying or receiving payment of any such bill, without the same being duly stamped, will be liable to the penalties provided in Section 29 of the said Act.

No. 375.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

Pensions and Gratuities.

To the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department,—(dated Fort William, the 23rd January 1871.)

SIR,—With reference to letter from this department, No. 1951, dated 25th March 1870, I am directed to make an explanation of the orders contained in that letter as they may be liable to misapprehension. The circumstance of Nazirs in Civil and Revenue Courts being, in accordance with the arrangements existing until within the last few years, remunerated wholly or in part by "Meeran" fees should not be regarded as barring their claim to pension as Uncovenanted Servants. A Nazir should, as regards pension, be upon precisely the same footing as every other ministerial officer of Government, whether he derives his remuneration from Meeran fees, or from a fixed salary charged against imperial revenues.

2. It is, however, a rule that members of an establishment paid from a contract allowance, that is, an allowance made to a public officer for the expenses of his office, with the detailed distribution of which Government does not interfere, have no claim to pension. A Nazir employed on any such establishment cannot, in respect of pensionary claim, be regarded as a servant of Government. And the circumstance of an officer of a contract establishment being permitted to receive as his remuneration, or as part of his remuneration, Meeran fees which would otherwise go to Government, cannot be held so to alter the nature of his employment as to give him a claim to pension which would not otherwise exist. In other words, he is not the less an officer of a contract establishment though being permitted to receive such remuneration.

1. The superintendent must see that all rules for the guidance of persons concerned in the engagement and transport of laborers under the Act are strictly adhered to.

2. He will license depôts only after their approval by himself and the medical inspector. (See form No. 5.)

3. He and his assistant must pay constant visits to the depôts, and he should enter his remarks in the visitors' book.

4. He must ascertain that all laborers in depôts have been registered, are free agents, are not deceived, and have not been separated from their relatives against their will.

5. He will see that contractors furnish all the necessary documents required under the Act duly filled up and signed.

6. Unless under exceptional circumstances, laborers should be detained at least three days in a Calcutta depôt; but the superintendent will see that the contracts of all laborers are duly executed within thirty days of their arrival in depôt, or he may deal with any breach of this rule under section XXIX. of the Act.

7. Before allowing the execution of the contract the superintendent should ascertain whether all the laborers have been inspected and passed under sections XXII. and XXXIII. of the Act, and, if their number exceed forty-nine persons, whether a medical officer with medical stores is ready to accompany them.

8. He must carefully explain the nature of the contract to each laborer, and after they have all understood, consented to, and signed the contracts in duplicate, he shall attach his own signature thereto and to the non-effective list (form No. 6), and see that the passes also signed by him are given to the laborers.

9. He or his assistant should see that disqualified persons are provided for and sent back to the place of registration within the terms of the Act, when they are permitted to return by the medical inspector.

CHAPTER IV.

Rules for guidance of the Medical Inspector of Laborers at Calcutta.

3. None but qualified medical officers, approved of and authorized by the medical inspector at Calcutta, can have charge of laborers either in depôt or during transit from Calcutta to the said districts.

4. The medical inspector will not allow any sick laborer to be removed from the depôt or depôt hospital without his consent, nor will he permit any disqualified laborer to be detained longer than is necessary.

5. It is the duty of every medical officer in charge of laborers to take precautions against communicable disease, and to see that all clothes, blankets, &c., of those who have suffered from small-pox or cholera are destroyed. 8. Members of a family cannot be separated without their mutual consent; if therefore, in a large family, there should happen to be any who, though unfit for work, are anxious to accompany their relatives, and who may do so without danger to themselves or to others, the medical inspector may, on the contractor's written application countersigned by the employer or his agent, enter such aged or otherwise disqualified persons as non-effectives in the certificate of health.

9. Every medical officer going in medical charge of laborers in transit must be licensed (form No. 8) by the medical inspector at Calcutta, who will require a certificate in form No. 7 from such medical officer prior to granting him his license.

10. During seasons of excessive sickness, or when a batch is unusually large, it will rest with the medical inspector to appoint an additional medical officer or assistant, if necessary.

CHAPTER V.

Rules for the guidance of the Superintendent of Labor Transport and Medical Inspector of Laborers at Goalundo, or place of embarkation.

(a.)—General Rule.

The superintendent and medical inspector at Goalundo will keep in view and be guided by the rules for the guidance of the superintendent and medical inspector at Calcutta, although under ordinary circumstances the following additional rules will be most frequently applicable:—

(b.)—Rules for the guidance of the Superintendent at Goalundo, or place of embarkation.

1. He will identify the laborers, on their arrival, with those entered on contract in Calcutta.

2. In the event of any laborer refusing to proceed, the superintendent, after inquiry and if he think proper, may allow the laborer to return with the contractor's agent to Calcutta, and will report the circumstance to the superintendent there, who will inquire further into the case and decide it.

3. He will see that laborers are not detained longer than is necessary to arrange for their despatch.

(c.)—Rules for guidance of the Medical Inspector at Goalundo, or place of embarkation.

1. He will see that the laborers have a cooked meal ready for them on their arrival.

2. He will identify them with those who are entered on the certificate of health (form No. 4), and will enter any fresh remarks he may have to make in the column for that purpose.

3. He will see that those who are unfit to proceed are detained under treatment, together with their families, if they desire it; and that as soon as possible after recovery they are returned to the Calcutta depôt in charge of the contractor's agent, and will report this to the superintendent at Calcutta.

4. All inspections must be conducted at the depôt. Remarks should be entered, up to date of embarkation, in the certificate of health and embarkation lists; and careful registers of sickness and mortality should be kept, in the depôt or laborers' hospital, by the doctor in charge.

CHAPTER VI.

Rules for the guidance of Contractors.

1. Every contractor shall establish a depôt licensed (form No. 5) to accommodate a certain number of statute adults.

2. If such contractor do not live on the premises, he shall appoint a proper person as his agent, who shall reside there constantly and conduct the business on the contractor's responsibility. The agent must be registered in the superintendent's office. Any offence against the rules committed by a contractor or his agent at Goalundo, or at the place of debarkation, shall affect him in the same way as though it had been committed at Calcutta.

3. The contractor shall appoint a doctor, to be licensed by the medical inspector at Calcutta. The medical officer shall live in the depôt, and have sanitary and medical charge. He shall be directly responsible to the medical inspector, shall not be dismissed without the medical inspector's consent, and must be registered in the superintendent's office.

4. Every contractor must explain to his recruiters the nature of the duties entrusted to them, and furnish them with badges and passes (see section X.) and with license and descriptive forms (see section VIII. and form No. 2), the latter being correctly filled up and signed by the contractor; and also with copies of Act II. (B.C.) of 1870, and written applications to the superintendent for licenses.

5. Contractors must insist on their recruiters and writers being accurate in all that they enter when filling up registration, embarkation, and other lists and forms. Names, ages, birth-places, &c., must be correctly given throughout; and contractors or their agents must furnish their recruiters with blank forms, and any orders that may be necessary under the Act and rules.

6. Depôt gates shall be in charge of a durwan, and shall be open from 6 A.M. to 6 P.M.

7. On arrival of laborers at the depôt, they must be inspected by the contractor or his agent and by the medical officer; their names must be entered in the depôt register; and their arrival reported (form No. 9) in the forenoon of the next day to the superintendent.

8. The contractor shall ascertain that those sections of the Act that provide for the registration, proper care, and treatment of laborers previous to their entering the depôt, have been complied with; and shall immediately detain and report any recruiter, garden sirdar, or other person in charge who has infringed the law.

9. Unless under exceptional circumstances, laborers shall be detained at least three days in the Calcutta depôts; but they shall not be detained without employment longer than thirty days, and monthly returns of laborers in depôt (form No. 10) must be forwarded to the superintendent. If the demand for laborers recruited under the Act should unexpectedly cease, those in depôt must be returned without delay to the place in which they were recruited, unless they desire to emigrate to any of the colonies east or west of the Cape, in which case duplicate lists of such volunteers shall be prepared (form No. 11) and, after examination of the laborers, shall be signed by the superintendent. The laborers, with their registry tickets and certified lists, shall then be examined by the protector of emigrants, who, if satisfied, will register (under Act XIII. of 1864) those accepted by the colonial agent concerned, and will note them and those rejected in the duplicate lists, which he must countersign. One copy of the list shall then be forwarded by the superintendent, for information, to the magistrate of the district in which the laborers were recruited, and the other shall be filed in the office of the superintendent, who must be satisfied by the contractor that all disqualifed laborers have been returned to their homes, or provided for.

10. Every contractor preparing to despatch laborers to Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, shall ascertain whether others purpose doing so by the same opportunity or at the same time, and shall, in communication with them and the steam agents concerned, fix on the dates of despatch from Calcutta and place of embarkation, and arrange accordingly, allowing ample time for the discharge of all duties connected with the transport of laborers under the Act.

11. If the total number of laborers to be despatched exceed forty-nine souls, a medical officer shall be nominated to go in charge of them. He shall be present at the final inspection of laborers by the medical inspector, who, if satisfied, will license him.

12. When the employer or his agent has noted the laborers selected by him in the certificate of health, a written application for a final medical inspection shall be sent to the medical inspector at least two days before the date of despatch from Calcutta; and, when everything is ready, notice must be sent at least one day before the date of despatch to the superintendent, who will place the laborers on contract and sign the non-effective list (form No. 6.)

13. When the laborers are assembled before the superintendent to have their contracts explained, they must have their registry tickets in their hands, and their blankets, clothing, and utensils, according to scale (No. 12), arranged beside them, all ready for inspection.

14. The contractor, directly or through his agent, is responsible for the good treatment and care of the laborers, and will obey the instructions of the medical inspector, to whom he is especially responsible for the sanitary state of the depôt, and the feeding, clothing, and medical treatment of its inmates.

15. Excepting those whose state of health may prevent it, all laborers should be compelled to bathe on their arrival in depôt, and their cast-off ragged clothes should be gathered and destroyed at once.

16. All laborers, especially women, must be decently and cleanly clothed; and every article, (clothing, blankets, &c.,) whether new or old, that is soiled or smells offensive, shall be thoroughly washed and dried before it is issued (see scale No. 13.)

17. He will immediately report the arrival or occurrence in depôt of any case of cholera or small-pox to the medical inspector.

18. He shall not send sick laborers to any other than the depôt hospital; nor remove them from there, nor from the depôt, without the written permission of the medical inspector.

19. He shall arrange with the superintendent-general of vaccination for the vaccination of all persons in the depôt who are unprotected from small-pox.

20. The laborers shall be called out daily at 5 A.M. in the hot season, and at 7 A.M. in the cold season. A muster roll shall be called, and the medical officer, after careful examination, shall enter the names of the sick in his diary, which must be countersigned by the contractor.

21. Neither cooking, feeding, nor smoking should be permitted in the sleeping-sheds, which should be kept very clean and well ventilated.

22. Certain hours, to be fixed from time to time by the superintendent, will be set, apart for cooking and feeding; and no cooking will be allowed at any other time, except for invalids; nor in any place except the cooking-sheds, where they may feed and smoke also.

23. Meals punctually issued according to the scale sanctioned for use on steamers, &c., shall be examined by the medical officer before being served out; and, when necessary, food suitable for motherless infants and invalids (fresh milk, soup, sago, &c.) shall be freshly prepared and regularly supplied throughout the twenty-four hours. Any neglect of infants or invalids on the part of the contractor, or medical officer, will render him liable to withdrawal of his license.

24. After meals the cooking-sheds shall be carefully swept out by the laborers, and all cooking utensils thoroughly cleaned by the cooks; no stale food should be retained either in the vessels or by the laborers: the doctor and cooks should see to this daily.

25. Excepting the hospital, privies, drains, and receptacles for kitchen and other filth, which must be kept constantly cleaned by the mehters, every part of the depôt, the garden, sheds, feeding utensils, clothing, &c., should be kept clean and in good order by the laborers, who should be regularly and healthfully employed, short of fatigue, and as much as possible in the open air. Gardening should be encouraged.

26. The sheds, hospitals, privies, drains, &c., shall be constantly looked after, and any defects immediately remedied. Mud-plastered walls shall be white-washed once a month.

27. Laborers should wash their clothes at least twice a week when possible, and should bathe daily at a fixed time. A liberal supply of soap should be provided always.

28. They should be compelled to dust out and air their clothes and blankets daily, and should not be allowed to remain in damp clothes.

29. Laborers should not be permitted to wash their clothes or persons in tanks the water of which is used for drinking purposes; a separate tank should be selected for the purpose.

30. Excreta from the hospital or privies, and filth of any description, should not be buried within, at least, 1,000 feet of any source of drinking water; nor be thrown into stagnant pools or nullas which may happen to be unavoidably near the depôts.

31. Clothing, blankets, mats, &c., that have been in contact with communicable disease (e.g. small-pox or cholera), hospital dressings, foul rags, and all combustible filth, should be regularly and thoroughly burnt in a safe and suitable place, and in the presence of the medical officer.

32. The chuprasses on duty must be constantly about the depôt preserving order and cleanliness everywhere, especially when cooking, feeding, and inspections are conducted. They should see that no jungle or rubbish is permitted to accumulate in the depôt compound, that the space under and around the sleeping sheds, hospitals, &c., are kept clean, and that the mehters do their work regularly.

33. Excepting the lights in the dispensary or hospital and the durwan's room, all lights and fires must be put out at 9 o'clock.

34. The laborers should be properly distributed at night in their sleeping sheds according to the number each shed is licensed to accommodate, and must be prevented from crowding together.

CHAPTER VII.

Rules for the guidance of Medical Officers in charge of depôts.

1. The medical officer shall live in the depôt, and never absent himself without the manager's knowledge.

2. He shall see that of the preceding chapter, rules 15 to 34, both inclusive, and all instructions from the medical inspector, are carefully obeyed. He is directly responsible for the cleanliness and order of the hospital and dispensary, and shall report any defects or neglect to the medical inspector.

3. He shall keep a medical diary in form prescribed by the medical inspector, to whom it must be shown regularly every week; and will assist the writers in making out monthly returns of sickness and mortality.

4. He should be present when laborers arrive in depôt, when they are mustered every morning, at all inspections and visits by the medical inspector, and when they are preparing for despatch.

5. Slight illness need not be treated in hospital, but all serious cases must at once be taken there; and any suspicious cases should be separated for observation. Cases of cholera, small-pox, or other communicable disease, with all that belongs to the patients, should be instantly and thoroughly isolated, and reported to the medical inspector; and every means should be adopted to keep the batch or family in which the case occurred isolated from the rest of the laborers in depôt, without exciting alarm.

6. Every case of sickness and death must be entered in the medical diary, which must be seen and countersigned by the manager daily.

7. Means for disinfection and fumigation of infected places, and destruction of infected things, should be kept in readiness by the doctor in charge.

8. He shall bring to the notice of the medical inspector all laborers who have been sick, or who have shewn any physical or mental peculiarity that may render it necessary to return them as disqualified.

9. He is directly in charge of the sick and of motherless infants, to whose general comfort and good feeding he must constantly attend; and he should see that night nursing is properly provided for when it is necessary.

10. In conjunction with the medical officer deputed to go in charge of the laborers to the said districts, he shall see that the laborers about to be despatched are in sound health, that they bathe and put on clean clothes, are careful to take with them clean blankets, sutrungees, clothes, utensils, and soap, &c., according to scale, and that all old rags, indigestible food or grain have been removed from their bundles before they are permitted to leave the depôt. The responsibility of the doctor in charge of the depôt, whose duty it is to see that everything is provided for the welfare of the coolies up to the moment they leave the depôt, is in no way lessened by any official inspection.

CHAPTER VIII.

Rules for the guidance of Medical Officers going in charge of laborers preparing for departure to the said districts.

1. No medical officer can have charge of laborers unless licensed by the medical inspector of laborers at Calcutta.

2. Before obtaining his license, he shall be present, with his medical stores in readiness, at the examination of laborers by the medical inspector at Calcutta, whom he must satisfy as to his qualifications, and to whom he will furnish a certificate in form No. 7.

3. His attention is directed to sections LV. to LXIII. of the Act, and rules in chapters IX., X., XI., XIII., XIV., XV., and XVI.

4. He is responsible for the prevention and treatment of disease, and must therefore be present at all final examinations of laborers, their outfit, stores, and of vessels provided for their accommodation. He shall ascertain from the superintendent and medical inspector at place of embarkation the extent of deck and hospital space allowed. The examination of laborers and of their stores,

&c., by the medical inspector and superintendent does not lessen his responsibility in this respect. When satisfied, he will sign the certificates attached to lists Nos. 15, 16, 17, and 18.

5. The medical officer shall obey the medical inspector, shall keep a medical diary (form No. 19), and submit such returns and reports as may be required of him at the end of the voyage by the medical inspector. He shall also furnish a statement in form No. 20 to the superintendent and medical inspector.

6. He is in charge of the laborers from the time they leave the Calcutta depôt until they are delivered to the officer or agent appointed to receive them at their destination. He must be careful that only those who are fit to go are taken by him, and that relatives are not separated.

7. Before leaving the Calcutta depôt, the laborers should be divided into distinct batches and placed under care of responsible peons; the batches should be sub-divided into gangs, each one in charge of its own sirdar; and this order should be preserved throughout the journey.

8. If the laborers are not to embark from Calcutta, the medical officer shall, on arrival, report himself to the superintendent and medical inspector at place of embarkation.

9. He shall make frequent inquiries during the journey by train to ascertain that all continue well, that (time permitting) those who desire it are allowed to get out, and that a cooked meal is issued to them on arrival at place of embarkation.

10. Previous to embarkation, he shall, in conjunction with the medical inspector at the place of embarkation, carefully examine the laborers and identify them with those named in the health certificate, and shall enter any fresh remarks which he may desire to make in his diary.

11. He shall, as far as he can, see that laborers are not ill-used, and report any one who is guilty of ill-treating them.

12. The medical stores under his charge shall always be kept locked when not required.

13. When a compounder is appointed, he is, with the rest of the attendants, (peons, cooks, &c.,) under the orders of the medical officer in charge.

14. The medical officer will not be paid any gratuity for those who die during transit.

CHAPTER IX.

General rules for the guidance of Contractors and others concerned in making preliminary arrangements in depôt for the despatch of laborers.

1. The contractor is responsible for the efficiency of his share in all that tends to ensure the health, safety, and comfort of laborers during transit. He engages to supply provisions, clothing, medical stores, attendants, &c., according to prescribed scales (Nos. 12 to 18, both inclusive), and to furnish all forms, registers, lists, &c., correctly filled up to date of embarkation; therefore any neglect or carelessness will subject him to withdrawal of his license.

2. The superintendent or his assistant, and the contractor or his agent, shall be present at every despatch of laborers and their stores, &c., by train, steamers, or boats, of which the contractor must give early notice to the superintendent and his assistant.

3. Previous to every despatch, either by land or water, the laborers shall be provided with a cooked meal.

4. Provisions, and the establishment of cooks, peons, topasses, may precede or accompany, but should never follow, the laborers on their way to the place of embarkation.

5. The medical officer and medical stores must accompany them throughout the journey from Calcutta.

6. Every provision should be made for sudden cases of illness during transit. Doolies or other suitable means of conveyance should be always in readiness at the railway station and place of embarkation. The patient, accompanied by his or her family, if they desire it, shall be sent to the depôt hospital in charge of a trustworthy peon, who shall deliver the patient, his pass and all his clothes, blankets, utensils, &c. (according to scale), to the medical officer of the hospital, who will give the peon a receipt.

7. When the batch is unusually large, or there is much sickness, the medical inspector should be consulted as to the propriety of sending an additional doctor or assistant and an extra hospital boat.

8. Previous to the survey of stores on board steamers and boats, the contractor or his agent shall send samples of stores for approval to the superintendent at the place of embarkation, and having arranged for final examination of stores, &c., on board of steamers or boats, he shall be present at the survey.

CHAPTER X.

Rules for the guidance of all concerned in despatching laborers by train from a depôt in Calcutta to the embarkation depôt.

1. The laborers, with the medical officer or agent in charge, should be at the station fully half an hour before the train starts, and all should be safely in their places at least five minutes before the train moves.

2. In carriages laborers shall be allowed at least four superficial feet of space to each adult, and these shall under no circumstances be more than sixty adults to each carriage.

3. Good drinking water from the municipal pipes shall be supplied in a sufficient number of covered kulsees conveniently placed with the laborers in each carriage.

4. It should be arranged between the medical officer or agent and the guard in charge, that those who desire to get out of the train at any intermediate watering station, where time and weather permit, shall be allowed to do so, but that they must be safely in their places fully five minutes before the train starts, and all must be warned against attempting to get in or out of the carriages while in motion.

5. The contractor or agent, immediately on arriving at the Sealdah station, shall send a telegram to the agent at place of embarkation, reporting the despatch of laborers and ordering a cooked meal to be prepared for them.

6. If the train journey is likely to occupy more than six hours, a supply of biscuits and sugar should be distributed to the laborers before they leave Calcutta, in the proportion of two biscuits and an ounce of sugar to each statute adult; and the doctor or agent in charge should, under any circumstances, be prepared to buy milk for infants, or young children that require it, during the journey at any of the intermediate stations.

7. The contractor's agent, at place of embarkation, shall immediately on receipt of the telegram from Calcutta forward it for information to the medical inspector at place of embarkation.

RULES

(under section LIX. of the Act)

FOR REGULATING THE MANAGEMENT OF LABORERS DURING TRANSIT BY STEAMERS OR BOATS.

CHAPTER XI.

Rules for the guidance of all concerned in fitting vessels for the conveyance of laborers under the Act.

(a.)—General rules.

1. Exclusive of hospital space, gangways, ventilating hatches, space for crew and attendants, and—on boats—for rowing and bailing out, properly sheltered deck space shall be provided on board steamers, flats, and boats, at the rate of twelve superficial feet to each statute adult during the months of November, December, and January, and of fourteen superficial feet for the rest of the year. Every infant also must be allowed deck space, in the proportion of a fourth of that which is prescribed for a statute adult.

2. Hospital space shall be provided for five per cent. of the total number of statute adults to be carried; but such space shall be allotted at double the rate allowed for healthy adults, viz. 24 or 28 superficial feet to each statute adult, according to season; making reasonable allowance for space occupied by medical stores, &c.

(b.)—Of steamers and flats.

1. It should be ascertained that the term for which the engineer's and shipwright surveyor's certificates were granted has not expired.

2. No steamer can be licensed except on condition that on the occurrence of serious sickness the flats may be towed astern, or that a proper hospital boat is lashed alongside, or, best of all, that the entire upper deck of a flat—measured and licensed for the purpose—shall be devoted to the use of the sick laborers.

3. No steamer of doubtful power should be permitted to tow two flats, especially during the months of June, July, August, September, and October, unless the commander furnish a certificate of her power (form No. 21) to the superintendent, who, if the result prove unsatisfactory, shall refuse a license for two flats on the next occasion; and any commander who has been found evading the rules shall not be licensed again.

4. All fittings, &c., must be provided entirely on board that vessel which is to convey the laborers to their destination; but, if necessary, and with the medical inspector's consent, the hospital may be furnished on an upper deck of the adjoining flat or steamer, if it accompany for the entire journey.

5. All roofs must be strong, water-tight, and, if of corrugated iron, properly thatched, or lined with matting, &c., as a protection against heat.

6. Outside, and enclosing the space for coolies, there must be (a) a good canvas curtain hanging from roof to deck, with a ventilating space under the eaves above, but fastening, when down, closely to the deck below; (b) a boarding one foot high rising from the plank-sheer of the vessel; (c) a rope or wire netting, or a strong bamboo trellis-work, from plank to rail above.

7. Two 400-gallon water tanks, with covers complete, shall be placed conveniently and filled with the best water available—if in Calcutta, from the municipal hydrants—for the exclusive use of the laborers.

8. One or two fire-proof cabooses, fitted inside with brick and plaster to accommodate the full number of boilers according to scale (No. 17), must be firmly secured in the after-part of the vessel.

9. Privies, with canvas screens in front, must be securely fitted as far aft as possible, and at some distance from the deck space for laborers, their drinking water, and cooking places, &c.

10. There shall never be less than two distinct privies on board of any vessel, and the accommodation in this respect shall be according to such scale and after such pattern as the superintendent shall from time to time direct. Separate privies must be provided for females, and on the opposite side of the deck to those for the males.

11. Two wash-deck tubs kept filled with water shall be placed near the privies; one for males, and the other for females.

12. A well-protected space for washing and bathing in ought to be provided, and furnished with a canvas screen for women.

13. All dangerously exposed places near hatches, ladders, bathing-places, privies, communication and landing stages, should be properly railed in.

14. Embarkation, landing, and all communicating stages likely to be used by laborers, shall be at least 3 feet wide, well fastened, and provided with hand rails; this should be always remembered when coolies are to be embarked or landed.

15. The lower end of the funnel and other heated parts near the deck space for laborers shall be enclosed with matting, wood, or other non-conducting material, to the height of 4 or 5 feet.

16. Space for coolies shall be protected also against spray from the paddle-wheels; otherwise space opposite the paddle-boxes on both sides of steamers, and on one side of a flat (if to be lashed alongside), must not be measured for laborers.

17. A secure place under lock and key must be provided for the laborers' stores; the vegetables should be hung up in convenient places, but not out of sight; and bamboos should be fastened, fore and aft, along the central stanchions, near the laborers' deck space, so that they may hang up their bundles and blankets for the day.

18. Horses, pigs, and other animals should not be allowed on the same deck with the laborers, unless a space of about 20 feet in breadth intervene; and the animals must be kept clean and secured. Sheep pens should be fitted. Vicious animals shall not be allowed on the same vessel with the laborers.

19. Two life buoys shall hang over or near the stern of every vessel, and the boats should be in good order.

20. A good canvas screen shall be furnished to divide off hospital space, which must be provided on the upper deck of a flat or steamer.

21. Lanterns should be hung up in their places ready for use.

(c.)—Of boats.

1. They shall be of moderate and uniform size, strong, water-tight, and provided with side windows and movable jhamps, machan or plank decks, masts, sails, oars, &c., all in good order.

2. No temporary addition to the size of the roof shall be allowed as a plea for carrying more persons than the boat was originally intended to accommodate, unless there be ample space, and the added part is in every respect as good as the rest.

3. All bamboo machan decks shall be matted.

4. Before the superintendent or his assistant leaves the ghât, all boats selected for the service shall then and there be marked and numbered (stencilled in paint) thus on the bow, stern, or other prominent parts; and the mark and number shall be entered in the boat's license.

5. A good wide boat must be selected exclusively for a hospital; it should be particularly well ventilated, fitted with a plank deck, and subject to the same general conditions as the rest of the boats.

6. If the batch be large, and one moderate sized boat prove insufficient, a second boat should be provided. Two boats are preferable to one large one, and may be ordered by the medical inspector if there be risk of excessive sickness.

7. The doctor and medical stores must always be on or near the hospital boat, which should be distinguished from the rest by a red flag; and a call for the doctor might be signified by waving a white cloth. The superintendent or medical inspector should see that some simple means of rapid communication is understood by all before they start. If the batch exceed 100 statute adults, a separate dispensary or doctor's boat may be provided, if necessary; it should be small and swift.

8. The strongest and driest boats, lined with dunnage, should be selected for the conveyance of the stores, and the manjees of these boats must sign the provision lists together with the doctor or agent in charge.

9. There must be a good lantern to each boat.

THE SURVEY.

CHAPTER XII.

Rules for the guidance of the Superintendent and Medical Inspector at place of embarkation.

1. On receipt of application for final survey, the superintendent will communicate, if necessary, with the medical inspector and with the doctor or agent going in charge, who must be present at the survey.

2. The superintendent shall see that the fittings and stores are good and according to scale; and the medical inspector will satisfy himself that the sanitary arrangements, hospital accommodation, and medical stores are also good, and in accordance with what is prescribed.

3. If laborers are to be despatched in boats, an intelligent head manjee may be selected by common consent of the others, and appointed by the superintendent to exert general control over them in keeping the boats together, preserving order, and assisting the doctor or sirdars during the voyage. But it must be distinctly understood by all that the appointment of a head manjee does not in the least degree lessen the responsibility of the manjees: under the law each one is personally liable for every offence or neglect of duty.

4. After everything has been examined and approved of, the commander or manjee, and the doctor or sirdar in charge, shall sign the provision lists; and when the superintendent is satisfied that the commander of the steamer, or head manjee in charge of the flotilla, has a copy of the Act and rules, he will license the vessels in form D.

CHAPTER XIII.

Rules for the guidance of Commanders of steamers, &c., and Manjees in charge of boats, licensed to convey laborers to the said districts.

1. Every commander and head manjee must be provided with a copy of Act II. (B.C.) of 1870, and rules for regulating the transport of native laborers under the Act. The attention of commanders and manjees is particularly directed to sections XLII. to LXII. of the Act, and rules in chapters XI., XIII., XIV., and XV.

2. No steamer, flat, boat, or boats, whether regarded separately or collectively, shall convey more than twenty statute adults together or at one time to the said districts without a license, nor more than forty-nine souls together or at one time without a licensed medical officer in charge of them.

3. Every vessel for which a license is required must be surveyed by the superintendent, to whom written applications for surveys must be made.

(a). Primary survey is necessary, unless a vessel has been recently licensed for a former trip. The deck space intended for laborers should be cleared and shewn to the superintendent, who, if he approve of it, and the general fitness of the vessel, will ascertain by measurement how many statute adults may be accommodated, after which the fittings prescribed in chapter XI. must be provided.

(b). When the fittings are completed, and the provisions on board carefully weighed and arranged for examination on deck according to their order in the provision list, the superintendent should be applied to for a final survey of fittings and stores.

4. Commanders of steamers and manjees in charge of boats (conjointly with doctors or sirdars) are to be considered in charge of the laborers and their stores; they will be required to sign provision and embarkation lists, and their responsibility is in no way lessened by the official inspections.

5. They will be required to prepare crew and passenger lists in form No. 22; and—excepting those specified in the license, and cabin passengers' servants—no native passengers must be allowed on board the same vessel with the laborers, or on the same deck with them, if the laborers occupy only the upper deck of a double-decked steamer or flat.

6. Commanders and manjees must render all the assistance in their power to the doctor or sirdar in charge.

THE EMBARKATION.

CHAPTER XIV.

Rules for the guidance of all concerned.

1. Commanders shall see that the deck space for laborers is clear, clean, and dry, and that ladders, stages, &c., are safely secured and railed.

2. During embarkation, all traffic, unless carried on by means of a separate stage and gangway, and every kind of work interfering with embarkation, must be stopped.

3. Two men should be stationed at the gangway, one to count and the other to keep a careful tally of the total number of laborers, (men, women, and children, including infants,) as they come on board, one by one, in answer to their names.

4. Laborers must not be received on board unless everything is perfectly ready and the vessels prepared to start, when notice should be sent to the superintendent.

5. The superintendent and medical inspector, (or if the batch be small, a competent assistant deputed by them,) the contractor or his agent, and the doctor or sirdar going in charge, must be present at every embarkation of laborers exceeding twenty statute adults in number.

6. They shall not embark without the permission of the superintendent or medical inspector, except under stress of weather, when they must be mustered and examined under shelter on board.

7. The laborers with their passes, &c., divided into batches and gangs under their peons and sirdars, shall be called on board by name, one at a time, and identified with those on the embarkation list.

8. Any laborers taken ill and unfit to go must be detained and sent to the depôt hospital. (See rule 6, chapter IX.)

9. When all are on board, the embarkation stage must be removed, and the establishment of peons, sirdars, and topases should be mustered in order to see that they are present according to scale No. 18. Then all lists, certificates, &c., should be carefully corrected, signed, and delivered; after which the vessels should leave as speedily as possible, the superintendent or his assistant remaining at the ghât till they start.

10. As soon as possible after the vessels leave, the superintendent shall forward to the superintendent at Calcutta correct copies of embarkation, provision, and establishment lists, and shall return (corrected up to date of embarkation) the certificates of health of the laborers despatched.

THE PASSAGE.

CHAPTER XV.

General rules for the guidance of Commanders of steamers, or Manjees in charge of boats, and Doctors or others in charge of laborers.

1. Commanders or manjees, and doctors or sirdars, are conjointly responsible for the care and good treatment of the laborers during the passage.

As soon after the embarkation as possible, the laborers should be comfortably berthed, and their bundles again searched for any indigestible food, grain, or old rags they may have contrived to get; all of which should be thrown over board. This is a point that requires repeated attention.

2. Peons and sirdars shall obey the instructions of the commander and doctor, and must immediately report any defects, pilfering of stores, neglect of duty, cases of sickness, and disagreements affecting the laborers, to the doctor or commander, who must attend to the case as soon as possible.

3. Peons and sirdars must have their day and night duties fairly divided and clearly defined. When there are sick in hospital, peons, sirdars, and topases should be deputed to hospital duty, so that the sick may be constantly cared for, and the attendants regularly relieved by others in rotation. Careful night-nursing of the sick must be attended to.

4. The laborers' deck space must not be encroached upon in any way; and neither crew nor passengers should be permitted to interfere with the laborers.

5. The laborers should rise early, and after dusting their blankets should fold and sling them up out of the way.

6. Weather permitting, the side curtains (or jhumps on board boats) should be raised, and free ventilation ensured in every way.

7. The laborers should be mustered every morning and examined by the medical officer. Those who are well should bathe daily, and wash their clothes at least twice a week.

8. Laborers who are, as a rule, utterly unable to manage a bucket in any running stream, should not be allowed to draw water for themselves; otherwise accidents are sure to follow.

9. The decks should be dry holy-stoned by the laborers daily, but washed only when weather, time, and other circumstances permitting, the laborers may be landed, or accommodated on another deck, till their deck is thoroughly dry.

10. Laborers' clothes, mats, and blankets should be aired and put in the sun as often as possible, especially after damp weather.

11. They may be permitted, with the consent of the medical officer in charge, to assist in coaling, or other labor unattended by any risk and short of fatigue. They should always be encouraged to occupy and amuse themselves.

12. Laborers shall not be allowed finally to leave any steamer or boat at any place excepting that named in their passes, or under circumstances of necessity provided for in sections XLVII. and LV. of the Act; but, when time and weather permit, they may be landed for a few hours with the consent of the medical officer; though it will always be necessary to prevent them from visiting bazars and villages on the way, or landing at places infected with cholera, small-pox, &c.

13. They must be properly arranged at night and prevented from crowding together; and lanterns shall burn all night in the dispensary, and near privies and gangways.

14. The cooks, assisted by peons and sirdars, shall prepare the food punctually, and when ready it shall be examined, before it is served out, by the doctor or assistant in charge, who will see that all is well cooked, and distributed fully and fairly according to scale. Boiling rice in bad or brackish water must not be permitted, and, neither cooks nor laborers shall retain stale food, but must clean out all utensils and shew them to the doctor or agent after each meal. Motherless infants and invalids must have suitable and freshly prepared food, (milk, soup, sago, &c.,) ordered for every three or fours. Food for the healthy must be issued sufficiently early to admit of its being ready at 9 A.M. and 4 P.M. every day; and all issues of rations must be entered and certified to daily (in form No. 15) by the commander, or person deputed by him, and the doctor or agent in charge.

15. All extra allowances of fish, meat, vegetables, &c., and any change in diet, shall be regulated by the doctor only, who will give his reasons in the column for remarks in form No. 15.

16. A constant supply of good drinking water must be kept up in the tanks, which should be used alternately, allowing the water to settle after the addition of alum in the proportion of six grains to the gallon. The health of the laborers depends in very great measure on the water they drink, and every effort should be made to prevent them from drinking the river water fresh drawn from the side of the vessel. There should be no difficulty in carrying out this rule on board steamers and flats.

17. The surplus of laborers' stores shall not be sold till the end of the passage, or till the laborers for whom they were supplied have been landed; and the certificates to this effect (list No. 15) shall be signed by the commander and doctor or other officer in charge and the debarkation officer.

18. In the event of any deficiency or pilfering of stores being detected, immediate inquiry should be made, and the offender prosecuted under section LXI. of Act II. of 1870.

19. The topases shall sweep the decks morning and evening, and after every meal; and must keep them always clean and dry. They shall also keep the privies and bed-pans constantly clean and sprinkled with disinfecting powder or carbolic acid; and must fill the tubs near the privies regularly with water.

20. Laborers suffering from slight illness may be attended in their berths, but all serious cases must be treated in hospital; and persons attacked by cholera or small-pox or other communicable disease, with all that belongs to them, must be instantly and thoroughly isolated from the healthy. Even the family or batch in which the case occurred should be kept on another deck, or as far apart as possible from the rest of the laborers, without exciting alarm.

21. The place or boat on which the disease first breaks out should be instantly cleared, the deck and wood-work should be thoroughly cleaned, scraped, and scrubbed with hot sand and disinfecting powder (or washed down with a hot solution of caustic lime, if procurable), and the entire space should be fumigated with burning sulphur, by letting down screens (or jhamps on board boats) and confining the sulphurous fumes for a time; after which free ventilation should be promoted, and the place left unoccupied, if possible, for a week or longer.

All the latrines should be lime-washed, disinfected, and fumigated in like manner.

22. On steamers or boats the above rule should be carried out on the occurrence of the first case. The object is to prevent, and not to wait for an epidemic, which can be checked only by promptly and simultaneously attending to premonitory symptoms, isolation of the sick, general and personal cleanliness, careful disposal of excreta, disinfection and destruction of infected articles, free ventilation, and care of the healthy.

On boats it may not always be possible to follow the above instructions very closely, but they should be acted upon as far as possible; and under any circumstances, after the patient has been removed to the hospital boat, the healthy should be landed and made to bathe and wash their clothes, while the boat is being thoroughly cleaned and disinfected in the manner explained.

The laborers should not be allowed to re-enter their boat till everything is clean and dry about them, and the bilge of the boat has been freely sprinkled with disinfecting powder or carbolic acid.

23. All clothes, blankets, mats, &c., that have been in any way in contact with those suffering from communicable disease, or have been soiled or suspected of infection or impurity, should be thrown overboard, or, what is better, burnt on shore if possible, in the presence of the medical officer.

24. If there is a doctor in charge, a medical diary in form No. 19 must be carefully kept. Every death shall be reported immediately to the commander of the steamer, who, or the doctor, should take charge of any property (money, &c.) left by the deceased, and, if there be no relatives on board, he should deliver it to the magistrate at the place of disembarkation.

25. On arrival at the first civil station, any unusual sickness should be reported at once, and if three cases of cholera have occurred within a week, such additional measures should be adopted in communication with the civil authorities at the station as may appear most advisable.

26. On arrival at the civil station where the laborers are to be disembarked, or where (see section LIII.) they must be inspected previous to debarkation at some place intermediate between such civil station and the next one, the commander or manjee shall, before landing any laborers, give notice of their arrival to the magistrate or other officer appointed to inspect the laborers and superintend their disembarkation.

27. The commander or manjee, and the doctor or other person in charge, shall muster the laborers on deck, and shall shew the embarkation, provision, and issue lists, furnishing all necessary information that may be required of them, after which the disembarkation officer will attach his remarks and signature to forms Nos. 15 and 20, when they have been duly filled up and signed by the commander and doctor, or other person in charge.

28. If the mortality on board exceed three per cent. of the total number of souls embarked, the disembarkation officer will make special inquiry into its causes, and, if there be a doctor on board, will call for his medical diary and any other information on the subject, all of which must be promptly and fully furnished.

29. If, on arriving at the place of disembarkation other than a civil station, the commander, doctor, or other person in charge should find that any of the laborers are not in a fit state of health to land and journey to their final destination, or that their employer or his agent is not present to receive them, or that reasonable provision has not been made for their support and lodging from the time of their landing to that of their arrival at their final destination, they may be conveyed to, and landed at, the next civil station (see section LV.)

30. When returning from the said districts, commanders are cautioned against receiving, as passengers, laborers who hold no certificates of release under section XCIII., or who cannot give any account of themselves.

31. On his return to Calcutta, the commander (or doctor) shall forward forms Nos. 15 and 20 correctly filled up and signed, together with any report or remarks he may desire to make to the superintendent of labor transport at Calcutta.

32. Any neglect of these rules will subject the commander or doctor to refusal of another license, and his attention is directed to section LX. of the Act.

CHAPTER XVI.

Additional rules for the guidance of Doctors in charge of laborers proceeding to the said districts in boats.

1. The doctor must be guided by the rules in chapter XV.

2. He must endeavour to keep the boats forming the flotilla together, and should keep the hospital boat following the fleet.

3. He must take care that the boats are not changed, and that the hospital boat is used only for the purpose intended.

4. In the event of any of the boats being disabled by accident, he shall report this or any other defects to the magistrate at the nearest civil station, so that measures may be adopted to remedy them.

5. When cholera is prevalent, he shall, in order to restrain premonitory diarrhœa till the case can be attended to by the doctor, distribute to intelligent sirdars or peons in each boat some simple pills or mixtures, of which opium should form a very small proportion, with clear instructions how to use them.

6. Besides constant attention to the sick, the doctor should see that the boats and their bilges are kept clean, that the laborers are generally clean and well cared for, that foul or infected villages or places are avoided, and that at night the boats are not fastened to any defiled or unwholesome bank.

OF DISEMBARKATION.

CHAPTER XVII.

Rules for the guidance of Medical Officers and others in charge of disembarkation depôts in the said districts.

1. At every place where laborers are disembarked, sufficient and good accommodation, food, water, medicines, medical comforts, and doolies for the conveyance of the sick must be provided.

8. Mohona Mook.
9. Bishnauth.

Cachar.

1. Silchar.
2. Categora.
3. Iberkaikhal.

3. At every landing place where the number landed is sufficiently large to render it necessary, a native doctor shall be appointed to have charge of it. Besides sleeping and cooking sheds, there should be separate hospitals for ordinary and contagious cases, and separate wards and latrines for males and females.

4. The doctors in charge of the larger depôts, and the employer's agents or doctors in charge of private depôts where small batches are only occasionally landed, are responsible for the sanitary state of the depôts, and the good treatment of the laborers in them. A sufficient number of attendants and sweepers should also be provided; and, as far as they are applicable, the rules in chapter II. for guidance in establishing depôts, and rules in chapter VII. for the guidance of doctors in charge of depôts, should be followed.

5. The doctor or agent in charge of the depôt should represent to the proper authorities any defects or deficiencies, in order that they may be remedied at once.

6. On arrival of laborers, he will inquire into their condition, the treatment they have received during the passage, the state of their clothing, and the quantity and quality of surplus stores. If mortality on board exceed three per cent., he will make special inquiry into its causes and report on it.

After he is satisfied, he will enter his remarks in forms Nos. 15 and 20, and attach his signature to them.

7. He will have doolies in readiness for the sick, who should be landed without suffering or delay, and conveyed to hospital.

8. He will see that only those who are fit to travel to their final destination are permitted to leave the depôt, and that members of a family are not separated except with their mutual consent.

9. When it is impossible to cook food for laborers on the march, they should be supplied with a sufficient quantity of biscuits and sugar; and if milk be not procurable, preserved milk should, if possible, be provided for young children, nursing mothers, and convalescents. The addition of half a gallon of water to a tin of Anglo-Swiss preserved milk is all that is necessary.

10. The medical officer in charge of the depôt must keep a general register in form No. 23, and a medical register in form No. 24.

11. On the recovery of laborers detained on account of sickness, they should be forwarded without delay to their final destination. In the event of any laborer being considered unfit for labor, it will be necessary for the disembarkation officer to consult with the magistrate of the district and the employer concerned, in order that it may be decided whether such laborer shall be accepted by the employer as a non-effective, or whether the laborer shall be released from his contract under section XC.

12. Doctors or agents in charge of disembarkation depôts shall furnish such reports or returns as may from time to time be required of them for the information of Government.

NOTE.

Barometric Pressure.—The pressures in column 2 of the above table for all stations below 500 feet are reduced from those given in column 3 of the table on the previous page by adding the weight of a column of air of the corresponding temperatures given in column 17. For stations of above 500 feet elevation, the reduction is made by Dippe's tables as given in Guyot's "Meteorological and Physical Tables."

Temperature.—The temperatures in column 3 are reduced from those in column 17, on the preceding page, by adding 1° Fahr. for every 350 feet.

Wind Direction.—The mean wind direction and its comparative prevalence are calculated from the whole number of wind observations recorded during the half-month. The latter is given as a percentage of the whole number of observations. The mean direction is calculated in the usual way by Lambert's formula.

The above being all comparable, afford the data for constructing a meteorological chart for the half-month which shall shew the isobaric and isothermal lines, and the resultant wind directions, which last may be represented by arrows of varying length proportioned to the prevalence of the wind. To these may be added the rainfall from the previous tables.

Signed at Paris, July 1861.

[Ratifications exchanged at Paris, July 30th, 1861.]

His Majesty the Emperor of the French having made known, by a declaration dated this day (1st July 1861) his resolution to put an end to the recruitment upon the coast of Africa of negro labourers by means of redemption; and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland desiring, in consequence, to facilitate the immigration of free labourers into the French Colonies, their said Majesties have resolved to conclude a Convention destined to regulate the recruitment of such labourers in the British territories in India. For this purpose they have named as their Plenipotentiaries:—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Most Honourable Henry Richard Charles Earl Cowley, Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Emperor of the French;

And His Majesty the Emperor of the French, M. Edouard Antoine Thouvenel, Senator, His Minister and Secretary of State for the Department of Foreign Affairs;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in due form, have agreed upon the following Articles:—

Article I.

The French Government shall be at liberty to recruit and engage labourers for the French Colonies in the Indian Territories belonging to Great Britain, and embark Emigrants, being subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, either in British or French Ports in India, under the conditions hereinafter stipulated.

Article II.

The French Government shall entrust the direction of its operations in every centre of recruitment to an Agent chosen by itself.

Those Agents must be approved by the British Government.

Such approval is assimilated, with regard to the right of granting and withdrawal, to the Exequatur given to Consular Agents.

Article III.

This recruitment shall be effected conformably to the regulations which now exist, or may hereafter be established, for the recruitment of labourers for British Colonies.

Article IV.

The French Agent shall, with regard to the operations of recruitment which are intrusted to him, enjoy for himself and for the persons whom he may employ, all the facilities and advantages afforded to the Recruiting Agents for British Colonies.

Article V.

The Government of Her Britannic Majesty shall appoint in those British Ports where Emigrants may be embarked, an Agent who shall be specially charged with the care of their interests.

In French Ports the same duty with regard to Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall be confided to the British Consular Agent.

Under the term "Consular Agents" are comprised Consuls, Vice-Consuls, and all other Commissioned Consular Officers.

Article VI.

No Emigrant shall be embarked unless the Agent described in the preceding Article shall have been enabled to satisfy himself, either that the Emigrant is not a British subject or, if a British subject, that his engagement is voluntary, that he has a perfect knowledge of the nature of his contract, of the place of his destination, of the probable length of his voyage, and of the different advantages connected with his engagement.

Article VII.

The contracts of service, with the exception provided for by section 4 of Article IX, and by section 2 of Article X, shall be made in India, and shall either bind the Emigrant to serve a person designated by name, or to serve a person to whom he shall be allotted by the proper authority on his arrival in the Colony.

Article VIII.

The contracts shall, moreover, make stipulation for:—

1. The duration of the engagement, at the expiration of which the Emigrant shall receive a return-passage to India at the expense of the French Government, and the terms on which it will be competent to him to abandon or renounce his right to a free return-passage.

2. The number of days and hours of work.

3. The wages and rations, as well as the rate of payment for extra work, and all the advantages promised to the Emigrant.

4. Gratuitous medical treatment for the Emigrant, except in cases where, in the opinion of the proper Government officer, his illness shall have arisen from his own misconduct.

In every contract of engagement there shall be inserted an exact copy of Articles IX, X, XX and XXI of the present Convention.

ARTICLE IX.

1. The duration of the Immigrant's engagement shall not be more than five years. In case, however, he shall be duly proved to have absented himself from work, he shall be bound to serve a number of days equal to the time of his absence.

2. At the expiration of that period, every Indian who shall have attained the age of ten years at the time of his departure from India, shall be entitled to a return-passage at the expense of the French Government.

3. If he can show that his conduct has been regular, and that he has the means of subsistence, he may be allowed to reside in the Colony without any engagement; but from that time he will lose his right to a free return-passage.

4. If he consents to contract a new engagement, he will be entitled to a bounty, and will retain his right to a return-passage at the expiration of this second engagement.

The right of the Immigrant to a return-passage extends to his wife, and to his children who quitted India under the age of ten years, as well as to those born in the Colonies.

ARTICLE X.

The Immigrant shall not be bound to work more than six days in seven nor more than nine hours and a half a day.

The conditions of task-work and every other kind of regulation for work, shall be freely arranged with the labourer. The obligation to provide, on holidays, for the care of animals and the necessities of daily life, shall not be considered as work.

ARTICLE XI.

In British Ports, the arrangements which precede the departure of the Emigrants shall be conformable to those prescribed by the regulations for the British Colonies.

In French Ports, the Emigration Agent or his deputies shall, on the departure of every Emigrant ship, deliver to the British Consular Agent a nominal list of the Emigrants who are subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, with a description of their persons, and shall also communicate to him the contracts of which he may require copies.

In such case, only one copy shall be given of all contracts of which the provisions are identical.

ARTICLE XII.

In the Ports of embarkation, the Emigrants who are subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall be at liberty, conforming to the regulations of Police relative to such establishments, to leave the depôts, or other place in which they may be lodged, in order to communicate with the British Agents, who, on their part, may at any reasonable hour visit the places in which the Emigrants, subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, are collected or lodged.

ARTICLE XIII.

Emigrants may leave India for the Colonies to the East of the Cape of Good Hope at all times of the year.

For other Colonies they may leave only from the first of August to the fifteenth of March. This arrangement applies only to sailing vessels; vessels using steam-power may leave at any time of the year.

Every Emigrant sailing from India for the Antilles, between the first of March and the fifteenth of September, shall receive at least one double blanket over and above the clothing usually allowed to him, and may make use of it so long as the vessel is outside of the Tropics.

ARTICLE XIV.

Every Emigrant vessel must carry an European Surgeon and an Interpreter.

The Captains of Emigrant vessels shall be bound to take charge of any despatch which may be delivered to them by the British Agent at the Port of embarkation for the British Consular Agent at the Port of destination and to deliver it to the Colonial Government immediately after his arrival.

ARTICLE XV.

In every vessel employed for the conveyance of Emigrants subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, the Emigrants shall occupy, either between decks, cabins on the upper deck or in firmly secured and entirely covered in, a space devoted to their exclusive use. Such cabins and space between decks shall in every part have a height of not less than five feet and a half.

No compartment shall take more than one adult Emigrant for every cubic space of seventy-two feet in the Presidency of Bengal and at Chandernagore, and for every cubic space of sixty feet in other French Ports, and in the Presidencies of Bombay and Madras.

An Emigrant above the age of ten years shall count as an adult, and two children from one to ten years of age shall count as one adult.

A place shall be fitted up for a hospital in every Emigrant ship.

Women and children shall occupy compartments of the vessel distinct and separate from those of the men.

ARTICLE XVI.

Each shipment of Emigrants shall include a proportion of women equal to at least one-fourth of the number of men. After the expiration of three years, the numerical proportion of women shall be raised to one-third; after two years more, it shall be raised to one-half; and after a further period of two years, the proportion shall be the same as may be fixed for the British Colonies.

ARTICLE XVII.

The British Agents at the embarkation shall have, at all reasonable times, the right of access to every part of the ship which is appropriated to the use of Emigrants.

ARTICLE XVIII.

The Governors of the French establishments in India shall make such administrative regulations as may be necessary to ensure the complete execution of the preceding stipulations.

ARTICLE XIX.

On the arrival of an Emigrant ship in any French Colony, the Government shall cause to be transmitted to the British Consular Agent any despatches which it may have received for him, together with—

1. A nominal list of all labourers disembarked who are subjects of Her Britannic Majesty.

2. A list of the deaths or births which may have taken place during the voyage.

The Colonial Government shall take the necessary measures to enable the British Consular Agent to communicate with the Emigrants before their distribution in the Colony.

A copy of the "List of distribution" shall be delivered to the Consular Agent.

He shall be informed of all deaths and births which may occur during the period of engagement, as well as of all changes of employer, and of all departures on a return-passage.

Every fresh engagement, or act of renunciation of the right to a free return-passage, shall be communicated to the Consular Agent.

ARTICLE XX.

All Immigrants, being subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, shall, in the same manner as other subjects of the British Crown, and conformably to the ordinary rules of international law, enjoy, in the French Colonies, the right of claiming the assistance of the British Consular Agents; and no obstacle shall be opposed to the labourer's resorting to the Consular Agent and communicating with him; without prejudice, however, to the obligations arising out of his engagement.

ARTICLE XXI.

In the distribution of labourers no husband shall be separated from his wife, nor any father or mother from their children under fifteen years of age. No labourer shall be required to change his employer without his own consent, unless he be transferred to the Government, or to the person who has acquired the property on which he is employed.

Immigrants who may become permanently incapable of work, either by sickness or by any other cause beyond their own control, shall be sent back at the expense of the French Government, whatever time may still be wanting to entitle them to a free return-passage.

ARTICLE XXII.

All operations of immigration may be carried on in the French Colonies by French or British vessels without distinction.

British vessels which may engage in those operations shall be bound to conform to all the measures of Police, health, and equipment which may apply to French vessels.

ARTICLE XXIII.

The labour-regulations of Martinique shall serve as the basis for all the regulations of the French Colonies into which Indian Emigrants, subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, may be introduced.

The French Government engages not to introduce into those regulations any modification, the result of which would be to place the said Indian subjects in an exceptional position, or to impose upon them conditions of labour more stringent than those prescribed by the said regulations.

ARTICLE XXIV.

The present Convention applies to emigration to the Colonies of Ré-union, Martinique, Guadeloupe and its dependencies, and Guiana.

It may hereafter be applied to immigration to other Colonies in which British Consular Agents shall be established.

ARTICLE XXV.

The provisions of the present Convention relative to the Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall apply to the Natives of every Indian State which is under the protection or political control of Her said Majesty, or of which the Government shall have acknowledged the supremacy of the British Crown.

ARTICLE XXVI.

The present Convention shall begin to take effect on the first of September 1861, and shall continue in full force for three years and a half. It shall remain in full force, if notice for its termination be not given in the course of the month of September of the third year, and then notice can be given only in the course of the month of September of each succeeding year.

In case of notice being given for its termination, it shall cease eighteen months afterwards.

Nevertheless the Governor General of British India in Council shall, in conformity with the Act of the 19th of September, 1856, relative to immigration to British Colonies, have the power to suspend at any time emigration to any one or more of the French Colonies, in the event of his having reason to believe that in any such Colony proper measures have not been taken for the protection of the emigrants immediately upon their arrival or during their residence therein, or for their safe return to India, or to provide a return-passage to India for any such emigrants at or about the time at which they are entitled to such return-passage.

In case, however, the power thus reserved to the Governor General of British India should at any time be exercised, the French Government shall have the right immediately to terminate the whole Convention, if they should think proper to do so.

But in the event of the determination of the present Convention, from whatever cause, the stipulations relative to Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty introduced into the French Colonies shall be maintained in force in favour of the said Indian subjects, until they shall either have been sent back to their own country, or have renounced their right to a return-passage to India.

ARTICLE XXVII.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Paris in four weeks, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at Paris, the 1st day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

(L. S.) THOUVENEL.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.

His Majesty the Emperor of the French having stated that, in consequence of the order which he gave long ago that no more African Emigrants should be introduced into the Island of Réunion, that Colony has, since last year, had to obtain labourers from India and China; and Her Britannic Majesty having, by a Convention signed on the 25th of July 1860, between Her Majesty and His Majesty the Emperor of the French, authorized the Colony of Réunion to recruit six thousand labourers in her Indian possessions, it is agreed that the Convention of this date shall take effect forthwith, with regard to the said Colony of Réunion.

The present Additional Article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted, word for word, in the Convention signed this day. It shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at the same time as those of the Convention.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The law relating to pensions is at present distributed over nine Regulations of the Bengal, three Regulations of the Madras, and two Regulations of the Bombay, Codes, as well as three Acts of the Governor General in Council.

The main provision of the law as expressed in the Bengal Regulations XXIV, 1793, section 17, XXXIV, 1795, section 14, XXIV, 1803, section 16, and VI, 1817, and the Madras Regulation IV, 1831, section 2, is the reservation to Government of the right to determine on all claims to the continuance of pensions, and the exclusion of the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts of judicature in regard to such claims.

In the Bombay Presidency, under the operation of Regulations XXIX, 1827, and VII, 1830, the Civil Courts are barred from the cognizance of suits to enforce such claims throughout the Dekhan, Khandeish and the South Mahratta Country.

The Bengal Regulations, though expressly applicable only to Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, are practically in force throughout the more recently acquired provinces; hence the law as above described applies to all India, except a portion of the Bombay Presidency.

Within this excepted country the Civil Courts have in more than one instance assumed jurisdiction in such cases.

The principle on which that jurisdiction is elsewhere disallowed is founded on perfectly equitable considerations, and is therefore fit for uniform application. It is in effect the assertion of the right of the State to reserve to itself the power of granting or withholding at pleasure concessions which are made gratuitously and without consideration.

The object of the proposed legislation, therefore, is (first) to consolidate the existing law, excluding all those provisions which are either obsolete or ill adapted for enactment in detail; and (second) to extend the law so re-enacted to the whole of British India.

LEAVE AND ALLOWANCES.

The 9th March 1871.

No. 1337.—The following Resolution is published for general information :—

No. 2197.

Fort William, the 24th April 1868.

Read the following documents :—

Extract from Proceedings in the Public Works Department No 509E., dated 23rd March 1866, forwarding an application from the Government of Bombay that Engineers employed under Municipal Committees which manage Local Funds in the Bombay Presidency may be graded with the Imperial Public Works Establishment, so as to be eligible for pension from the general revenues, while their pay will be disbursed from the Local Funds on the establishment of which they are employed.

An endorsement of the Home Department, No. 23, dated 4th June 1866, on a letter from the Government of Bombay, recommending that all Masters of Schools under the direct control of the Department of Education should have claims to pension from the general revenue, though they be paid from Local Funds.

An endorsement of the Home Department, No. 755, dated 30th May 1867, on a letter from the Chief Commissioner of Oude, forwarding a letter from the Director of Public Instruction in that Province urging that if service as a Teacher in a school maintained from a local cess be not allowed to count towards pension, at least such Teacher may be allowed to reckon his previous service in a school, maintained from the general revenues in the event of his re-transfer to another school maintained from those revenues, so that the break caused by the intervening service in a local cess school may not operate to his prejudice.

Home Department's endorsement No. 2164, dated 11th July 1867, on a letter to the Government of Bombay, giving cover to a despatch from the Secretary of State for India, No. 29, dated 24th May 1867, authorising the introduction of a Bill into the Council of the Governor of Bombay for the levy of an anna cess on the land revenue in all districts where the population might agree to it as a voluntary contribution for educational and other purposes of local improvement.

Letter from the Government of Bombay, No. 3444, dated 7th October 1867, recommending, in the event of rejection of the proposition received with the Home Department's endorsement, dated 4th June 1866, that all Government servants of the Educational or any other Department who have been or may be permitted to take employment in offices paid from Local Funds under Government control may be subjected to a deduction of 3 or 4 per cent. from the pay which they receive wholly or in part from the Local Funds, and be permitted to count towards pension from the general revenue all time spent in such service, during which the proportional deduction that may be fixed is duly paid to Government by the Local Funds.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that the questions referred by the Government of Bombay depend on the stability of the Local Funds of that Presidency, and the anna cess on the land revenue being the chief or most important source of income of those Funds, orders on the questions could not be passed before receipt of the Secretary of State's Despatch recognizing and assenting to the levy of the cess.

2. The rulings of the Home Authorities and the Government of India respecting the pensionary claims of persons employed under Municipalities or in Establishments maintained from Local Funds are stated in the accompanying memorandum. There is no objection under those rulings to the pensioning of persons in otherwise eligible grades who may be employed in Establishments controlled by Government and paid from Local Funds, provided that the pensions be paid from the same source from which those persons received their salaries.

3. This proviso makes it indispensable that the income of the Local Funds which incur this liability for pension should be derived from taxation like the cesses on land revenue, for education, roads, &c., or from other permanent sources, like those of the Bengal Amalgamated District Roads' Fund, and not from charitable donations, or voluntary and revocable contributions like some of the contributions for schools, which are comprehended in Local Funds under a loose acceptation of the term.

4. In the same view it is indispensable that the Local Funds should, as to the sources of their income, be under the control of Government, although Municipal Committees may, as in the interior of the Bombay Presidency, be employed to administer the funds.

5. The eligibility for pension from the source from which salary is paid of persons employed on establishments maintained from such Local Funds as fulfil these two conditions is recognized by the rulings in the accompanying memorandum, and it may be provided for in such a way as to facilitate transfers of persons from Establishments paid from Local Funds to those maintained from the general revenues, and vice versâ.

6. The Governor General in Council is accordingly pleased to rule—

I.—That persons employed in Establishments that are maintained from Local Funds which fulfil the two indispensable conditions above stated, shall be eligible to pension under the Uncovenanted Service Pension Rules, on the understanding that when the service has been rendered wholly on those Establishments, the pension shall be charged to those Funds.

II.—That where a person has served partly in the Establishments appertaining to the Local Funds above described and partly in Establishments paid from the general revenue, the pension shall be charged to the Local Fund and to the general revenue in the proportion of the total receipts of the applicant from those sources during the whole course of his service.

III.—That the pension or portion of pension which may be payable from a Local Fund under the two preceding rules shall be the first charge on the Fund, so that provision to meet it shall be reserved before other expenditure of the year is defrayed from the Fund.

IV.—That the pension, if payable partly from the general revenues, shall, during the course of the year, be disbursed wholly from those revenues, which will be recouped at the end of the year by the proper contribution from the Local Fund from the sum to be reserved for the purpose under Rule III.

V.—That where the strength and pay of an establishment are fixed with the sanction of the Government of India, pension for service on such an Establishment shall be charged to the general revenues, although a portion of the cost be defrayed by a contribution from a Local Fund, unless a debit of a part of the pension to the Local Fund be ordered in regulating the Fund's contribution.

7. The Engineer Officers employed under Municipal Committees in the interior of the Bombay Presidency may be graded with the Imperial Public Works Department, on the understanding that their pay will be disbursed wholly from Local Funds, that their pensions will be adjusted under these rules, and that the income of the Local Funds will be secured by the levy of the anna cess, for which permission to legislate has been accorded by the Secretary of State.

The Governor General in Council is pleased to rule, that any service under Local Funds, which may, under the Resolution No. 2197, dated 24th April 1868, count towards pension, may also count towards leave under the Leave Rules for Uncovenanted Servants:

2. In cases of leave granted in conformity with this Resolution, the leave allowances shall be chargeable against the Local Fund from which the service is paid.

3. In the case of leave granted to an Officer who, after serving in any Local Fund Establishment under the circumstances stated in para. 1, has been transferred to an Establishment paid from the general revenues, the leave allowances will be charged against the Local Fund and the general revenues, in the proportion of the salary disbursed from these sources respectively during the service qualifying for the leave.

SURVEY OF STEAM VESSELS.

MR. RIVERS THOMPSON moved that the Bill to increase the fees for the survey of steam vessels be passed.

The motion was agreed to.

DRAINAGE AND IRRIGATION OF DISTRICTS.

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the report of the select committee on the Bill to facilitate the drainage and irrigation of districts in Bengal, be further considered in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL said the first amendment for consideration to-day stood in his name. The definition of the term "proprietor of lands" as it stood in the Bill sent up by the committee, although a very great improvement on the definition originally contained in the Bill, was still open to this objection, that whether under the words "or in actual occupation thereof" would not be included property in possession of ryots. He would propose with a view to get rid of that possible objection and also to make the definition somewhat shorter and clearer, to substitute for the definition of "proprietor of lands" now in the Bill, the following:—

"'Proprietor of lands' shall be taken to mean a person other than an occupancy ryot having a perpetual tenure or interest in such lands entitling him to the immediate occupation thereof, or to the receipt of rent from the actual cultivators thereof, or from a tenant holding directly from him under a temporary lease."

He had retained the words "entitling him to immediate occupation," as it would extend to the case of a bheel or other lands with regard to which there were no actual cultivators, but which were in the immediate ownership of the zemindar, who would be the proprietor. Therefore, excluding occupancy ryots, "proprietor of lands" would include first the person having a perpetual tenure or interest in the land entitling him either to the immediate occupation of the land or the first receipt of rent either from the ryot or a temporary talookdar.

BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said, the Council must have observed that in signing the report of the committee on this Bill he had reserved to himself the right of urging whatever objections he might have to it before the committee of the whole Council. That he did not exercise that right when the Bill first came on for the settlement of its clauses, was simply because his objections were so many, and they touched such vital parts of the measure, that he felt somewhat diffident in urging them at that stage of it, when by so doing he feared he would only prove an obstructive without being able to carry any of his amendments. He had, however, the consolation left him that even if the Bill passed into law, it would be simply harmless, as he felt pretty sure it would never become operative.

As regards the clause under consideration, whatever other defects it may have to answer for, it was at any rate never intended that it should include within the category of proprietors, tenants with rights of occupancy only. The amendment moved by the learned and hon'ble member was therefore quite of a verbal character and did not even touch the real objections, which in his (Baboo Digumber Mitter's) opinion the clause in question was open to. The object of that interpretation clause was to define clearly the class of persons with whom Government should deal directly in the matter of the drainage operations, and to whom it should look for the repayment of the advance made for those operations. In doing this effectually, the Council must keep two things closely in view. First, not needlessly to multiply the number of such persons, as it would else complicate the work of apportionment of the sums advanced by Government as provided for in some of the subsequent sections of the Bill; secondly, not to bring within the meaning of the word "proprietor" men who had no other security to offer for the repayment of the State advance except the plot of land improved. The clause as it now stands answered to neither of these requirements, for it evidently embraced holders of small mouroosee tenures, from many of whom it would be next to impossible to recover any portion of the State advance. Besides, in treating with the holders of these small tenures, whether for purposes of ascertaining the wishes of the parties interested as to the desirability of the projected works or for apportionment of the State advance as provided for in subsequent sections, how was it to be determined, except by a regular judicial inquiry and investigation, that the tenures were really mourosee: since in the majority of cases, as the Council cannot be unaware, the mouroosee title to these tenures is claimed by length of possession on payment of rent at a uniform rate, and not on the strength of a lease in perpetuity. The amendment moved by the learned Advocate-General did not meet these difficulties.

To effect any real improvement to the clause in question, the word "proprietor," in his humble opinion, should be so defined as to mean no other than the owner or owners of an entire estate on the collector's towjee, or of some sub-division of the same, not being less than a mouzah, held in perpetuity of tenure and fixity of rent; leaving the mouroosee-holders of small plots of lands, as well as the holders of other small tenures, whether rent-paying or rent-free, to be dealt with by such proprietors according to some defined rules. Towards that end he would move that all the words after "shall" in the 15th line be omitted, and the following words substituted in lieu thereof, "be owner in perpetuity of tenure as well as of rent of not less than a mouzah of an estate entered on the register known as the general register of revenue-paying estates."

THE PRESIDENT said it would perhaps be considered rather presumptuous in him, being the youngest member of the Council, to express an opinion on the subject under discussion so early in the debate; but probably he might be allowed to explain in a few words the general opinion he had formed with regard to this Bill. It seemed to him that the Bill in many of its clauses, and more especially in the clause regarding the definition of "proprietor of lands," raised very new and very difficult questions—questions with which he was afraid we should have to deal farther before we had done with them in regard to affairs of this province, which were at present very pressing.

The view, then, which he on his part took of the Bill before the Council was that we ought not to defer small Bills of this kind till we had settled absolutely and for ever the great questions which we would have to settle sooner or later, such as with regard to the definition of "proprietor," and those arising in other portions of this small Bill, which Bill we would in that view of the case have to defer for a very long time indeed. Therefore, in consonance with the view taken by the hon'ble mover of the Bill, he would regard this Bill as an experimental Bill—a Bill which on the whole we could not hope at once to put into a shape that would certainly hold water for all time, but as a step towards the solution of the question. He called this Bill a small Bill, not because it was small in importance.—God only knew whether it would meet the object in view, which was one of enormous importance, namely, to check the spread of sickness in the districts to which the Bill applied; this Bill was intended as a step towards remedying that. In that respect it was not at all a small Bill; but compared to other more general measures it was in some sense small; for firstly, it was a local Bill; and secondly, it was a permissive Bill. It was not proposed that the measure should be imposed by authority of law on the proprietors of the estates that would be affected by it; but it was only to be imposed if a majority of the proprietors accepted it.

But taking that view, we come to the question of making the best definition we can of the term "proprietor of lands" for the purposes of this Bill. It seemed to him that all parties were agreed in respect to this Bill and also in respect to the greater measures that were to follow, that it was necessary that we should see first whether we were about to depart from the old accepted use of the term "proprietor" as it had hitherto been used in the Bengal Regulations, that is to say, men paying revenue directly to Government. We know that we had in this country a state of things with which in England we were not very familiar, but with which he was familiar as existing in Scotland, where there was one chief proprietor and several gradations of under-proprietors, and which had been carried in this country to that extent that the man at the top who stood as proprietor in the books of the Government, who holds the land as nominal proprietor, is in many cases a man who in reality did not exercise the rights of a proprietor at all, but who had become a mere rent-charger in regard to that land, and was in reality a very insignificant individual. When we enter into such questions as that raised by this Bill, and into questions of local taxation and other important questions, it is necessary that we should approach the question who is to be considered the real proprietor of that land, for it stands to reason that the Government zemindar who has come to be in the position of a mere rent-charger cannot be called the real proprietor. Looking at this Bill in a somewhat hasty way he had also been struck with the same difficulty which the hon'ble member who spoke last had referred to, namely, that if instead of taking as proprietor the party to whom the original grant had been made, the sudder malgoozar, we go down to the lowest person having a permanent interest in the soil and ryots having the right of occupancy, and treat them all as proprietors, we should be throwing on the commissioners, who were named in this Bill, a burden heavier than they would be able to bear—we should throw upon them the burden of distributing the expenses of this great work amongst a vast multitude of petty holders of limited interest. He was also struck with the difficulty of defining who these holders were. The commissioners must institute enquiries in order to ascertain what tenants have a right of occupancy or a right to something more than a right of occupancy. Supposing you except tenants having rights of occupancy, you still have to enquire what ryots have rights greater than rights of occupancy, rights of holding at fixed rates of rent. Unfortunately we have not yet made an approximation to ascertain who these ryots are; and if the operation of this Bill is to be hung up for years to come until you find out who have such rights, there is no saying when it will come into operation. He might say that he agreed very much with the remarks of the hon'ble member in thinking that it would perhaps be necessary to make the definition of the term "proprietor" somewhat narrower.

Who then were to be treated as proprietors for the purposes of this Bill? He inclined to think we must stop a little higher than ryots. He suggested that we might stop at the lowest under-holder holding a permanent and fixed interest, that is to say, whose rent was fixed and who collected rents from ryots holding under him. He should like, he thought, to exclude mere ryots holding at fixed rents, leaving the zemindar to collect under section 32 of the Bill from all classes of ryots who might be made liable under the Bill. Whether we should accept the arrangement which the hon'ble member had suggested, namely, that we should not go below the holders of an entire mouzah, from his very imperfect knowledge of holdings in Bengal, he (the President) thought there would be considerable difficulty, because he understood that in Bengal a mouzah was not, as in some other parts of India, a very well defined tract of land forming a revenue and agrarian unit, but that mouzahs were often very much scattered and perhaps even arbitrarily created by the survey, and that you will find putnees and durputnees and other tenures holding shares in several mouzahs and many interests much intermixed in them. He would therefore merely submit for the consideration of the Council whether there were not practical difficulties of this nature in regard to the proposal of the hon'ble member which, as he understood it, did not take the form of a distinct amendment. The suggestion then which he (the President) threw out for the consideration of the Council was that which he had already mentioned, namely, that you should exclude all ryots, and include under the term "proprietor" all under-holders at fixed rents above the condition of a ryot. He believed that the term "ryot" as coming under Act X. of 1859 had a distinct meaning, which excluded putnees and such larger tenures, and at the same time also excluded some subordinate holders who were below the condition of ryots. He put his suggestion in this form, namely, that possibly we might get over the difficulty in this way by substituting in the amendment of the hon'ble the Advocate-General for the term "occupancy ryot" the simple term "ryot;" and secondly, substituting "ryot" for the term "actual cultivator" in the latter part of the amendment. In that case it would be left to the commissioners to determine who were "proprietors" under the act of a degree superior to ryots, and they would then assess those whom they held to be proprietors.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL said, having regard to the probable working of the Act and to the consideration that in any definition of "proprietor" it must be left to a certain extent to the commissioners to decide whom they would recognize as proprietors (the persons whom in the first instance they were to assess with the re-payment of the advance), he thought it would meet the suggestion made by His Honor the President if the definition of the term "proprietor" stood in this way :—

"'Proprietor of lands' shall be taken to mean a person having a perpetual tenure or interest, at a fixed rate of rent, in such lands entitling him to the immediate occupation thereof, or to the receipt of rent from the ryots thereof, or from a tenant holding directly from him under a temporary lease."

The PRESIDENT said that he thought the effect of the clause would be to exclude granteedars and other tenants of that kind: they were proprietors; but the only question was the means of assessing the proportion of payment and collecting the money. But he understood that the opinion of the Council was very much in favor of excluding such men, and although hon'ble members might not wholly approve of the definition, he hoped they would be induced to agree, on the understanding that a clause would be inserted enabling the commissioners to decide the question summarily as to who were and who were not included in the term "proprietor," without prejudice to the rights of the parties.

The substituted motion was then agreed to, and the section, as amended, was passed.

To the postponed section 4, the following proviso was added on the motion of MR. SCHALCH :—

"Provided that the majority in number of the commissioners shall always be persons qualified as aforesaid."

BABOO JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE said, that although no notice of amendment stood in his name, he would take the liberty of drawing the attention of the Council to section 11 of the Bill. He did not know that he was in order in doing so, for the section was one of those that had been already agreed to by the Council. [THE PRESIDENT thought the hon'ble member was at liberty to proceed with his remarks]. It was the generally accepted rule that when a multiplicity of interests was concerned, the views of the majority should prevail; and he did not see why in this instance that rule should be departed from, and the views of only one-half of the persons interested should be considered binding on the other half of such persons. The section to which he had alluded enacted that in case the proprietors of not less than one moiety of the bheels to be drained should assent to the adoption of the scheme, the commissioners should proceed to consider it, &c. With the leave of the President he would move that "two-thirds" should be substituted for "one moiety."

The PRESIDENT said the question raised by the hon'ble member was one of great importance, namely, whether the whole or only a portion of the persons interested should be consulted in the matter. Perhaps he might strain a point in his own favor in order to go a little beyond the meaning of the hon'ble member's motion. The word "proprietor" was defined in a very large sense, as including a large proportion of persons having a permanent interest in the land; but as in clause 11 the right to vote is limited to the proprietors of the bheels and swamps to be drained, the proprietors of the lands to be affected other than bheels and swamps will have no voice in the matter. Perhaps it was not fair at this stage of the Bill that the matter should be explained for his satisfaction; but probably the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill or any other hon'ble member would enlighten him so far as to explain exactly the views which the committee entertained in limiting the section to what he might presume to be a minority of the persons who were interested in the matter. He himself felt that in a matter of this kind, if all the proprietors of the lands to be affected were consulted, a majority of votes would suffice. But he confessed that he had some doubt whether, if only the proprietors of the bheels and swamps to be drained were consulted, a majority of that minority of proprietors would suffice for the decision of a very important matter which would impose a heavy liability upon a large class of persons beyond those who were to be consulted under this section.

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said that this provision, under which the assent was limited to one moiety of the proprietors of the bheels and swamps to be drained, was unanimously introduced by the select committee in substitution of the provision of the Bill as originally drawn, which provided that one-half of the proprietors of lands in any way affected by the drainage scheme should be required to give their assent. These swampy lands were peculiarly situated: they were enormous unreclaimed pieces of water; and of course the persons who were really interested in their drainage, and who would have mainly to pay for the improvement, were the owners of these large swamps. They were the people whose voice should be heard in the matter, as nearly the whole expense of the improvement would fall on them. At the same time there were round about the swamps a certain number of proprietors who would be more or less affected by the reclaiming of these bheels. Their lands would be improved and they would benefit, but not to such an extent that the drainage works would ever have been undertaken for them or by them had the swamps been out of consideration. Their benefit was in fact accidental, and arose from their happening to be in the vicinity of the lands which were to be reclaimed. The work was not so important to these holders of adjacent lands as to the proprietors of the bheels; and it seemed very hard that a few litigious persons amongst the petty holders whose lands might be affected, should have the power to obstruct the operation of this Bill and prevent the reclamation of the swamps. After great consideration the committee thought it would be best to throw the onus of adopting or rejecting the work upon the proprietors of the swamps themselves. It would be very hard if one-half of these large proprietors were willing to have the work carried out, that a few petty proprietors, whose whole interest in the measure amounted to a few rupees, should have it in their power to put a stop to these works being carried out. It might be said that if their interest was so small why make them pay at all; but as they unquestionably would benefit by the works which had to be carried out for the reclamation of the bheels, it was only fair and just that they should contribute towards the expense to the extent of their benefit. That was the principle on which the select committee had framed the section. There seemed to be a further misapprehension of the intention of the section. The assent of the proprietors of not less than one-half of the bheels was required, and not the assent of one-half of the number of proprietors concerned: that would secure the assent of the owners of one-half of the property to be touched.

The PRESIDENT said he thought a good deal of the objection that he had raised would be met by the provision in a subsequent clause that in case of failure to realize the whole amount expended, the balance was to be realized from those only whose lands were wholly unfit for cultivation and had been rendered fit for cultivation, that was to say from the proprietors of the bheels and swamps that had been reclaimed, so that the weight of the liability fell on this latter class. Therefore he was inclined to accede to the argument of the hon'ble mover of the Bill, and he would say that he thought it desirable that at a subsequent stage of the Bill it should be provided that a proprietor who had no voice in the question should only be called upon to pay to the extent of the benefit he actually received: in that case no substantial injustice could be done them.

BABOO JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE'S motion was then by leave withdrawn.

The postponed section 27 was agreed to.

On the motion of MR. EDEN a verbal amendment was made in section 28.

Section 32 stood as follows:—

"Every proprietor of lands charged with any sum under the provisions aforesaid, may, after he shall have paid or entered into an engagement for the same, recover from the owner of any temporary lease or other subordinate tenure benefited by the works in respect of which such payment may be secured or made, an annual sum calculated at the rate of ten per cent. per annum upon such portion of such payment as shall bear to the entire payment the same proportion as the area of the lands of such owner benefited by such works bears to the area of the entire lands of such proprietor benefited by such works. Such sum to be payable by equal instalments upon the days appointed for the payment of the rent of such tenure, and to be recoverable as if the same were an arrear of rent."

After a verbal amendment made on the motion of the Advocate-General—

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL moved that the following proviso be added to the section:—

"Provided that such proprietor shall not be entitled to recover under this section from any such person as aforesaid more than the entire amount of the payment which such proprietor has made or engaged to make, and that the sum annually recoverable in any case shall not exceed the increase in the annual value of the particular lands benefited."

He said that otherwise, in the case of a lease of more than ten years, the proprietor might recoup himself a great deal more than he was entitled to do.

The motion was agreed to, and the section as amended was passed.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL then moved that the following section be introduced after section 32:—

"XXXIIA. Any person who shall have made any payment under the provisions of section 32 or of this section may recover from any person from time to time holding immediately from him a temporary lease of any portion of the lands benefited by the works in respect of which such payment shall have been made such sum as shall bear to the entire payment so made the same proportion as the area of the entire lands in respect of which such payment shall have been calculated may bear to the area of the entire lands of such subordinate holder which shall have been benefited by such works."

The PRESIDENT said, he thought the questions raised in this section would affect very materially not only the class of persons directly benefited under the provisions of this provision, but also the whole of the persons coming under section 32. Looking back to section 21 he there found that when the commissioners came to distribute the burden amongst the various persons interested, it was apportioned not only with reference to the quantity of the land in the possession of the person who would be benefited by the improvement, but also in proportion to the benefit derived by the lands. It was not simply that the man who has five hundred acres should pay five times as much as the man who has one hundred acres; but if the owner of the one hundred acres had been very much more benefited by the improvement, he was to pay not only in proportion to the quantity of the land, but to the real profit derived. In section 32 reference to the benefit derived had been altogether omitted, the assessment being made on the acreage only. He would therefore suggest that it would be just and not inconvenient to add in this section some such word as were contained in section 21.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that he had no objection to adopt the suggestion that had been made, and he would therefore propose to add to the section under consideration a proviso similar to that adopted in section 32. The whole section would then run thus:—

"XXXIIA. Any person who shall have made any payment under the provisions of section 32 or of this section may recover, from any person from time to time holding immediately from him a temporary lease of any portion of the lands benefited by the works in respect of which such payment shall have been made, such sum as shall bear to the entire payment so made the same proportion as the area of the entire lands in respect of which such payment shall have been calculated may bear to the area of the entire lands of such subordinate holder which shall have been benefited by such works. Provided that the sum annually recoverable in any case under this section shall not exceed the increase in the annual value of the particular lands benefited."

The section, as amended, was then agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. Eden section 33 was amended so as to stand thus:—

"All outlets and water channels, natural or artificial, which shall be altered, enlarged, excavated, or cut under the provisions of this Act, and the construction and maintenance of embankments and of dams and works in the same, shall, save as hereinafter provided, be subject to the law for the time being in force regulating the construction and maintenance of public embankments and public rivers, channels, and outlets."

The PRESIDENT said he now proposed to defer the further consideration of the Bill to the next meeting of the Council, and to have the Bill re-printed in the meantime. He would at the same time remark that there seemed to remain two questions for the consideration of hon'ble members. The first question was that the proprietors not consulted as to the adoption of a scheme should not be assessed to a greater degree than the increase in the value of their holdings; and the second question was, how it was to be decided who was a "proprietor," and therefore be liable to be assessed for contribution, and who was not a "proprietor." If the commissioners found themselves unable summarily to settle that question, it occurred to him that the superior holder might be allowed to pay at his option, and to take the chance of recovering from those who may be sub-proprietors under him. Suppose there was a superior holder who denied the rights claimed by under-holders and was willing to pay, and there was reasonable doubt who the under-proprietors were, such a plan set aside much difficulty. It might be just as convenient to let the superior holder pay, and leave him to recover from his subordinate holder under the provisions of the Bill.

The further consideration of the Bill was then postponed.

REGULATION OF LODGING-HOUSES AT POOREE.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the report of the select committee on the Bill for the better regulation of "lodging-houses at Pooree" be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill, and that the clauses be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the select committee.

The motion was agreed to.

In section 1, the interpretation section, the word "Inmate" was thus defined:

"The word 'Inmate' shall mean a person passing the night in any house."

THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL moved the omission of the clause interpreting the word "Inmate." He said he did not think this interpretation at all necessary, and it appeared inconsistent with the mode in which the term was used in sections 6 and 7. Under section 6 the health officer was required to certify the largest number "of lodgers which the house could accommodate, having regard to the number of inmates residing therein." There the term was used with regard to the residence of a person other than a lodger; and again in section 7 the following words were found: "shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two Rupees for every lodger for each night during any part of which such lodger shall be an "inmate" of such house."

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN suggested that it would be better to leave the consideration of the interpretation section until the Council had settled the other clauses of the Bill.

The consideration of the section was then postponed.

Sections 2 to 5 were agreed to.

In section 6, on the motion of MR. EDEN, the words "persons permanently residing" were substituted for the words "inmates residing."

Section 7 having been read—

BABOO JOTKENDRO MOHUN TAGORE said that it might so happen that some relatives of the lodging-house-keeper might come in during the festival from a distance: such persons, he thought, should not be considered "lodgers"; it would be very hard that a person might not receive his own relatives into his house without becoming subject to the provisions of this Bill.

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said that if the relatives paid hire for the accommodation they would be "lodgers;" otherwise they would not.

The section was then agreed to.

Section 8 was agreed to after a verbal amendment.

Section 9 was agreed to.

Section 10 was agreed to after a verbal amendment.

Sections 11 and 12 were agreed to.

By section 13 the lodging-house-keeper was required to report, amongst other things, cases of "dangerous" sickness.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL thought it should not be left to the lodging-house-keeper to make a report of sickness only when he thought it "dangerous," because it would leave him to determine a very serious question as to the danger or otherwise of the illness. The sickness might be the beginning of a choleraic epidemic, and might result in very serious consequences. He thought therefore that a report should be required of all sickness.

On the motion of MR. EDEN the word "serious" was substituted for "dangerous," and the section, as amended, was agreed to.

Sections 14 to 38 were agreed to.

Section 39 provided for the extension of the Act to Bhobanessur and Jajipore.

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN drew attention to section 22 in connection with this section. Section 22 provided that fees and penalties imposed under the Act should be employed in the sanitation of the town of Pooree. The section under consideration empowered the extension of the provisions of the Act to the other places mentioned, and he was not quite sure whether a special provision was not required to provide that the fees and penalties levied in those places should be expended in their improvement and not in the sanitation of Pooree.

The consideration of the section was then postponed.

Section 40 and schedules A and B were agreed to.

The further consideration of the Bill was postponed.

RECOVERY OF FINES.

MOULVY ABDOOL LUTEEF moved that the time prescribed for the submission of the report of the select committee on the Bill to make better provision for the recovery of certain fines imposed in Bengal be extended for three weeks.

The motion was agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 11th instant.

NOTE.

Barometric Pressure.—The pressures in column 2 of the above table for all stations below 500 feet are reduced from those given in column 3 of the table on the previous page by adding the weight of a column of air of the corresponding temperatures given in column 17. For stations of above 500 feet elevation, the reduction is made by Dippe's tables as given in Guyot's "Meteorological and Physical Tables."

Temperature.—The mean temperatures in column 3 are reduced from those in column 17, on the preceding page, by adding 1° Fahr. for every 350 feet.

Wind Direction.—The mean wind direction and its comparative prevalence are calculated from the whole number of wind observations recorded during the half-month. The latter is given as a percentage of the whole number of observations. The mean direction is calculated in the usual way by Lambert's formula.

The above being all comparable, afford the data for constructing a meteorological chart for the half-month which shall shew the isobaric and isothermal lines, and the resultant wind directions, which last may be represented by arrows of varying length proportioned to the prevalence of the wind. To these may be added the rainfall from the previous tables.

For this purpose they have named as their Plenipotentiaries:—

Form of Verification.

I, A. B., the petitioner named in the above petition, do declare that what is stated therein is true to the best of my information and belief.

(Signed) A. B.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The present Income Tax Act (XVI of 1870) imposes a duty of $3\frac{1}{8}$ per cent. on all incomes of rupees 500 and upwards. The present Bill is intended to impose a duty of only $1_{\frac{1}{16}}$ per cent. (or two pies in the rupee) and to affect no income less than rupees 750.

Besides these two important changes, the Bill introduces several minor modifications of the existing law.

In section 6, the word 'plying' has been substituted for 'trading,' so as to preclude a question which has been raised under the present law.

The Collector is empowered (section 13), in proper cases, to require officers of companies to attend and produce accounts.

The duty on interest on Government Securities will be deducted at the place where the interest is paid (sections 15, 16).

Owners of lands and houses occupying them are expressly made chargeable (section 22) in respect of their annual rackrent value, and a definition of 'rackrent' is inserted.

The Collector will be bound to serve the notice requiring returns only where the income is rupees 4,000 or upwards (section 23).

Every person served with such notices will be required to return his income during the three years ending 31st December next before the date of the notice, and to state the period during which such income actually accrued.

The assessments will be made (section 27) on an average of the income for such three years, and the average will be computed upon the period during which the income actually accrued.

Legal practitioners will be excluded (section 36) from appearing on any petition or appeal under the Act. A similar provision was contained in Act No. XXXII of 1860.

Payment may be made henceforward (section 37) in two, instead of four, instalments.

All sums due under the Act will be recoverable as if they were arrears of land-revenue (section 39).

Power is given (section 40) to amend the assessment when the person assessed shows that his income has diminished, or gives up business, or dies, or becomes insolvent.

Lastly, orders made under the Act will be final, and the proceedings of the Collectors and Commissioners will not be removeable into any Court or be subject to revision.

An Act to increase the fees for the survey of steam vessels.

Preamble. Whenever two surveyors shall be employed in making a survey under the provisions of Act V of 1862 or Act I. of 1868 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, the owner or master of the steam vessel surveyed shall pay to each of the surveyors making the same a fee calculated on the tonnage of the vessel according to the rates in Schedule B to the said Act V of 1862 annexed, and such further fee as is provided in Section V of Act I of 1868 passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.

LEAVE AND ALLOWANCES.

Fort William, the 15th March 1871.

No. 1496.—The following Financial Despatch from the Secretary of State to the Government of India is published for general information:—

The words "with retrospective effect from the 7th August 1869" should be added at the end of the Note under the proviso to Section VII. of the Covenanted Civil Service Leave Code.

FINANCIAL. INDIA OFFICE;
No. 41. London, the 31st January 1871.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD,—I have considered in Council your Financial letter dated 30th November 1870, No. 256, relative to the minimum rate of furlough allowance under the new rules.

2. You are of opinion that "the reduced minimum bears very hardly upon those members of the service who are affected by it," namely, those who are compelled by ill health to take furlough on medical certificate before having served eight years, and you, therefore, request sanction for the restoration of the old minimum rate of furlough pay, viz., 500*l.* per annum.

3. I conclude that you do not intend to lay down in the terms of the 3rd paragraph of Rule VII. of the Furlough Rules of 1868, that "no Officer on furlough shall draw" less than 500*l.* per annum, but that this minimum rate of furlough pay should be subject to the same proviso as was the minimum rate of absentee allowance during leave on medical certificate under the Rules of 1864, viz., that "in cases in which the salary shall be less than 500*l.* per annum, the full salary shall be allowed."

4. On this understanding, I sanction the restoration of the minimum rate of furlough pay under the old rules, with retrospective effect as proposed by you.

I have, &c.,

Subsidiary leave ceases the day before embarkation, and commences the day after debarkation. It cannot be extended on the ground that the vessel in which an Officer leaves India or returns to it, touches at some other port in India after the first embarkation, or before the final debarkation.

This rule applies generally.

No. 1507.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to prescribe the following Rule, which will be added, as Rule 3A, to the Constructions and Subsidiary Rules under Section VII. of the Covenanted Civil Service Leave Code:—

3A. A period during which an Officer has been out of employ in India otherwise than as a penalty for misconduct, shall also be omitted from the three years.

" 19. Power of Attorney for the performance of a single act when the value of the matter to be dealt with exceeds Rs. 500.
" 32. Power of Attorney not otherwise provided for by this Schedule.

When the Power of Attorney has been executed out of British India, or when it is written on a printed form such as those kept by Banks and Commercial Houses for the transaction of the business of their constituents.

No. 14. Affidavit not made for the immediate purpose of being produced in any Court.
„ 21. Instrument evidencing an agreement to secure the repayment, on or before the expiration of three months from the date of such instrument, of a loan made upon the deposit of title-deeds or other valuable security.

3. Officers empowered to "denote" may at their discretion "denote" the stamp on any instrument which is drawn up by Solicitors or in the English form, and in regard to which the use of the impressed Bi-color Stamp would obviously be inconvenient.

4. The method of "denoting" shall be as follows :—

Special adhesive stamps of different colors and patterns for each value are to be applied by the denoting officer to documents brought to be stamped by the public, and the stamps, after being applied, are to be defaced by a stamping machine before documents are returned. As a further precaution against fraud, the denoting officer should, in all cases in which the value of the stamp is Rs. 20 and upwards, append his usual full signature on the document, immediately under the stamp.

5. Officers empowered to denote stamps are reminded that it is no part of their duty, in exercising that power, to determine, for the parties bringing instruments to be stamped, the amount of stamp-duty properly chargeable on such instruments. For such determination a regular application under Section 39 of the Act should be made to a competent officer.

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Governments and Administrations noted in the margin, who are requested to communicate with this Government in case they, for particular reasons, desire that the power to denote should be conferred upon any officers other than those mentioned in Rule 1.

Governments of Bombay, Madras, Bengal, North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab, and Chief Commissioners of Oudh and Central Provinces.

Ordered also, that a copy of the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

2.—In Sir Charles Wood's Military Despatch of the 30th of June 1865, No. 215, sanction was given to the acceptance of municipal employment by Officers while on authorized leave, provided that the time passed therein did not reckon as service for pension.

* * * * *

4.—You * * solicit authority to place at the disposal of Municipal and similar Departments the services of Officers of the Staff Corps or local service, provided they are not required for Civil or Military employment under the Government, with the understanding that, if any Officer so employed desire to count the time thus passed as service for pension he may do so, on the condition that he or his employers must transfer to the Government of India six per cent. of the pay he draws, a proportion which is estimated fully to cover the liability accepted by the Government.

5.—I am willing to give my sanction to the proposition of your Government, provided that in no case does the employment of an Officer in this manner render necessary, either directly or indirectly, the admission of another Officer to the Staff Corps.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPALITY.

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the Bill to amend Act VI. of 1863, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, be read in Council. He said he had explained at the last meeting the circumstances under which this Bill was framed, and he need not again go into the question. The Bill was a very short one, and had been circulated to hon'ble members. There was one point, however, to which he would draw attention, namely, that there was an omission in the first section. The section, as drawn, provided that "all Justices of the Peace for the town of Calcutta, and such other Justices of the Peace for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may from time to time, by order published in the Calcutta Gazette, nominate on that behalf, shall * * * be a body corporate," &c. It was intended to confine the selection of the Justices for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa to those who were resident in Calcutta; it was necessary therefore that the words "resident in Calcutta" should be inserted after "Justices of the Peace for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa."

The motion was agreed to.

DRAINAGE OF DISTRICTS.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the Bill to facilitate drainage in certain districts of Bengal be further considered in order to the settlement of its clauses.

The motion was agreed to.

After a verbal amendment in the definition of "proprietor of lands"—

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said that the next motion that he had to make was with reference to one of the two points deferred at the last meeting at the suggestion of the President. The amendment that he would now move was intended to limit the proportion to be charged against each proprietor to an amount below that to which the value of the land might be increased:—

"XXI*a*.—The amount to be apportioned by the Commissioners against the proprietor of any lands which before the commencement of the works were to some extent fit for cultivation, but were improved by the said works, shall not, in respect of such lands, exceed the amount of the increased value, which, in the opinion of the Commissioners, shall have been conferred on such lands by such works."

It was obviously just that some such provision should be made as the works would be undertaken at the instance of the proprietors of the bheel lands, the owners of the surrounding lands having no voice in the matter. Therefore, as the work might be undertaken in opposition to the views of the surrounding land-owners, it was fair that the amount they should be called upon to pay should not exceed the increased value of their lands.

BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said that the effect of this section would be to throw almost the whole burden of the cost of the drainage works on the owners of the bheel lands, and at the same time relieve the owners of the land improved, that is the surrounding lands, from all uncertainty as to their share of contribution towards those works—since the proposed section limits such contribution to the increased value conferred on those lands by the drainage works. Whereas, in the case of the proprietors of bheels, even if the actual cost of the work exceeded the estimate by a hundred per cent., they would have to make good every pice of it. No doubt such a result would not be very encouraging to the holders of the bheels to come forward and ask for improvements of this kind. At the same time it was but fair and proper that there should be a reasonable limit to the State demand in respect of lands, the benefits conferred upon which by the proposed works could not by any possibility be fairly ascertained, and which on that account he had always contended should be altogether exempted from all liability to meet the cost of the drainage works.

The HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said the object of the proposed section was to throw the burden as much as possible on those for whose benefit the work was undertaken, and on whose motion the expense was incurred; at the same time he thought the owners of the surrounding lands, who derived a contingent advantage, should contribute to the extent of the benefit derived by them.

The PRESIDENT said that there seemed to him to be only two alternative courses, either to give votes to all interested, or to protect those who did not vote in the manner proposed by this clause. At the last meeting it was clearly shown that it would be very difficult to ascertain who the proprietors were, especially when the definition of "proprietor" was so large; and on the whole it was considered that the main burden of the work should be undertaken by the proprietors of the bheels, who would chiefly benefit by the improvement, and who alone were empowered to decide whether the work should be carried out or not. Therefore he thought that of these two courses the Council would do wisely to accept the alternative provided for by this clause. He thought this course was less open to objection than the other.

BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said that if he was not out of order, he would state that he thought there would be some difficulty in giving effect to this and the preceding section. Both these sections made it imperative on the commissioners, whilst making the apportionment, to keep closely in view the relative benefits conferred on the land. Now, admitting for the sake of argument that an extensive basin covering an area of twenty-four thousand beegahs could, in spite of the monsoon rains, and the spill waters from the adjacent lands finding their way into the plain, be kept sufficiently dry to admit of its being immediately brought under cultivation, without allowing the bheel gradually, or at all events partially, to silt up, how, he asked, could the relative benefits conferred on the lands by the drainage works be ascertained, except by an actual survey of the crop on the land. In the case of inproved land, it was the increased profit that was to be the measure of apportionment, which meant that the yield of the land after the drainage works had come into operation was to be compared with the yield of the same land before the drainage work was executed. If such land yielded one rupee and eight annas per beegah before, and two rupees after the improvement was effected, the amount apportioned against the land would be the amount of the increase, or eight annas. In regard to the bheel lands the apportionment was to be according to the benefits which they had respectively derived. Now, by section 23 of this Bill, it was provided that the apportionment must be made within six months after the completion of the works was certified to the commissioners. It might so happen that the drainage work might be completed in November or December, and in that case there would be no crop before another thirteen months. Moreover, he thought that one season's crop was not a sufficient test to determine the relative benefit conferred on uncultivated land, or the improvements effected on land previously under cultivation.

The PRESIDENT said it seemed to him that the hon'ble member was going beyond the limits of the motion before the Council; his remarks rather related to section 23, and he would be at liberty to propose an amendment on that section when the present motion was disposed of.

The proposed section XXI*a* was then agreed to.

BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said—for the reasons he had already given, he would now move the substitution of "eighteen months" for "six months" in the second line of section 23.

THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said, he thought that this section, in its practical working, would quite meet the objection of the hon'ble member. The difficulty which he suggested seemed to be simply this, that the period of six months might not be sufficient to enable the commissioners to determine, from the materials before them, whether and to what extent the lands affected by the works had been improved. If the commissioners found themselves in that position, he (the Advocate-General) apprehended that under the section as it stood it would be perfectly competent and right for them under such circumstances not to make such apportionment. In that case it would be competent for the Lieutenant-Governor, who was not limited to any time, to appoint an officer to make the apportionment. The officer appointed by the Government would not be limited by the period of six months or by any other period; and if he agreed with the commissioners in determining that there were not sufficient materials before them, he would defer the revision and apportionment until he was in a position to do so.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said, the real object of the provision was merely to prevent needless delays. It was intended to meet the case of the commissioners "neglecting or refusing" to make the apportionment. It in no way bound the commissioners to report within any particular time,—if they could not report within six months they had only to say so, and the time would be extended without limit simply by the omission of the Lieutenant-Governor to appoint any officer to supersede them. There was nothing to make it compulsory on the Lieutenant-Governor to take action on the expiry of the first six months, and it was never contemplated that he should do so.

BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said, he understood that the provision was intended simply to guard against the commissioners, who were to be the owners of the land interested, neglecting to make an enquiry and report; and that in such a case the Lieutenant-Governor might take the matter into his own hands. Now he (Baboo Digumber Mitter) thought, the only way to effect the object in view was to extend the period within which the commissioners were to make the apportionment to eighteen months; for it so happened that if the works were completed in November or December, it would be fully twelve months before there would be a crop on the land, and it would take some time to make enquiries; so that eighteen months was the shortest period within which the apportionment could be made.

THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL observed that the hon'ble member seemed to forget that, under the section as it stood, the commissioners were not bound to make their apportionment within six months. The section merely provided that if the commissioners did not make the apportionment within six months, the Lieutenant-Governor might appoint an officer to do so. But there was nothing to prevent the Lieutenant-Governor from allowing the commissioners further time, if it appeared that the apportionment could not be made within six months. The object of the section was merely to provide against neglect in making the apportionment where the proper materials were before the commissioners: it did not bind them to make the apportionment within that time when they had not the means of doing so.

MR. ROBINSON said, he would point out, in support of the hon'ble member's amendment proposing to extend the time to eighteen months, that it seemed to him that it would be a great mistake for the Council to provide that the commissioners should make their apportionment within a certain time, when it was not possible that they could do so within that time. In the case of a bheel it was perfectly impossible for any one to say, within six months of the completion of the drainage works, to what extent the land had become culturable or had increased in value. And although this was only a permissive Bill, yet he thought the Bill should not limit the time for making an apportionment to a period within which it was truly impossible to come to any conclusion.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN observed that, in reality, there was no limit of time within which the apportionment must be made: the enquiry might go on for six years, if the Lieutenant-Governor did not exercise his power of interference under the section.

THE PRESIDENT said, he thought there was a very great deal of reason in what had fallen from the hon'ble member on his right (Mr. Robinson). At the same time, he also took the view of the learned Advocate-General that the power was merely permissive in the hands of the Lieutenant-Governor. It might be that, within six months, the Lieutenant-Governor might be satisfied that the commissioners were so much disagreed amongst themselves, that it was advisable to take the matter out of their hands and put it in the hands of some one else. He fully admitted that that course should not be taken lightly, and the section could only be passed on the supposition that the Lieutenant-Governor would exercise a reasonable discretion in the matter. Whether it would be desirable to extend the time, subject to the risk of its being wasted, as in the case of the commissioners disagreeing amongst themselves—whether it would be desirable to run the risk of that evil, or the risk of an abuse of power by the Lieutenant-Governor—he would leave in the hands of the Council.

MR. WYMAN said, it seemed to him that, if the section was passed as it stood, the commissioners might feel themselves bound to come to a decision, before they had the proper materials to do so. If it was intended to give a discretionary limit of time, he thought it would be better to fix the extreme limit. The commissioners might come to a decision within three months. It did not follow that they would defer their decision to the full time, if they had sufficient materials to enable them to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion. Therefore, on all grounds, he thought the time should be extended to eighteen months.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said, he most strongly objected to any such alteration of the section as was contemplated by the amendment before the Council. If the time for the making of the apportionment were extended to eighteen months, he thought the work would be allowed to crawl on till the full time had expired: it would merely be an inducement to postpone the determination of the enquiry indefinitely. So long as the period of six months was maintained in the Bill, it would induce the commissioners to attend to the work of apportionment. He could not see that there was any difficulty at all as the section now stood. As had been already pointed out, there was really no limit as to the time in which the commissioners were to complete their work, though the section did provide that, in the case of recusant zemindars neglecting or refusing to make the apportionment, the Lieutenant-Governor would have the power to step in and appoint an officer to settle the matter.

THE PRESIDENT said that, on the whole, he was inclined to submit a compromise, and propose that a period of twelve months should be fixed instead of six.

MR. RIVERS THOMPSON said, he thought that the ground on which the hon'ble member, who was in favor of an extension of the period within which the commissioners should be required to make an apportionment of the cost of the drainage works, had based his argument, was founded on a false premise. He said that the crop must be inspected to enable the commissioners to arrive at a proper decision of the benefits derived by the improvement. If that was the ground on which the argument was based, he (Mr. Thompson) thought that even a delay of eighteen months might give a false impression, if they made the crop the measure of the amount to be levied. One year might prove a very bad season, and it would be unfair to base on that ground the award to be given. The 21st section of the Bill said that the award of the commissioners should be determined with reference to the quantity of the land which would be benefited by the improvement, and the benefit derived by the land. If the land benefited had been entirely bheel land, and had been brought into a culturable condition, the commissioners would be able to decide, with reference to the quality of the land and the rent at which it was likely to be let as compared with land in adjacent places, the charges to which the proprietors would be liable. An inspection of the crop, it seemed to him, would be altogether unnecessary.

The Council then divided on BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER'S motion to substitute eighteen months for six months, in line 2 of section 23:—

AYES—5.	NOES—6.
Baboo Digumber Mitter.	Moulvy Abdool Luteef.
Mr. Wordie.	Mr. Schalch.
Baboo Joteendro Mohun Tagore.	„ Rivers Thompson.
Mr. Wyman.	The Hon'ble Ashley Eden.
„ Robinson.	The Advocate-General.
	The President.

The motion was therefore negatived.

THE PRESIDENT then moved the substitution of "twelve months" for "six months."

The Council divided:—

AYES—7.	NOES—4.
Baboo Digumber Mitter.	Moulvy Abdool Luteef.
Mr. Wordie.	Mr. Rivers Thompson.
Baboo Joteendro Mohun Tagore.	The Hon'ble Ashley Eden.
Mr. Wyman.	The Advocate-General.
„ Robinson.
„ Schalch.
The President.

The motion was therefore carried.

On the motion of the President, the words "within six months" were inserted after the word "or," in the 6th line of the same section.

On the motion of the Hon'ble Mr. Eden, two verbal amendments were made in section XXXII*a*.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved the introduction of the following section after section 40, with the object of giving effect to the views expressed by the President at the last meeting of the Council:—

"XL*a*. Whenever more persons than one may claim or be alleged to be proprietors of any lands within the meaning of this Act, the commissioners may, in a summary way, determine which of such persons is for the purposes of this Act to be deemed to be the proprietor of such lands, and shall determine to be proprietor of such lands any person who, being the owner of a superior tenure or interest in such lands, shall dispute the perpetual nature or the fixity of rent of any subordinate tenure therein held immediately from him, and shall pay the proportion of advances chargeable against such lands."

MR. SCHALCH said, it seemed to him that the object of this section was really to enable the commissioners, in case of dispute as to who were proprietors of the land improved, to decide the question summarily, until it was decided by a more competent tribunal: if that was the effect of the proposed section, he would have no objection to offer to it. But he thought that the section might be made more clear by declaring, by a proviso, that the determination of the commissioners under this section would only hold good so long as the question of proprietorship was not determined by the civil court. So far as regards the first portion of the section.

As to the latter part of the section, where the superior and under-tenant were disputing the question of the perpetual nature of the tenure or the fixity of its rent, he presumed that the party who was cast by the commissioners might go to the civil court to determine whether he held at a fixed rent or not, and on that being decided in his favor, he presumed that the decision of the commissioners would cease to have effect; for the party determined by the commissioners to be the proprietor would have to pay the cost of the works, and it might be a question afterwards how far it would be recoverable from the person who ought to have been determined to be the proprietor.

The ADVOCATE-GENERAL said, he thought the difficulty was quite got over by a reference to the concluding words of section 41. The section now proposed to be introduced would come immediately before the 41st section, and would have the effect of empowering the commissioners to determine, for the purposes of this Act, who was to be considered the proprietor of the land. The conclusion that the commissioners might come to on that question, taken in connection with the 41st section, which provided that the determination of the commissioners should not be evidence in any proceeding not under this Act, would in no way affect the question of proprietorship as between the two contending parties, or the question of the perpetual nature of the tenure, or the fixity of its rent. That could only be determined by a civil court; and by the concluding words of section 41 that was left open for determination in the regular way. The object of the proposed section was merely for the more convenient carrying out of the purposes of the Act; it did not decide whether the claim to proprietorship, or the claim to perpetuity, or fixity of rent, was or was not well founded in law: that must be decided by the civil court.

MR. SCHALCH said, he understood from the explanation afforded by the learned Advocate-General that, practically, the decision of the commissioners would cease to have effect, as between the parties, when the question was decided by the civil court: the decision of the commissioners would only be for the purposes of this Act. He had therefore no objection to offer to the proposed section.

MR. ROBINSON said, he did not understand the object of the words in the 11th line of the proposed section, "held immediately from him." There might be an occupier, or an actual cultivator, not holding immediately from the holder of the superior tenure. It appeared to him that some difficulty might arise from the use of the words to which he had referred. There might be a proprietor of a "jote" with a large number of subordinate tenants under him, and difficulties might arise in such a case.

THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said, the difficulty that had been suggested would be entirely got over, if the present section and section 41 were read with the definition of "proprietor of lands." Under the definition "proprietor of lands" was to mean the person having a perpetual tenure or interest at a fixed rate of rent entitling him to immediate occupation of the land, or to the receipt of rent from the ryots, or from a tenant holding directly from him under a temporary lease. If there was a person who came forward and said he was the last in order of tenure-holders having a tenure with a perpetual interest and fixity of rent, then the section provided that the commissioners might determine that he was the person in the position of a proprietor for the purposes of this Act. It was not to be supposed that a decision under this section in favor of a dur-putneedar or se-putneedar would be complained of by a superior holder, who, if he knew his interest, would be but too glad to acquiesce in the arrangement.

THE PRESIDENT said that if the superior holder admitted the title of the under-tenant and threw on him the duty of paying for the improvement, it was not for the zemindar to dispute it. If the putneedar relieved his under-tenant of the responsibility, what was it to the zemindar whether the jotedar did or did not relieve the putneedar of the burden.

BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said, this section was intended to obviate the difficulty where conflicting mourosee claims were asserted to the same land, and where in making the apportionment it would be difficult to determine which was the rightful holder or proprietor of the jote. But he did not see how it would assist the commissioners in ascertaining, in the first instance, whether the persons who had represented themselves as owners of half the bheel, and given their adhesion to the scheme, were really "proprietors" as defined in the Bill. After the work had been completed, some one might come forward and dispute the legality of the thing on the ground that the works had been undertaken on the votes of persons who had no perpetual interest, and who were not "proprietors" according to the definition in the Act, and the whole proceeding was on that account null and void. It was not at all unlikely that some of the persons whose votes had been taken were not "proprietors;" so that the whole proceeding under the Act might prove to be invalid, and the Government might not have any claim to the refund of the advances that they had made.

THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said, he must explain once more that the object of the section, as he understood it, was not in any way to determine the question whether A or B was proprietor; but all that the section proposed to do was to assess the proprietor who came forward and said—"I am the superior holder and owner as regards perpetuity of tenure and fixity of rent, and, therefore, I claim to be proprietor for the purposes of this Act." It would be impossible to lay down any legislative rule to enable the commissioners to decide in a case where two proprietors came in and one said "I am the 'proprietor,'" and the other said "you are not." Any question of that kind would have to be determined by the civil courts.

Section XLA was then agreed to.

THE PRESIDENT said, the Council had now gone through the settlement of the clauses of this Bill, and although it might not turn out to be as he had before expressed it, such as to hold water for all time, he believed the Bill was as good as the Council could make it at present. He thought that the Bill was as just a one as we could hope to make it, and being an experimental measure it was desirable that we should pass it in some shape, in order that we might have the experience of its working to guide us in the future introduction of a general Bill to be applicable to all the districts in Bengal. If, when the Bill was passed into law, it was found to be defective in any particulars, and that it required amendment and tinkering, why, being passed by this Council, we could amend and tinker it ourselves. It might be a question whether we shall obtain the sanction of the Governor General to this Bill; but there could be no question that if, after the Bill was passed and assented to by the Viceroy, it was found that any reasonable amendments were required in it, there would be no difficulty to obtain sanction to those amendments.

He had been a good deal impressed with the necessity of some such Bill as this being passed as a general measure; for he had learned in the course of last week that in many parts of Bengal there was a good deal of public spirit and a very great inclination on the part of the people to undertake works of this kind which might benefit the community of any part of the country. There were in fact, he was led to believe, parts of Bengal in which the people were anxious to throw off the imputation of slothfulness and inactivity which was made against them in undertaking works of this kind. He would ask leave to read to the Council a petition which had been lately received, and which he had reserved for consideration 'till the proper time arrived. It was a petition addressed to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal from the inhabitants of certain villages in the sub-division of Comercolly in zillah Pubna. The petitioners stated—"That the villages named above are situated in the margins of jheels Kakina, Gazaria, Saibhanga, Niharia, Chorbela, Padmabila, Kulamara, Baghargara, Kaligara. These jheels are very deep, and as they have no outlet, a great part of the said villages remain under water throughout the year, causing great loss and injury to the ryots. A petition having been made to Mr. Beaufort, late magistrate of Pubna, that officer was pleased to cause a canal to be dug for the discharge of the waters of the jheels noted above, and thus remove the sufferings of the people for a time. Owing to their misfortune a portion of the canal in question (about eight rashies in length) has been filled up, and thus an impediment has again stood to the free discharge of water, which has again thrown the ryots into their previous sufferings.

"That the zemindars of the villages named above, though punctual in collecting their rents, are blind to the inconveniences and sufferings of their ryots. Your petitioners, therefore, most humbly pray that your Honor will be graciously pleased to issue orders on the magistrate of Pubna and the deputy magistrate of Comercolly, to cause the excavation of the canal with the object to remove the distress of the ryots who are willing to bear one-half of the cost, provided the other half be realized from the zemindars of the villages."

So these ryots not merely wished to have this improvement, but expressed their willingness to defray half the cost that might be incurred in executing it. That, he thought, was a reasonable petition. He did not intend to assume that the zemindars were really blind to the sufferings of their ryots. All he meant to say was that these were ryots who proposed to deal with the evil they complained of in a practical way by suggesting a remedy and proposing to take on themselves a portion of the burden of the expense. They not only cried to heaven, but were ready to help themselves. Now a petition of this kind seemed to go to confirm what he had heard stated that there was real ground for wishing that a Bill of this sort should be passed which might be applied to other parts of the country.

Perhaps it was also desirable that he should take notice of another petition relating apparently to a part of this Bill, namely, the definition of the word "proprietor", which he understood had been printed and circulated amongst the members of the Council. The petition purported to be a petition of the English and native ryots of Bengal, and was signed by Mr. John Stalkartt on their behalf. He (the President) really did not know what authority Mr. Stalkartt had to represent the English and native ryots of Bengal; but what he said as regards this Bill was—

"That we object to the definition therein recorded of the 'proprietor of lands.' We most humbly beg that it be amended according to the definition laid down in the Hon'ble Court of Directors' letter dated 27th December 1830:

"Para. 3. What we understand by the term recorded proprietor so frequently termed in correspondence is, that among the individuals having a hereditary interest in the soil of the village or other districts, the name of one or more is entered in the Collector's books as persons entitled to engage with Government for the revenue; that the party so engaging is in reality a contractor with Government for a certain amount of revenue."

As far as he understood it, the object of the petitioner was to protest against the term "proprietor" being extended to permanent under-tenants. He thought that the objection was unreasonable, because nothing could be clearer than this, that the persons who would chiefly benefit by improvements in the land was the person who held a permanent tenure, whether as a subordinate tenant or directly from the Government.

The remaining portion of the petition referred to the rent laws which were not now before the Council, and therefore the only expression in that part of the petition which it was necessary to notice was that it was asserted in the last paragraph of the petition—

"We humbly and most respectfully protest against this class legislation. We beg to state that in the passing of the above rent laws the zemindars' and landholders' association, some half a dozen out of the millions of Bengal, were the only people consulted, and not even one single ryot."

He must say, in regard to this, that he had always found great difficulty in ascertaining what the wishes of the ryots, who were the most numerous class, really were. He had been told as regards financial matters that the 'people' would like to get rid of the income tax and pay instead an increased duty on salt; and it occurred to him that perhaps the 'people' alluded to, were those upon whom the income tax fell—a very small minority. However that might be, it was at any rate most desirable to know the feelings and opinions of the humbler members of society, and since the petitioner alleged that only half a dozen persons had been consulted, he should like to know whether any hon'ble member was in charge of this petition, and whether, representing the ryots, he would wish to say anything on the subject.

The preamble and title were then agreed to.

REGULATION OF LODGING HOUSES AT POOREE.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN, in moving that the Bill for the better sanitation of Pooree, and regulation of lodging-houses therein, be further considered in order to the settlement of its clauses, said that, since the last meeting of the Council, a petition had been sent to the Council by a gentleman engaged in missionary labors in Orissa, and the petition, he believed, had been circulated to the Council. He was quite sure that the petition was written with the best possible motives and for a most humane purpose, but he could not find that there was anything in it that could take a practical form in connection with the present Bill. The chief evil that was complained of in the petition was that relating to what are called "pilgrim-hunters," and it was suggested that a check should be put to any and every act of extortion on their part. He did not see what the Council could possibly do in this Bill to prevent that evil; he thought that special legislation for the prevention of the evil could not be devised, so long as the inclinations of the people led them to place themselves in the hands of these men. All that we could do was to provide for the proper treatment of the pilgrims when they arrived at their destination, and this object was secured by the Bill.

The other provision suggested by Mr. Bailey related to the sale of mahaprasad, or holy food sold at the temple. This subject was discussed before, when a Bill similar to the present one was pending, and after much consideration the Council came to the conclusion that it was not desirable to make any provision on that point. Therefore, on the whole, he (Mr. Eden) did not propose to make any change in the Bill in consequence of the receipt of this petition.

The motion was agreed to.

Verbal amendments were made in sections 22 and 39, and in the preamble and title; and, on the motion of the ADVOCATE-GENERAL, the definition of the term "inmate" was struck out as being unnecessary.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 18th instant.

Saturday, the 18th March 1871.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPALITY.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN applied to the President to suspend the rules for the conduct of business to enable him to move that the Bill to amend Act VI. of 1863, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of its clauses.

THE PRESIDENT having declared the rules suspended—

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the above Bill be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of its clauses.

The motion was put and agreed to.

Section I was agreed to with the insertion of the words "resident in Calcutta," after the word "Orissa," in line 15.

Section II was agreed to after the insertion of the words "1st day of June 1871," in the blanks in line 3, as the date for the commencement of the Act.

Section III and the preamble and title were agreed to.

REGULATION OF LODGING-HOUSES AT POOREE.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the Bill for the better sanitation of Pooree and other towns in Orissa, and regulation of lodging-houses therein, be passed.

The motion was put and agreed to.

DRAINAGE OF DISTRICTS.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that the Bill to facilitate drainage in certain districts of Bengal be passed.

The motion was put and agreed to.

THE PRESIDENT said that before adjourning the Council he thought it right to state that on Saturday next he proposed to suspend the rules for the conduct of business in order to give him an opportunity of making a statement regarding the local finances of Bengal. He feared that he should not be in a position to lay before the Council a complete budget of expenditure and income as was desired by the Government of India when certain funds were allotted and placed at the disposal of the local Governments. Looking at the state of things throughout India—seeing that the other local Governments had announced their intentions and had prepared Bills to give effect to their proposals, and as he was afraid that there was a good deal of misapprehension based on an unfounded statement that had been made that it had been found quite unnecessary to impose local taxation to make up the deficit caused by the short assignment, it was desirable that he should take the earliest opportunity of placing the Council in a position to enable them to judge of our financial prospects so far as it was in his power to do so. He should therefore take the opportunity next meeting to lay before hon'ble members such information as he found he was possessed of in regard to these financial matters. He would state in general terms what was the result of the assignments that had been made, what funds we had to meet the expenditure, and how we stood with reference to departmental demands. And he would make suggestions pointing out his view of the shape in which we should have to consider the measures that might be necessary when we entered into a more detailed consideration of the subject in connection with Bills that might possibly be brought before the Council. He therefore adjourned the Council to 11 o'clock on Saturday next, when he would make the above statement.

THE THIRD SCHEDULE.

Convention between Her Majesty and the Emperor of the French relative to the Emigration of Labourers from India to the French Colonies, with an additional article thereto annexed.

Signed at Paris, July 1861.

[Ratifications exchanged at Paris, July 30th, 1861.]

His Majesty the Emperor of the French having made known, by a declaration dated this day (1st July 1861) his resolution to put an end to the recruitment upon the coast of Africa of negro labourers by means of redemption; and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland desiring, in consequence, to facilitate the immigration of free labourers into the French Colonies, their said Majesties have resolved to conclude a Convention destined to regulate the recruitment of such labourers in the British territories in India. For this purpose they have named as their Plenipotentiaries:—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Most Honourable Henry Richard Charles Earl Cowley, Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Emperor of the French;

And His Majesty the Emperor of the French, M. Edouard Antoine Thouvenel, Senator, His Minister and Secretary of State for the Department of Foreign Affairs;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in due form, have agreed upon the following Articles:—

Article I.

The French Government shall be at liberty to recruit and engage labourers for the French Colonies in the Indian Territories belonging to Great Britain, and embark Emigrants, being subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, either in British or French Ports in India, under the conditions hereinafter stipulated.

Article II.

The French Government shall entrust the direction of its operations in every centre of recruitment to an Agent chosen by itself.

Those Agents must be approved by the British Government.

Such approval is assimilated, with regard to the right of granting and withdrawal, to the Exequatur given to Consular Agents.

Article III.

This recruitment shall be effected conformably to the regulations which now exist, or may hereafter be established, for the recruitment of labourers for British Colonies.

Article IV.

The French Agent shall, with regard to the operations of recruitment which are intrusted to him, enjoy for himself and for the persons whom he may employ, all the facilities and advantages afforded to the Recruiting Agents for British Colonies.

Article V.

The Government of Her Britannic Majesty shall appoint in those British Ports where Emigrants may be embarked, an Agent who shall be specially charged with the care of their interests.

In French Ports the same duty with regard to Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall be confided to the British Consular Agent.

Article VI.

No Emigrant shall be embarked unless the Agent described in the preceding Article shall have been enabled to satisfy himself, either that the Emigrant is not a British subject or, if a British subject, that his engagement is voluntary, that he has a perfect knowledge of the nature of his contract, of the place of his destination, of the probable length of his voyage, and of the different advantages connected with his engagement.

Article VII.

The contracts of service, with the exception provided for by section 4 of Article IX, and by section 2 of Article X, shall be made in India, and shall either bind the Emigrant to serve a person designated by name, or to serve a person to whom he shall be allotted by the proper authority on his arrival in the Colony.

Article VIII.

The contracts shall, moreover, make stipulation for:—

1. The duration of the engagement, at the expiration of which the Emigrant shall receive a return-passage to India at the expense of the French Government, and the terms on which it will be competent to him to abandon or renounce his right to a free return-passage.

2. The number of days and hours of work.

3. The wages and rations, as well as the rate of payment for extra work, and all the advantages promised to the Emigrant.

4. Gratuitous medical treatment for the Emigrant except in cases where, in the opinion of the proper Government officer, his illness shall have arisen from his own misconduct.

In every contract of engagement there shall be inserted an exact copy of Articles IX, X, XX and XXI of the present Convention.

ARTICLE IX.

1. The duration of the Immigrant's engagement shall not be more than five years. In case, however, he shall be duly proved to have absented himself from work, he shall be bound to serve a number of days equal to the time of his absence.

2. At the expiration of that period, every Indian who shall have attained the age of ten years at the time of his departure from India, shall be entitled to a return-passage at the expense of the French Government.

3. If he can show that his conduct has been regular, and that he has the means of subsistence, he may be allowed to reside in the Colony without any engagement; but from that time he will lose his right to a free return-passage.

4. If he consents to contract a new engagement, he will be entitled to a bounty, and will retain his right to a return-passage at the expiration of this second engagement.

The right of the Immigrant to a return-passage extends to his wife, and to his children who quitted India under the age of ten years, as well as to those born in the Colonies.

ARTICLE X.

The Immigrant shall not be bound to work more than six days in seven nor more than nine hours and a half a day.

The conditions of task-work and every other kind of regulation for work, shall be freely arranged with the labourer. The obligation to provide, on holidays, for the care of animals and the necessities of daily life, shall not be considered as work.

ARTICLE XI.

In British Ports, the arrangements which precede the departure of the Emigrants shall be conformable to those prescribed by the regulations for the British Colonies.

In French Ports, the Emigration Agent or his deputies shall, on the departure of every Emigrant ship, deliver to the British Consular Agent a nominal list of the Emigrants who are subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, with a description of their persons, and shall also communicate to him the contracts of which he may require copies.

In such case, only one copy shall be given of all contracts of which the provisions are identical.

ARTICLE XII.

In the Ports of embarkation, the Emigrants who are subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall be at liberty, conforming to the regulations of Police relative to such establishments, to leave the depôts, or other place in which they may be lodged, in order to communicate with the British Agents, who, on their part, may at any reasonable hour visit the places in which the Emigrants, subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, are collected or lodged.

ARTICLE XIII.

Emigrants may leave India for the Colonies to the East of the Cape of Good Hope at all times of the year.

For other Colonies they may leave only from the first of August to the fifteenth of March. This arrangement applies only to sailing vessels; vessels using steam-power may leave at any time of the year.

Every Emigrant sailing from India for the Antilles between the first of March and the fifteenth of September, shall receive at least one double blanket over and above the clothing usually allowed to him, and may make use of it so long as the vessel is outside of the Tropics.

ARTICLE XIV.

Every Emigrant vessel must carry an European Surgeon and an Interpreter.

The Captains of Emigrant vessels shall be bound to take charge of any despatch which may be delivered to them by the British Agent at the Port of embarkation for the British Consular Agent at the Port of destination and to deliver it to the Colonial Government immediately after his arrival.

ARTICLE XV.

In every vessel employed for the conveyance of Emigrants subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, the Emigrants shall occupy, either between decks, cabins on the upper deck or in firmly secured and entirely covered in, a space devoted to their exclusive use. Such cabins and space between decks shall in every part have a height of not less than five feet and a half.

No compartment shall take more than one adult Emigrant for every cubic space of seventy-two feet in the Presidency of Bengal and at Chandernagore, and for every cubic space of sixty feet in other French Ports, and in the Presidencies of Bombay and Madras.

An Emigrant above the age of ten years shall count as an adult, and two children from one to ten years of age shall count as one adult.

A place shall be fitted up for a hospital in every Emigrant ship.

ARTICLE XVI.

Each shipment of Emigrants shall include a proportion of women equal to at least one-fourth of the number of men. After the expiration of three years, the numerical proportion of women shall be raised to one-third; after two years more, it shall be raised to one-half; and after a further period of two years, the proportion shall be the same as may be fixed for the British Colonies.

ARTICLE XVII.

The British Agents at the embarkation shall have, at all reasonable times, the right of access to every part of the ship which is appropriated to the use of Emigrants.

ARTICLE XVIII.

The Governors of the French establishments in India shall make such administrative regulations as may be necessary to ensure the complete execution of the preceding stipulations.

ARTICLE XIX.

On the arrival of an Emigrant ship in any French Colony, the Government shall cause to be transmitted to the British Consular Agent any despatches which it may have received for him, together with—

1. A nominal list of all labourers disembarked who are subjects of Her Britannic Majesty.

2. A list of the deaths or births which may have taken place during the voyage.

The Colonial Government shall take the necessary measures to enable the British Consular Agent to communicate with the Emigrants before their distribution in the Colony.

A copy of the "List of distribution" shall be delivered to the Consular Agent.

He shall be informed of all deaths and births which may occur during the period of engagement, as well as of all changes of employer, and of all departures on a return-passage.

Every fresh engagement, or act of renunciation of the right to a free return-passage, shall be communicated to the Consular Agent.

ARTICLE XX.

All Immigrants, being subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, shall, in the same manner as other subjects of the British Crown, and conformably to the ordinary rules of international law, enjoy, in the French Colonies, the right of claiming the assistance of the British Consular Agents; and no obstacle shall be opposed to the labourer's resorting to the Consular Agent and communicating with him; without prejudice, however, to the obligations arising out of his engagement.

ARTICLE XXI.

In the distribution of labourers no husband shall be separated from his wife, nor any father or mother from their children under fifteen years of age. No labourer shall be required to change his employer without his own consent, unless he be transferred to the Government, or to the person who has acquired the property on which he is employed.

Immigrants who may become permanently incapable of work, either by sickness or by any other cause beyond their own control, shall be sent back at the expense of the French Government, whatever time may still be wanting to entitle them to a free return-passage.

ARTICLE XXII.

All operations of immigration may be carried on in the French Colonies by French or British vessels without distinction.

British vessels which may engage in those operations shall be bound to conform to all the measures of Police, health, and equipment which may apply to French vessels.

ARTICLE XXIII.

The labour-regulations of Martinique shall serve as the basis for all the regulations of the French Colonies into which Indian Emigrants, subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, may be introduced.

The French Government engages not to introduce into those regulations any modification, the result of which would be to place the said Indian subjects in an exceptional position, or to impose upon them conditions of labour more stringent than those prescribed by the said regulations.

ARTICLE XXIV.

The present Convention applies to emigration to the Colonies of Ré-union, Martinique, Guadeloupe and its dependencies, and Guiana.

It may hereafter be applied to immigration to other Colonies in which British Consular Agents shall be established.

ARTICLE XXV.

The provisions of the present Convention relative to the Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall apply to the Natives of every Indian State which is under the protection or political control of Her said Majesty, or of which the Government shall have acknowledged the supremacy of the British Crown.

ARTICLE XXVI.

The present Convention shall begin to take effect on the first of September 1861, and shall continue in full force for three years and a half. It shall remain in full force, if notice for its termination be not given in the course of the month of September of the third year, and then notice can be given only in the course of the month of September of each succeeding year.

In case of notice being given for its termination, it shall cease eighteen months afterwards.

Nevertheless the Governor General of British India in Council shall, in conformity with the Act of the 19th of September 1856, relative to immigration to British Colonies, have the power to suspend at any time emigration to any one or more of the French Colonies, in the event of his having reason to believe that in any such Colony proper measures have not been taken for the protection of the emigrants immediately upon their arrival or during their residence therein, or for their safe return to India, or to provide a return-passage to India for any such emigrants at or about the time at which they are entitled to such return-passage.

In case, however, the power thus reserved to the Governor General of British India should at any time be exercised, the French Government shall have the right immediately to terminate the whole Convention, if they should think proper to do so.

But in the event of the determination of the present Convention, from whatever cause, the stipulations relative to Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty introduced into the French Colonies shall be maintained in force in favour of the said Indian subjects, until they shall either have been sent back to their own country, or have renounced their right to a return-passage to India.

ARTICLE XXVII.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Paris in four weeks, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at Paris, the 1st day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

(L. S.) THOUVENEL.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.

His Majesty the Emperor of the French having stated that, in consequence of the order which he gave long ago that no more African Emigrants should be introduced into the Island of Réunion, that Colony has, since last year, had to obtain labourers from India and China; and Her Britannic Majesty having, by a Convention signed on the 25th of July 1860, between Her Majesty and His Majesty the Emperor of the French, authorized the Colony of Réunion to recruit six thousand labourers in her Indian possessions, it is agreed that the Convention of this date shall take effect forthwith, with regard to the said Colony of Réunion.

The present Additional Article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted, word for word, in the Convention signed this day. It shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at the same time as those of the Convention.

AN ACT FOR THE LIMITATION OF SUITS AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the limitation of suits, appeals and certain applications to Courts; And whereas it is also expedient to provide rules for acquiring ownership by possession; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called 'The Indian Limitation Act, 1871:'

Extent of Act.

It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing contained in sections two and three or in Parts II and III applies—

(a) to suits instituted before the first day of April, 1873,

(b) to suits under the Indian Divorce Act,

(c) to suits under Madras Regulation VI of 1831.

Commencement.

This Act shall come into force on the first day of July 1871.

Repeal of enactments.

2. On and from that day the enactments mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the same schedule.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

'minor' means a person who has not completed his age of eighteen years:

'plaintiff' includes also any person through whom a plaintiff claims:

'nusance' means any thing done to the hurt or annoyance of another's immoveable property and not amounting to a trespass:

'bill of exchange' includes also a hundí:

'trustee' does not include a benámidár, a mortgagee remaining in possession after the mortgage has been satisfied, or a wrong-doer in possession without title:

'registered' means duly registered under the law for the registration of documents in force at the time and place of executing the document referred to in the context:

'foreign country' means any country other than British India; and nothing shall be deemed to be done in 'good faith' which is not done with due care and attention.

LIMITATION OF SUITS, APPEALS AND APPLICATIONS.

Dismissal of suits &c. instituted &c. after period of limitation.

4. Subject to the provisions contained in sections five to twenty-six (inclusive), every suit instituted, appeal presented, and application made after the period of limitation prescribed therefor by the second schedule hereto annexed, shall be dismissed, although limitation has not been set up as a defence.

Explanation.—A suit is instituted in ordinary cases when the plaint is presented to the proper officer: in the case of a pauper, when his application for leave to sue as a pauper is filed; and in the case of a claim against a company which is being wound up by the Court, when the claimant first sends in his claim to the official liquidator.

Illustrations.

(a).—A suit is instituted after the prescribed period of limitation. Limitation is not set up as a defence and judgment is given for the plaintiff. The defendant appeals. The appellate court must dismiss the suit.

(b).—An appeal presented after the prescribed period is admitted and registered. The appeal shall, nevertheless, be dismissed.

Proviso where court is closed when period expires.

5. a. If the period of limitation prescribed for any suit, appeal or application expires on a day when the Court is closed, the suit, appeal or application may be instituted, presented or made on the day that the Court re-opens:

Proviso as to appeals and applications for review.

b. Any appeal or application for a review of judgment may be admitted after the period of limitation prescribed therefor, when the appellant or applicant satisfies the Court that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal or making the application within such period;

Different periods of limitation prescribed by local laws.

6. When, by any law not mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed and now or hereafter to be in force in any part of British India, a period of limitation differing from that prescribed by this Act is specially prescribed for any suits, appeals or applications, nothing herein contained shall affect such law.

Appeals from decrees of High Courts on original side.

And nothing herein contained shall affect the periods of limitation prescribed for appeals from, or applications to review, any decree, order or judgment of a High Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction.

Legal Disability.

Legal disability.

7. If a person entitled to sue be, at the time the right to sue accrued, a minor, or insane, or an idiot, he may institute the suit within the same period after the disability has ceased, or (when he is at the time of the accrual affected by two disabilities) after both disabilities have ceased, as would otherwise have been allowed from the time prescribed therefor in the third column of the second schedule hereto annexed.

When his disability continues up to his death, his representative in interest may institute the suit within the same period after the death as would otherwise have been allowed from the time prescribed therefor in the third column of the same schedule.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to extend, for more than three years from the cessation of the disability or the death of the person affected thereby the period within which the suit must be brought.

Illustrations.

(a). The right to sue for the hire of a boat accrues to A during his minority. He comes of age four years after the accrual of the right. He may institute his suit at any time within three years from the date of his coming of age.

(b). A, to whom a right to sue for a legacy has accrued during his minority, attains full age eleven years after such right accrued. A has, under the ordinary law, only one year remaining within which to sue. But under this section an extension of two years will be allowed him, making in all a period of three years from the date of his majority, within which he may bring his suit.

(c). A right to sue for an hereditary office accrues to A, who at the time is insane. Six years after the accrual of the right A recovers his reason. A has six years, under the ordinary law, from the date when his insanity ceased within which to institute a suit. No extension of time will be given him under this section.

(d). A right to sue as landlord to recover possession from a tenant accrues to A who is an idiot. A dies three years after the accrual of the right, his idiocy continuing up to the date of his death. A's representative in interest has, under the ordinary law, nine years from the date of A's death within which to bring a suit. This section does not extend that time.

Disability of one joint creditor.

8. When one of several joint creditors or claimants is under any such disability, and when a discharge can be given without the concurrence of such person, time will run against them all: but where no such discharge can be given, time will not run as against any of them until they all are free from disability.

Continuous running of time.

9. When once time has begun to run, no subsequent disability or inability to sue stops it:

Provided that where letters of administration to the estate of a creditor have been granted to his debtor, the running of the time prescribed for a suit to recover the debt shall be suspended while the administration continues.

Suits against express trustees and their representatives.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, no suit against a person in whom property has become vested in trust for any specific purpose, or against his representatives, for the purpose of following in his or their hands such property, shall be barred by any length of time.

Explanation.—A purchaser in good faith for value from a trustee is not his representative within the meaning of this section.

Suits on foreign contracts.

11. Suits in British India on contracts entered into in a foreign country are subject to the rules prescribed by this Act.

Foreign limitation law.

12. No foreign rule of limitations shall be a defence to a suit in British India on a contract entered into in a foreign country, unless the rule has extinguished the contract, and the parties were domiciled in such country during the period prescribed by such rule.

PART III.

Computation of Period of Limitation.

Exclusion of day on which right to sue accrues.

13. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit, the day on which the right to sue accrued shall be excluded.

Exclusions in case of appeals and certain applications.

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for an appeal, an application for leave to appeal as a pauper, an application to the High Court for the admission of a special appeal, and an application for a review of judgment, the day on which the judgment complained of was pronounced, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree, sentence or order appealed against or sought to be reviewed, shall be excluded

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for an application to set aside an award, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the award shall be excluded.

Exclusion of time of defendant's absence from British India.

14. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit, the time during which the defendant has been absent from British India shall be excluded, unless service of a summons to appear and answer in the suit can, during such absence, be made under the Code of Civil Procedure, section sixty.

Exclusion of time of suing bonâ fide in Court without jurisdiction.

15. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit, the time during which the plaintiff has been prosecuting with due diligence another suit, whether in a Court of first instance or in a Court of appeal, against the same defendant or some person whom he represents, shall be excluded, where the last-mentioned suit is founded upon the same right to sue, and is instituted in good faith in a Court which from defect of jurisdiction, or other cause of a like nature, is unable to try it.

Explanation 1.—In excluding the time during which a former suit was pending, the day on which that suit was instituted, and the day on which the proceedings therein ended, shall both be counted.

Explanation 2.—A plaintiff resisting an appeal presented on the ground of want of jurisdiction, shall be deemed to be prosecuting a suit within the meaning of this section.

Exclusion of time during which commencement of suit is stayed by injunction.

16. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit, the commencement of which has been stayed by injunction, the time of the continuance of the injunction shall be excluded.

Exclusion of time during which judgment-debtor sues to set aside execution sale.

17. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for a suit for possession by a purchaser at a sale in execution of a decree, the time during which the judgment-debtor has been prosecuting a suit to set aside the sale shall be excluded.

Effect of death before right to sue accrues.

18. When a person who would, if he were living, have a right to sue, dies before the right accrues, the period of limitation shall be computed from the time when there is a representative in interest of the deceased capable of suing.

When a person against whom, if he were living, a right to sue would have accrued, dies before the right accrues, the period of limitation shall be computed from the time when there is a representative whom the plaintiff may sue.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to suits for the possession of land or of an hereditary office.

Effect of fraud.

19. When any person having a right to sue has, by means of fraud, been kept from the knowledge of such right or of the title on which it is founded, and where any document necessary to establish such right has been fraudulently concealed, the time limited for commencing a suit,

(a) against the person guilty of the fraud or accessory thereto, or,

(b) against any person claiming through him otherwise than in good faith and for a valuable consideration, shall be computed from the time when the fraud first became known to the person injuriously affected thereby, or, in the case of the concealed document, when he first had the means of producing it or compelling its production.

Effect of acknowledgment in writing.

20. a. No promise or acknowledgment in respect of a debt or legacy shall take the case out of the operation of this Act, unless such promise or acknowledgment is contained in some writing signed, before the expiration of the prescribed period, by the party to be charged therewith or by his agent generally or specially authorized in this behalf.

b. When such writing exists, a new period of limitation, according to the nature of the original liability, shall be computed from the time when the promise or acknowledgment was signed.

c. When the writing containing the promise or acknowledgment is undated, oral evidence may be given of the time when it was signed. But when it is alleged to have been destroyed or lost, oral evidence of its contents shall not be received.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of this section, promise or acknowledgment may be sufficient, though it omits to specify the exact amount of the debt or legacy, or avers that the time for payment or delivery has not yet come, or is accompanied by a refusal to pay or deliver, or is coupled with a claim to a set-off, or is addressed to any person other than the creditor or legatee;

but it must amount to an express undertaking to pay or deliver the debt or legacy or to an unqualified admission of the liability as subsisting.

Explanation 2.—Nothing in this section renders one of several partners or executors chargeable by reason only of a written promise or acknowledgment signed by another of them.

Illustrations.

Z, a bond-debtor, himself writes a letter promising to pay the debt to his creditor A. Z affixes his seal, but does not sign the letter:

Z pays part of the debt and promises orally to pay the rest:

Z publishes an advertisement, requesting his creditors to bring in their claims for examination:

In none of these cases is the debt taken out of the operation of this Act.

Effect of payment of interest as such.

21. When interest on a debt or legacy is, before the expiration of the prescribed period, paid as such by the person liable to pay the debt or legacy, or by his agent generally or specially authorized in this behalf, or when part of the principal of a debt is, before the expiration of the prescribed period, paid by the debtor or by his agent generally or specially authorised in this behalf, a new period of limitation, according to the nature of the original liability, shall be computed from the time when the payment was made:

Effect of part-payment of principal.

Provided that, in the case of part-payment of principal, the debt has arisen from a contract in writing and the fact of the payment appears in the handwriting of the person making the same, on the instrument, or in his own books, or in the books of the creditor.

Effect of substituting or adding new plaintiff or defendant.

22. When, after the institution of a suit, a new plaintiff or defendant is substituted or added, the suit shall, as regards him, be deemed to have commenced when he was so made a party:

Proviso where original plaintiff dies.

Provided that, when a plaintiff dies, and the suit is continued by his representatives in interest, it shall, as regards them, be deemed to have commenced when it was instituted by the deceased plaintiff:

Proviso where original defendant dies.

Provided also, that, when a defendant dies, and the suit is continued against his representatives in interest, it shall, as regards them, be deemed to have been commenced when it was instituted against the deceased defendant.

Computation where there are successive breaches of contract.

23. In the case of a suit for the breach of a contract, where there are successive breaches, a fresh right to sue arises, and a fresh period of limitation begins to run, upon every fresh breach; and where the breach is a continuing breach, a fresh right to sue arises, and a fresh period of limitation begins to run, at every moment of the time during which the breach continues.

Computation where the breach is continuing.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to suits for the breach of contracts for the payment of money by instalments, where, on default made in payment of one instalment, the whole becomes due.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A contracts to pay an annuity to B for his life by quarterly instalments. A fails to pay any of the instalments. Here upon every fresh failure, a fresh right to sue arises and a fresh period of limitation begins to run; and this Act may bar the remedy on the earlier breaches without affecting the remedy on the later breaches.

(b.)—A, a tenant, covenants with B, his landlord, to keep certain buildings in repair. At every moment of the time during which the buildings continue out of repair and B retains his right of entry, a fresh right to sue arises and a fresh period of limitation begins to run.

Continuing nuisance.

24. In the case of a continuing nuisance a fresh right to sue arises, and a fresh period of limitation begins to run, at every moment of the time during which the nuisance continues.

Illustration.

A diverts B's watercourse. At every moment of the time during which the diversion continues and B retains his right of entry, a fresh right to sue arises and a fresh period of limitation begins to run.

Suit for compensation for act becoming unlawful.

25. In the case of a suit for compensation for an act lawful in itself, which becomes unlawful in case it causes damage, the period of limitation shall be computed from the time when the damage accrues.

Illustration.

A owns the surface of a field. B owns the subsoil. B digs coal thereout without causing any immediate apparent injury to the surface, but at last the surface subsides. The period of limitation runs from the time of the subsidence.

Computation of time mentioned in instruments.

26. All instruments shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be made with reference to the Gregorian calendar.

Illustrations.

(a).—A Hindú makes a promissory note bearing a Native date only, and payable four months after date. The period of limitation applicable to a suit on the note runs from the expiry of four months after date computed according to the Gregorian calendar.

(b).—A Hindú makes a bond, bearing a Native date only, for the repayment of money within one year. The period of limitation applicable to a suit on the bond runs from the expiry of one year after date computed according to the Gregorian calendar.

PART IV.

Acquisition of Ownership by Possession.

Acquisition of right to easements.

27. Where the access and use of light or air to and for any building has been peaceably enjoyed therewith, as an easement, and as of right, without interruption, and for twenty years, and where any way or watercourse, or the use of any water, or any other easement (whether affirmative or negative) has been peaceably and openly enjoyed by any person claiming title thereto as an easement and as of right, without interruption, and for twenty years, the right to such access and use of light or air, way, watercourse, use of water, or other easement, shall be absolute and indefeasible.

Each of the said periods of twenty years shall be taken to be a period ending within two years next before the institution of the suit wherein the claim to which such period relates is contested.

Explanation.—Nothing is an interruption within the meaning of this section, unless where there is an actual discontinuance of the possession or enjoyment by reason of an obstruction by the act of some person other than the claimant, and unless such obstruction is submitted to or acquiesced in for one year after the claimant has notice thereof and of the person making or authorizing the same to be made.

Illustrations.

(a).—A suit is brought in 1871 for obstructing a right of way. The defendant admits the obstruction but denies the right of way. The plaintiff proves that the right was peaceably and openly enjoyed by him claiming title thereto as an easement and as of right, without interruption, from 1st January 1850 to 1st January 1870. The plaintiff is entitled to judgment.

(b).—In a like suit also brought in 1871 the plaintiff merely proves that he enjoyed the right in manner aforesaid from 1848 to 1868. The suit shall be dismissed, as no exercise of the right by actual user has been proved to have taken place within two years next before the institution of the suit.

(c).—In a like suit the plaintiff shows that the right was peaceably and openly enjoyed by him for twenty years. The defendant proves that the plaintiff on one occasion during the twenty years had asked his leave to enjoy the right. The suit shall be dismissed.

Exclusion in favour of reversioner of servient tenement.

28. Provided that, when any land or water upon, over or from which any easement (other than the access and use of light and air) has been enjoyed or derived has been held under or by virtue of any interest for life or any term of years exceeding three years from the granting thereof, the time of the enjoyment of such easement during the continuance of such interest or term, shall be excluded in the computation of the said last mentioned period of twenty years, in case the claim is, within three years next after the determination of such interest or term, resisted by the person entitled, on such determination, to the said land or water.

Illustration.

A sues for a declaration that he is entitled to a right of way over B's land. A proves that he has enjoyed the right for twenty-five years; but B shews that during ten of these years C, a deceased Hindú widow, had a life interest in the land, that on C's death B became entitled to the land, and that within two years after C's death he contested A's claim to the right. The suit must be dismissed, as A, with reference to the provisions of this section, has only proved enjoyment for fifteen years.

Extinguishment of right to land or hereditary office.

29. At the determination of the period hereby limited to any person for instituting a suit for possession of any land or hereditary office, his right to such land or office shall be extinguished.

Amount to be apportioned after one month.

XXVI. XXVIII. The cost of any land or other property taken or used for any works executed under the provisions of this Act, and compensation payable for injury or loss caused by anything done under the provisions of this Act, save as is provided in Section XIX, and the expense attending the acquisition of such land or other property, and of ascertaining the value thereof and the amount of compensation, and the cost of all surveys and plans and of all notices and of all other expenses incidental thereto shall be included in the cost of such works.

Notice to be given before assessment.

XXIX. Before assessing such contribution, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served on each of the zemindars of estates which in the opinion of the Collector will derive benefit from the works aforesaid. Every such notice shall state the nature of the works, and that lands situate in the estate of such zemindar will derive benefit from the execution of the works, and shall give him notice that an enquiry will be held, at a day and place to be named, for the purpose of apportioning, amongst the persons whose estates will be benefited by such works, the cost thereof according to the proportionate amount of such benefit.

Cost of maintenance of works to be borne by owners rateably.

XXX. When estates, the property of different zemindars, shall, in the opinion of the Collector, derive protection from the maintenance or repairs of any works executed or taken charge of or kept up under the provisions of this Act or any of the Acts repealed by this Act, it shall be lawful for the Collector to charge the expenses of such maintenance and repairs upon the zemindars of the estates so deriving such benefit rateably in the proportion of the benefit derived by such estates respectively.

Proportion of cost of maintenance.

XXXI. The respective contribution of such zemindars for such maintenance and repairs shall be in the proportion in which such zemindars respectively shall have contributed to the construction in case such proportion shall have been determined under the provisions of this Act; but in case such proportion shall not have been so determined, the Collector shall determine the proportion to be paid by each of such zemindars according to the provisions of this Act for the determination of the contributions of such zemindars to the construction, alteration, or extension of such works.

Mode of enquiry as to the proportion chargeable to each estate.

XXXII. On the day fixed in the notice mentioned in Section XXIX, which shall not be less than one month later than the date of service of such notice, the Collector shall proceed to make the necessary enquiry for the determination of the proportion in which the estate affected by the construction, extension, or alteration, maintenance, or repairs of the works, will be charged therefor. In making this enquiry he shall receive such evidence as may be tendered by or on behalf of the zemindars of estates which may appear likely to be benefited by the construction, extension, or alteration, maintenance or repairs of the works as aforesaid, and by or on behalf of any other persons who may claim to be interested in the said enquiry.

No appeal from Collector's award.

XXXIII. The Collector shall and may, after such enquiry, make an award in which he shall find and state the names of the zemindars whose estates will be or are benefited by the construction, alteration, extension, maintenance, or repairs of such works and the proportion of the cost thereof, and of the expense of the said enquiry which they ought respectively to bear. No appeal shall lie from the award of the Collector.

Collector to serve notice of sum payable.

XXXIV. It shall be lawful for the Collector to serve a notice upon the zemindar of an estate, the proportion of cost and expense chargeable against which shall have been determined under the provisions heretofore contained; and in case such proportion shall not be paid within one month after the service of such notice, the Collector shall make an order setting forth the amount so apportioned, and thereby require the person named therein to pay such amount.

Sums payable to be recovered as arrears of revenue.

XXXV. Every sum to be payable by any person under any order made by the Collector under the provisions of this Act, if the same be not paid within one month from the day upon which the same is payable under such order, shall be recoverable from such person with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum as a demand recoverable as arrears of revenue of the estate in respect of which such sum may be payable.

Provided that in such suit no more shall be recovered from any person than the amount to which he ought to have been assessed where he has not been required to contribute, or the amount by which the sum he was required to pay was less than his fair proportion where he has been required to contribute.

Power to recover contribution from subordinate proprietors.

XXXVII. Every zemindar of an estate charged with any sum under the provisions aforesaid, and every owner of any tenure or interest in lands whether lakhiraj or not liable to pay any sum under the provisions of this section, may, after he shall have paid such sum, recover from any person from time to time holding immediately from him a perpetual tenure or interest at a fixed rent of any portion of the lands protected by the works in respect of which such payment may be made, or from any person holding or claiming to hold a lakhiraj tenure of any portion of such lands included within the boundaries of such estate such sum as shall bear to the entire payment the same proportion as the area of the lands of such person protected by such works bears to the area of the entire lands of such proprietor protected by such works.

Proprietors to recover proportion of payment from subordinate tenants.

XXXVIII. Every zemindar or other proprietor of lands who shall have paid any sum under the provisions aforesaid may recover from any person at the time of the commencement of this Act holding immediately from him any temporary lease or other subordinate tenure not being perpetual or not being at a fixed rate of rent of any portion of the lands protected by the works in respect of which such payment may have been made in case such payment shall have been made in respect of maintenance or repairs of such works such sum as shall bear to the entire payment the same proportion as the area of the lands of such person protected by such works bears to the area of the entire lands of such zemindar or other proprietor protected by such works, and in case such payment shall have been made in respect of the construction, alteration, or extension of such works an annual sum calculated at the rate of ten per cent. per annum upon such sum. Such annual sum to be payable by equal instalments upon the days appointed for the payment of the rent of such tenure, and to be recoverable as if the same were an arrear of rent.

Proportion to be recovered by mesne tenants.

XXXIX. RIVERS THOMPSON,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The following Order issued by the Government of India, in the Financial Department, is republished for general information :—

No. 1791.—Notification.—Accounts.—Fort William, the 23rd March 1871.—The following Despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India is published for general information :—

FINANCIAL. INDIA OFFICE;
No. 59. London, the 23rd February 1871.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD,—I have considered in Council your Financial letter dated the 14th December 1870, No. 265, transmitting for my approval copy of a Resolution passed by your Government with the view of enlarging the powers of the several Governments of Presidencies and Provinces in certain Departments of the Administration.

2. Hitherto the Government of India has exercised a direct control over all the Departments of the several Governments. It has been responsible for their efficiency, and has had to provide the necessary funds to meet the expenditure.

3. You are now satisfied that, under that system, the Local Governments, although deeply interested in the welfare of the people confided to their care, are liable, in their anxiety for administrative progress, to allow too little weight to fiscal considerations, through not knowing the requirements of other parts of India; and that the Supreme Government, which is responsible for the general financial safety, has been obliged to reject many demands deserving of encouragement.

4. You also consider that the Supreme Government is not in a position to deal satisfactorily with local requirements, and does not possess the knowledge necessary for the full and successful development of local resources.

5. Impressed with these views, and in order to avoid conflicts of opinion injurious to the public interests, which have resulted from the existence of an ill-defined responsibility, you propose to entrust to the several Governments of Presidencies and Provinces the general control of the following branches of the Administration, viz. :—

Jails,
Registration,
Education,
Medical Services (other than Medical Establishments), Printing,
Roads,
Miscellaneous Public Improvements, and Civil Buildings,

allotting for the annual expenditure connected therewith permanent imperial assignments (Local Funds being excluded) amounting to 4,688,711*l*.. which is 330,801*l*. less than the sum allowed for the expenditure of the same Departments in the year 1870-71.

6. Those assignments will not henceforward be classified in the Imperial Estimates and Accounts, but will appear under the single head of "Provincial Services." Each Local Government will publish its yearly estimates and accounts in the local "Gazette," with a financial exposition, analogous to that annually made in the Legislative Council of the Governor General, and it will rest with the several Governments to provide for the growing wants of the country in the Departments entrusted to them, and to consider how any deficiency in the ways and means available for provincial services can best be supplied.

7. You have laid down certain conditions in regard to the creation or abolition of appointments, increases of salary, deposits of money, and services rendered to other Departments, which are not to be altered without the previous sanction of the Government of India.

8. I am fully sensible of the great importance of extending the powers and responsibility of the several Governments in regard to Departments which can be regarded as local, and of the anxious deliberation which you have given to this subject.

9. After a careful consideration of your several propositions, I approve of the principles which you have laid down, and I see no reason to doubt the expediency of the arrangements which you have proposed.

10. The great objects to be kept in view in relation to each of the specified branches of local administration are, to secure the greatest degree of economy consistent with efficiency, to provide for the growing demands arising out of improved administration without materially increasing the burdens of the people, and, as far as possible, to secure the general concurrence of the local communities in the measures taken on their behalf.

11. I am especially anxious that, when devising measures of improvement, it should be the earnest endeavour of each Local Government to provide the funds required for them by the exercise of strict economy in their general expenditure, and that additional taxation should only be resorted to in cases of undoubted necessity, and when the income otherwise available is clearly insufficient.

12 It is obvious that the degree of success that will attend this extension of the powers of the Local Governments will greatly depend on the discretion with which those powers are exercised, and I entertain no doubt that the several Governments will fully appreciate the importance of the trust confided to them.

13. The measures adopted will, I conclude, be reported to me by the Governments of Madras and Bombay, so far as relates to matters under their control, and by your Government in regard to the administration of Bengal and the remaining Provinces.

14. The arrangements as now proposed are necessarily experimental, and will be subject to revision, either in principle or detail, should experience show that such a course is necessary.

I have, &c.,

ARGYLL.

1. Consignees must provide coolies for loading carts.

2. The rate for unloading into boats will be one-third of the landing charges. No cargo will be allowed to be put into boats if it is to be landed on the Calcutta bank of the river between Chitpore Canal and Tolly's Nullah. For rails and iron sleepers, the charge will be one-sixth of the landing charges; but vessels discharging into boats under this rule may, after 24 hours' notice in writing, be required to haul out to moorings in the stream if the Commissioners require the jetty. Any vessel remaining at the jetty after the expiration of the 24 hours will be charged Rs. 50 per day for every day or part of a day she may continue to occupy such jetty.

3. Every ship unloading at the jetties will be charged Rs. 10 per diem, if moored at a single crane, and Rs. 20 per diem if moored at a double crane jetty.

4. No charge for wharf rent will be made until the third day after landing; e.g., goods landed on Monday will be liable to wharf rent if removed before Wednesday evening.

5. Damaged goods for which a claim is brought against the ship, will not be charged wharf rent until the fourth day after landing, provided notice of survey is given to the jetty superintendent within 48 hours after the goods have been received from the ship.

By order of the Commissioners,

W. Duff Bruce,
Vice-chairman.

Results of the Harvest in Orissa.

From T. E. RAVENSHAW, ESQ., Commissioner of the Orissa Division, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department,—(No. 1233, dated Cuttack, the 10th March 1871.)

WITH reference to your No. 4974 of 22nd December 1870, I have the honor to submit the following general information regarding the results of the harvest in Orissa.

2. Cuttack district.—The collector reports: "Taking first the Jajepore sub-division. From a line drawn through the western portion of pergunnah Dolegram to the river Brahminee, in pergunnah Kalamatia, the whole country to the east of this line—and it is not an inconsiderable portion—has reaped an exceedingly good average crop of sarud. This I have learnt from sources quite independent of those from which the deputy collector derived his information. To the west of the above line, particularly as regards the northern portion of the sub-division, the crop has not been so good, as the land is higher, and the deficiency of the rainfall in the early part of the season was most felt. Thus in Shurgurrah, Mudhupur, Olas, the western part of Durpun and Kulkullah, there has been undoubtedly some loss. It might at the highest be put down at from 5 to 6 annas. In Kalamatia, Burroa, Ultee, Bargong, the southern portion of the tract above alluded to, a very fair crop, indeed, has been reaped. I have passed through this and spoken to some of the principal zemindars on the subject. As they are satisfied, and the ryots have no complaints, one may feel quite confident there is little to complain of.

"Kendraparah sub-division.—I have gone over a considerable portion of this, and am satisfied that the crop has throughout been very fair. In Ooteekun the naib of the zemindar tells me it was good both in the estate which he has charge of and in the neighbourhood. In the whole of the country to the north of the Kendraparah the crop has also been satisfactory. This part used to suffer excessively from the Brahminee and Noona floods, which used to meet and submerge the country for days together. The Noona water no longer finds an exit, being restrained by the canal embankment, and the Brahminee bunds have been repaired and throughout the greater portion of the line been put in good order. The country to the south of the Noona has not fared so well; this is neither protected by embankments nor is it commanded by any of the irrigation channels. The deputy collector classes the crop in this portion as fair, and from what I have heard, I agree with him. It was certainly not bad.

"Cuttack sub-division.—Thannah Sallehpore, north of the Noona. The greater part of this is commanded by the canal; and water being available to the extent required, the crop has been a very good one. I have gone over a great part of this country, and all whom I have spoken to agree in the above estimate. In Paindah and Soohang, to the south of the Noona, the crop may also be considered a good 12 annas one.

"Cuttack thannah.—In Daljorra, Tuppunkhund, Domparrah, and a part of Bakrabad, the country being higher and hilly, the outturn has not been so good, and there probably has been as much loss here as in any part of the district; the greater portion of the applications for remissions, which were at one time very numerous, came from this part. The canoongoe estimates the outturn at 10 annas, and taking his figures as correct there is not the slightest doubt that any deficiency here will be amply made up by the good crop in other parts of the district. The peculiarity of the season has been, that the loss in no part has been general: while one estate or one part of an estate suffered, the adjoining one proved much better. In Kodindah and Paindah the outturn may be taken as 11 or 12 annas.

"Juggutsingpore sub-division.—I have not yet been over any part of this sub-division, but from the report of the deputy magistrate the loss throughout the sub-division in the sarud did not certainly exceed on an average 4 annas. From parts of Jhunkur, Khundee, and Teerun, there were at one time many complaints and applications for remission. In these places the loss very likely was considerable; but, as before remarked, it was partial, and in adjoining spots the crop was much better. These three pergunnahs form about the richest rice-producing tract in the district. As a rule, they yield splendid crops. The reason of the numerous complaints may have been that the loss, with reference to the usual outturn, was greater than the ryots were accustomed to. When the Taldundah canal is extended, the whole of this district will be irrigable.

"Taking the whole district, there is no doubt that the sarud crop has been a good 12 annas one. The beali suffered to a greater extent, as the weather in the early part of the season was very unfavorable.

"Had it not been for the unusually late rains, there is no question that the loss in the sarud crop throughout the district would have been very serious.

"As regards the rubbee crop, I can only say that all accounts shew it to be in a favorable state, and this is borne out by what I have myself seen.

"Rice throughout the district is cheap, and there is no indication whatever of any pressure or scarcity.

"Some objections have been taken to the large amount of grain which is disposed of to Madras merchants, and in certain quarters anxiety has been expressed as to the result. In this anxiety I do not at all share; and if I did, I consider it would be most inadvisable to put any restrictions on the sale. The matter is one in which the people must be left to act according to their own judgment: the market is open to all, and all can make their own provision. Rice was selling in Uteekun, Kunika, and that part of the country, at 40 seers (Balasore weight per rupee)—a cheaper rate than this could not be well wished for. Had it been higher (i. e., dearer), it would have been much more profitable to the cultivators. These, in the whole of the eastern tract, look in a great measure to the Madras merchants for a market in which to dispose of their grain. To deprive them of this market, that other people in the district might have rice at a cheaper rate later in the season, would be an exceedingly unfair measure. To pay their rents the ryots must dispose of their surplus grain; they cannot, as a rule, afford to keep it till late on in the season, on the chance of high prices prevailing. If, therefore, there was any chance of scarcity, the merchants in the interior of the district ought to compete with the Madras merchants at the proper season. I do not, however, myself anticipate that there will be any deficiency."

3. I concur in the opinion expressed by the collector, that the crop is of very fair average, and the general prospects of the season such as to call for no further anxiety.

4. The latest quotations of prices in Cuttack market are—

	Seers.
Cuttack ...	... 21
Jajepore ...	... 37
Kendraparah ...	... 40
Juggutsingpore	... 35

5. Pooree district.—The collector gives the following information:—

"In considering the results of the late harvest, it will be convenient to break up the district into groups of pergunnahs in the following manner:—

"(a.)—Eastern pergunnahs, viz. Marichpore, Astrang, Tepeh Kanaman, Domarkhand, Kodhar, Kurlo, Athias, Banchas, Antarodh, Matkatpatna, and with these should be taken the east and south portions of the large pergunnah Kothdes, and the pergunnahs Purubduai and Paschimduai, though they geographically belong to the second group.

"(b.)—Central pergunnahs, viz. part of Kothdes and Koterahang.

"(c.)—Pergunnah Lembai and the khas mehals, viz. pergunnahs Rahan, Chowbeescood, and Sirai.

"(d.)—The country between the Chilka and the sea, viz. pergunnahs Andhari, Manikpatna, Satpara, Paricood, Malood, and Bajrakot.

"(e.)—The Khoordah sub-division.

"In the first named section of the district, the rice crop has been good in some parts, and fair throughout; the average yield being three-fourths of an ordinary full crop. In Marichpore the rice crop is said to be fifteen-sixteenths, but a considerable portion of that pergunnah is taken up by rivers and jungles. In all these pergunnahs the crop seems to be over ten-sixteenths. The cold-weather crops have failed in parts; but taking them altogether, the outturn may probably be half or more. The condition of the country is allowed to be good, and some exportation of rice is going on.

"In the second section there was a partial failure of the rice as well as of the cold-weather crops; but for the whole of it the outturn is not less than half, while it may be ten-sixteenths of rice. In some parts the loss must have been rather severe, but there is no reason to suppose that there is any actual scarcity of food; the price of rice in particular being low in some parts, and not very high anywhere.

"In the third section, pergunnah Lembai, concerning which there was a good deal of apprehension, has enjoyed the best crops; the rice crop being from ten-sixteenths to three-fourths, and the cold-weather crops having not been very bad. In Rahang and Chowbeescood the rice crop is estimated to be over ten-sixteenths, and the price is low. In pergunnah Serai the average outturn may be as much, but some parts of it were irretrievably damaged before the late rains came, and the cold-weather crops suffered severely when they did come. Still rice is selling at over 30 seers for the rupee, and pulse at 18 seers; so that there can be no actual scarcity of food, and though some remissions will be necessary, I doubt whether they will be much in excess of ordinary years.

"The rice crop of the fourth section is said to be eleven-sixteenths of a full average one; it is selling pretty cheaply, and the condition of the people appears to be good. The people of this part have of course benefited greatly by the reintroduction of salt manufacture in Satpara and Goorbai.

"The condition of Khoordah is fully described in Mr. Taylor's report, a copy of which is enclosed, and I can add nothing to the information he has given as to the outturn of the harvest and the loss which has been sustained in certain villages. The present list of the latter shews how necessary it was to provide work for their inhabitants.

"All the villages of the Khoordah khas mehal have been visited by the tehsildar, Baboo Bhagbut Mahantee, or by his naib tehsildar. The result of their inquiries, of the canoongoe's reports, and of my own observations, is as follows:—

"In zillah Bulbhuderpore paddy crops have suffered from drought and locusts to the extent of ... ... $\frac{6}{16}$

"In zillahs Manikagoda, Pauchgurh, and Haldia, the loss has been ... $\frac{9}{16}$

"In zillahs Khoordah and Dandimal, and the outlying villages in the Mogulbundi, the failure amounts to ... ... $\frac{4}{16}$

"In Kuspulla and Ramessur, the losses were ... ... $\frac{8}{16}$

"And in zillah Kubeedi and Banpore the average loss of paddy crops is only ... $\frac{1}{16}$

"The outturn of the paddy harvest in the sub-division may be safely calculated at twelve-sixteenths of a full average crop—a result which could scarcely have been hoped for at the beginning of October last, but which has been brought about by the extraordinary late rains in October and November. Although the general result is so satisfactory, individual villages, where the lands are high or badly irrigated, have suffered very severely, as will be seen from the annexed list of those villages in which the loss on the paddy crops has exceeded half the crop.

"The list gives the names of 161 villages in which there has been a failure of over eight-sixteenths of the paddy crops. These villages are distributed as follows:—

In zillah	Dandimal	52 villages.
„	Banpore	26 „
„	Bulbhuderpore...	20 „
„	Pauchgurh	13 „
„	Ramessur	12 „
„	Manikagoda	10 „
„	Kuhudi	4 „
„	Kuspulla	1 „
„	Tapang	1 „
„	Mogulbundi	1 „
	Total ...	161 villages.

"Of these villages—

4	villages have lost	the whole crop.
6	„ „	$\frac{14}{16}$ of the crop.
38	„ „	$\frac{13}{16}$ ditto.
19	„ „	$\frac{12}{16}$ ditto.
30	„ „	$\frac{11}{16}$ ditto.
60	„ „	$\frac{10}{16}$ ditto.
4	„ „	$\frac{9}{16}$ ditto.

"The four villages noted as having lost the whole crop are only of small extent.

"Of rubbee and high land crops, the arhar, kallai, kulthi, and mandia, have turned out well. The rasi or teel and cotton crops suffered to the extent of eight-sixteenths from the late rains. The moong and chana lately sown promise well. The castor crop is also expected to yield well, and the sugarcane, which is grown in patches all over the district, has turned out fairly; part having been cut and part being still on the ground.

"Of vegetables and fruit, the boigan crop has been a good one, and the mango trees, of which there are countless numbers all over the estate, have blossomed splendidly. There has been very little fog to destroy the blossom, and if a few light showers of rain fall within the next month, the mango crop will be an extraordinarily good one, and will afford food to thousands of persons.

"The high and low lands on the Khoordah estate are fairly distributed, and lands on which the crops have suffered heavily are always in the immediate vicinity of other lands on which the crops have been good. There is therefore no part of the sub-division where the price of food is high, but export of paddy and other grains is going on both to the south and towards Cuttack, and the traders from the south offer higher prices for grain than can be obtained in the district, and prices are in consequence rising.

"Work on tanks, irrigation bunds, and roads, has been provided in different parts of the district at which those who are too poor to purchase food can obtain wherewithal to do, and I have no fear that any portion of the people will starve. Distress, of course, there is and always will be amongst a people so lazy and careless for the morrow as the Khoordah ryots; but anything like famine is, I hope, now impossible.

"I have now visited every part of my sub-division excepting Pauchgurh, Kuspullah, and Bulbhuderpore, and have nowhere seen anything like a starving people. Even the few families of kangals left in the pauper village near Darotang are fat and healthy, although they have had no crop whatever, for they make a fair subsistence by selling firewood in Cuttack, and they nearly all wish to return to their old houses and to their castes, to do which they must have money. Common beggars even are not often seen in the sub-division."

The prices of grain, as shewn by the latest reports, are as follows:—

	Rice per rupee.	Moong per rupee.	Birhi per rupee.	Arhar per rupee.
	Balasore weight of 80 tolas.	Balasore weight of 80 tolahs.	Balasore weight of 80 tolahs.	Balasore weight of 80 tolahs.
Khoordah	30 seers ...	19½ seers ...	19½ seers ...	20 seers.
Kuspulla	33½ „ ...	20 „ ...	20½ „ ...	20 „
Banpore	35 „ ...	18½ „ ...	18½ „ ...	18½ „
Ramessur	30 „ ...	17½ „ ...	20 „ ...	25 „

6. The condition of both Pooree proper and parts of Khoordah is better than was anticipated. This improved state of affairs is entirely due to exceptionally late rain. As it is, no less than 161 villages in Khoordah have sustained losses of crops varying from nine-sixteenths to total. I believe, however, no man will starve. The village works of improvement already sanctioned are being carried out, and I shall watch their progress carefully.

7. The latest quotation of prices of rice are, in Pooree, 30 seers 3 chittacks (Calcutta) per rupee; in Khoordah, 28 seers 14 chittacks.

8. Balasore district.—The collector reports as follows:—

"The outturn of the early and late rice harvests for the whole district may be taken at 15 annas, or a little short of an average harvest. In Nunglessur, Bhuddruck, Basdebpore, and Dolesahi, a full; and in the two latter chuklas something more than a full average harvest has been gathered. In Agarpara, which includes Sosoh, the crop is about three-fourths only of the average.

"There is therefore no cause for anxiety. The grain in stock in the district will suffice to support the population till next harvest, and much more if need be. Exportation is going on freely. The market rates are low, and I have observed no signs of distress or anxiety during my tour.

"The spring crops of vegetables, pulses, and sugarcanes along the banks of the Salundee and Subanarakha rivers, are unusually fine this year.

"The condition of the district in respect of food this year is, I think, as good as it was last year, when above two lakhs of maunds of rice were exported."

9. The season has been generally good, and the harvest sufficient. Latest quotations show rice selling at 34 Calcutta seers per rupee.

10. I append a memorandum showing the exports of grain from Orissa ports during the months of November, December, and January. 2,89,547 maunds of rice left the country, an amount not affecting in any appreciable degree the general food supply.

11. In the surrounding tributary states the outturn of the rice harvest has been nowhere full, and in places short. Pulses, oil-seeds, and sugarcane, are good; the mango crop bids fair to be unprecedented.

List forwarded by the Tehsildar of Khoordah of those villages which have lost more than half the paddy crop of 1870-71.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants.—The figures in column ten represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity.—The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground.—The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.
